ROOSEVELT SWEEPS GEORGIA, 10 TO 1

Red Cross, Legion Join in Succoring Storm Sufferers

Death Toll Rises to 329 as More Bodies Are Recovered From Wreckage Left by Tornadoes in Five Dixie States.

DEATHS IN GEORGIA REACH TOTAL OF 37

Work of Feeding and Housing Victims of Winds Begun in Wake of Disaster

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 23.—(AP)—The grim combat against the suffering and need that follows in the wake of major disasters gathered momentum in the south's tornado devastated areas today under the leadership of the American Red Cross and the American Legion.

Governors of the two states were co-operating in relief efforts and civic bodies assisted private individuals in the burial of the more than 300 dead and care of the thousands left injured and homeless by the storms that struck widely separated communities in Alabama, Georgia, Tennessee, South Carolina and Kentucky last Monday night.

Additional reports trickling in from communities cut off by littered roads and broken communication lines brought the death figure in the five states today to 329. Unofficial estimates placed the injured in excess of 2,500 and the homeless at 7,000.

37 in Georgia.

The deaths were divided by states as follows: Alabama 269; Georgia 37; Tennessee 18; South Carolina 3, and Kentucky 2.

In Alabama, where the greatest death and destruction was wrought, Governor B. M. Miller began a personal inspection tour of the stricken communities. He planned to first visit Chilton county, where more than two score lost their lives. The governor yesterday appealed to the people of the state in a formal proclamation for contributions for the needy.

While rescue crews still searched debris for additional dead relief workers at strategic points were feeding and housing in temporary shelters those made homeless by the storm.

Army tents, cots, blankets, food and clothing have been moved into the several stricken communities by the Alabama national guard, which also mounted guard in Tuscaloosa and Talladega counties to prevent looting. Patrols were established in other centers and trucks were held ready in Montgomery to supply demands.

Relief Headquarters Formed.

Relief headquarters were established here today following arrival of Dr. William De Kleine, general medical adviser of the American Red Cross, and C. Wade Downing, of the Washington office.

C. H. MacFarland, field representative, will be in charge of the office here and Dr. De Kleine will direct medical work. Eight relief centers were designated in the storm areas from which various activities will be in charge of field workers.

Dr. De Kleine left for Northport shortly after his arrival to make a survey of the damage there and will return here tonight.

Following a conference it was announced between $150,000 and $200,000 would be needed to care for the immediate needs of the storm sufferers. An appeal for contributions will be broadcast tonight.

Stone J. Crane, general field representative of the Red Cross, passed through Atlanta today en route to Comer to make a survey of the damage there and in other stricken north Georgia communities. He said Miss Annette McClaren, another Red Cross representative, had gone to Carters-

SENATORS ATTACK STIMSON DEFENSE OF WORLD COURT

BY FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson precipitated a stormy debate in the senate foreign relations committee today with a letter asserting the revised protocol for American adherence to the World Court fully carries out the senate's reservations.

Some committee members promptly contended the cabinet member's declaration regarding the advisory jurisdiction of the court was at variance with previous statements he has made.

Others expressed resentment that the secretary of state had prepared his letter for publication without asking the committee's consent. The letter was given out at the state department.

Heated Discussion.

A heated discussion ended with a decision to ask the secretary again to appear before the committee for questioning. He was unable to testify today because of a slight indisposition.

Tonight the World Court controversy was involved in fresh confusion with the whole dispute centering upon the question whether the revised protocol amply safeguards the senate's reservation of 1926 banning advisory opinions by the court on questions in which this country has, or claims to have, an interest, without the consent of this government.

Mr. Stimson in a lengthy letter to the committee said:

"The protocol fully accepts the five reservations of the senate resolution of 1926, and thereby imposes the jurisdictional restriction upon the World Court as to advisory opinions which was sought by the fifth reservation of the senate.

"Our views as to the necessities and proprieties of judicial procedure have been adopted, and we are offered the opportunity by adherence to throw the great influence of this country into a development of this court along the lines which have made American judicial procedure cherished and famous."

Pittman Hits Declaration.

Senator Pittman, democrat, Nevada, a friend of the court, promptly contended in the committee's executive session that Mr. Stimson's declaration was "an apparent contradiction" of the view he expressed about the revised protocol in a note to President Hoover in 1929.

Senator Johnson, republican, California, a foe of the court, joined in this contention and said the new statement was "at variance" with previous statements of the secretary.

Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, a leader of the court forces, disagreed with Senator Pittman and said he was not able to perceive the "necessary inconsistency" in Mr. Stimson's declarations.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, reiterated his belief that the revised protocol drafted under the leadership of Elihu Root "effects a modification of the senate's reservation in so far as requests for advisory opinions in non-contentious cases are concerned but in my opinion the change is not of great importance."

Senator Moses, republican, New Hampshire, an opponent of the court, termed the Stimson letter "a fine stump speech." He added that "considering the manner in which it came to us and was released for the press, I remarked ti was rather a shabby trick. His statements are diametrically opposed."

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, chairman of the committee, who is against adherence to the court, said:

"Many members of the committee were not satisfied with the secretary's letter. Indeed, it was contended that it led to confusion."

POLICE SHAKE-UP CENTERS ATTACK ON LAMAR POOLE

Charges Expected To Be Filed Against Assistant Chief; Lieutenants Are Shifted; 'Riot Act' Read

First steps in a drastic shake-up of the Atlanta police department were taken Wednesday afternoon by Chief of Police James L. Beavers.

Four of the five lieutenants on the 4 o'clock watch were shifted, following a special meeting of the police committee, and Beavers read the proverbial riot act to officers and patrolmen.

Action of Beavers was regarded as the initial move in a general sweeping revision of the department, in which it is expected charges will be preferred against A. Lamar Poole, first assistant chief of police and chief of detectives; enforced retirement of several others, including Assistant Chief C. P. Connally, and promotion of Beavers' friends, including Detective Lieutenant T. O. Sturdivant to succeed Poole.

There was every indication that older officers of the department will fight any effort to oust them from their positions, and it was predicted that court battles will follow.

Beavers warned lieutenants especially that they have been shirking their duties, that they have left their beats, that they have grumbled and told any of them who will not cheerfully accept the edicts he proposes to issue, to "turn in your uniforms and get out."

Closed Meeting Held.

The ultimatum followed a session of the committee and Beavers behind closed doors from which the public and newspapermen were barred. Even Oscar H. Pendley, secretary of the police committee, was excluded from the session.

All members of the committee, which is headed by Councilman G. Dan Bridges, were present and participated in the animated discussions, which could be seen through the glass door. It was, however, impossible to hear the discussions.

After the committee adjourned, Bridges and other members of the committee asserted they had decided to "back Beavers to the limit."

"We just told him to run this department; that the committee will back any action he takes, and that we will stick behind him in anything he decides to do," Bridges said. "That, in substance, was the result of the meeting."

The committee remained in session for nearly two hours, and Beavers held the center of the stage during virtually the entire proceedings. He declined to say what his plans are. It was denied vehemently that Beavers tendered his resignation or that the matter was discussed, and this appeared to have

Jonas Is Rejected As Carolina Attorney

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Charles A. Jonas was rejected by the senate today as federal attorney for the western district of North Carolina.

The action was taken without a record vote.

He was the first presidential nominee to be rejected by the senate this session.

An adverse report on the nomination was made by the judiciary committee largely on the ground he had assailed the Nye campaign funds investigating committee.

The outcom was made certain just before the vote when Republican Leader Watson announced he could not vote to confirm him.

'Pa' Stribling Hurt In Florida Accident

MIAMI, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—W. L. (Pa) Stribling, father-manager of Young Stribling, of Macon, Ga., was painfully but not seriously injured near Punta Gorda this afternoon when the automobile which he was driving collided with another, both going down an embankment.

Mrs. Edith Stribling, wife of 'Ierbert (Baby) Stribling, son of "Pa" Stribling, also was badly shaken up, as was a negro cook who was riding in their car.

The elder Stribling suffered a badly cut hand and it was thought two of the cook's ribs were broken.

Students Leave for Coal Fields Despite Warning From Kentucky

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Warned at a mass meeting to beware of "Kentucky chivalry," 40 New York students, including 12 women, climbed into busses today and set out for a visit to the coal strike districts of eastern Kentucky, to do "sociological research."

A request for police protection telegraphed ahead to County Attorney Walter B. Smith at Pineville, Ky., brought reply that his "advice to these rattle-brained college students is for them to stay out of eastern Kentucky."

Allen Taub, counsel for the international labor defense, addressing the mass meeting on the Columbia University campus, warned the group to beware of "Kentucky chivalry," and reminded them that Waldo Frank, writer, was beaten and ejected from the state.

Forest Bailey, counsel for the Civil Liberties union, told them they "would be lucky if they stayed out of jail." Joseph Lawson, Kentucky miner, accused mine operators of "starving miners to death and killing their children."

Students from Columbia University, the College of the City of New York, New York University, Hunter College, Union Theological Seminary and Sarah Lawrence College comprised the group. They are to be joined at Knoxville, Tenn., Friday by about 75 students from other colleges, including

District of 'Old Home' Is Solid for Roosevelt

The Roswell district of Cobb county, the home of the mother of Theodore Roosevelt, on Wednesday cast 115 votes for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt in Georgia's preferential primary to none for Judge G. H. Howard, his opponent.

Both Governor Roosevelt, who is a sixth cousin of Theodore Roosevelt and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, who is a niece, visited the "old Bulloch home" at Roswell while on a recent trip to their Warm Springs home.

BANKERS OPPOSE PROPOSED CHANGE IN RESERVE RULES

Glass Measure Draws Criticism of Financiers on Ground It Is "Deflationary."

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The Glass bill designed to restrict the use of federal reserve facilities for speculation was criticized before the senate banking committee today on the ground it contains features "dangerous" to national banks and fraught with possible injury to business.

Asserting that what the financial world needs now is "a rest cure" Harry J. Haas, president of the American Bankers' Association, told the senators enactment of the measure would be "most unfortunate at a time like this when business is trying to get under way."

A provision increasing the interest rate on 15-day loans to federal reserve member banks was assailed by Allan M. Pope, president of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, as "extremely deflationary and dangerous."

The author of the bill and co-author of the present federal reserve law—Senator Glass, of Virginia—challenged the representatives of the two great banking organizations frequently.

Other members of the committee headed by Senator Norbeck, republican, South Dakota, chairman, joined in the questioning and in expounding the complicated 54-page bill.

To the objection that a limitation on the volume of investment securities a bank might hold would force them to throw billions of dollars' worth of them on a depressed market, adding to economic troubles, Senator Glass explained that this applies only to acquisitions made hereafter and not to securities on hand.

Opposition to the bill was based by the bankers on the contention that it is "deflationary" and it was to the sections that were regarded as tending in this direction or toward a tightening of credit that the witnesses directed their attack.

Senator Glass was able to explain away one of the objections advanced by Haas and the latter withdrew it.

Glass corrected Haas' impression that a section limiting the volume of security loans does not restrict the total that a national bank may hold to 15 per cent of its capital and 25 per cent of its surplus but says no more than those percentages may be invested in any one stock.

Haas, who had asserted this would nullify all that had been accomplished by the federal reconstruction measures by forcing banks to throw great quantities of securities on a depressed market, said he had spoken under a misapprehension, but suggested an amendment to clarify the wording.

The American Bankers' Association head also insisted that fear of legislation that may affect their business adversely by restricting their ability to obtain credit might prevent the execution of programs now in contemplation which otherwise might be carried out.

Questioned by Senator Bulkley, democrat, Ohio, he mentioned specifically the automobile industry, which he said is "up in the air."

Garner Eliminated in South, Says Page; Gillen 'Gratified'

Georgia's record-breaking majority for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt Wednesday "is indicative of what will happen in every state in the southeast," said W. E. Page, his personal representative. Page issued a statement, when early returns showed the smashing victory, in which he asserted that the result here had eliminated Speaker John N. Garner as a presidential possibility.

"There is not the least doubt," the Page statement said, "but that in the general election Governor Roosevelt will be swept into the presidential chair just as he has swept the country in the primaries. He is a man of destiny and will go down in history as the most wonderful president since Woodrow Wilson."

Expressing himself as "gratified" with the outcome of the campaign and pledging himself and Judge Howard to the support of Roosevelt when he is nominated, L. Thomas Gillen, of Macon, who managed the Howard campaign, said in a formal statement:

"Our entire purpose was to give the people of Georgia an opportunity to express their preference for democratic nominees for president. In so far as we did that, our campaign achieved its purpose and, therefore, was a success."

Major John S. Cohen, democratic national committeeman, said in a brief statement that he had congratulated Governor Roosevelt "as the next democratic nominee and as the thirty-second president of the United States."

Doubt Removed, Howell Says.

In his statement about the result, Clark Howell, former national committeeman, said:

"The result, of course, is very gratifying to the great host of Georgians who see in Governor Roosevelt and the democratic party agencies to lift the country out of the economic and social morass into which it has been plunged by the republican party.

"The campaign in Georgia was from the very beginning conducted for 'out side' influence. The mere fact that Roosevelt was opposed in Georgia was exploited in New Hampshire, Minnesota and North Dakota to stir up votes against him in these states. How signally that failed is now well-known and the result in Georgia leaves nothing else in doubt."

Statement By Page.

Page said:

"We have simply been deluged with telegrams from all over the state indicating that Governor Roosevelt will sweep the state solid and, at the present time, I do not see a chance for Judge Howard to carry a single county.

"The people of Georgia have expressed themselves in a most forcible manner by going to the polls and voting for Governor Roosevelt and, in so many words, saying to Judge

ROOSEVELT TO WIN ON FIRST BALLOT, VOTES INDICATE

Georgia Sweep, Added to Other Victories, Means Certain Success at Convention, Leaders Say.

BY GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Georgia, as a representative southern state, having added its voice to the rising tide of Roosevelt sentiment already revealed by New Hampshire, in the New England tier of state; North Dakota and Minnesota in the middlewest, and Washington, on the Pacific coast, the first-ballot nomination of the New York governor for the presidency was predicted by his democratic supporters in congress tonight as a certainty as returns from the Georgia preferential primary were relayed to Washington, showing Governor Roosevelt to have won an impressive victory over the proxy candidacy of Speaker of the House Garner, friends of the governor hailed the results as further indicative of the sweeping popularity of the man whom they are convinced is destined to be the next president of the United States.

This, in effect, is the interpretation placed on the Georgia primary today by influential congressional leaders in the Roosevelt camp, including Senator Wheeler, of Montana; Senator Dill, of Washington; Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, and Representative Charles R. Crisp, of Georgia, acting chairman of the house ways and means committee.

Georgia being a representative southern state, the action of Georgia democrats today in piling up a literally amazing majority for Roosevelt was viewed as representing the sentiment for the New York governor in other commonwealths of the section. As the first southern state to hold a presidential preferential primary, its action was held to be no less significant than the recent primary in New Hampshire and North Dakota.

Crisp Delighted.

According to the Roosevelt leaders here, democrats of all sections of the country have now spoken and have been found to be of the same degree of unanimity in the choice of a party standard-bearer. Commenting on the Georgia returns, Representative Crisp said:

"I am certainly delighted to learn that my own state thinks so well of Governor Roosevelt that he is given an overwhelming preference in today's primary. Mr. Roosevelt is the strongest, ablest and most influential member of our party, and I believe that both his nomination and election are assured."

Senator Wheeler, who has been a strong supporter of the New York governor since his name was first mentioned for the presidency, said:

"The latest news from Georgia is just great. Governor Roosevelt's sweep of Georgia is added assurance that he will carry the solid south as well as the west and if he does he won't need some of the eastern states that have been promoting and encouraging a stop-Roosevelt movement. I cannot, for the life of me, see why the democratic party should consider it necessary to look farther for a presidential candidate if the party expects to win next November. His showing in every primary in which he has contended is ample proof that he is warmly admired in every section of the country. I congratulate Georgia on being the leader of the southlands in picking a democratic winner for next November."

Barkley Lauds Roosevelt.

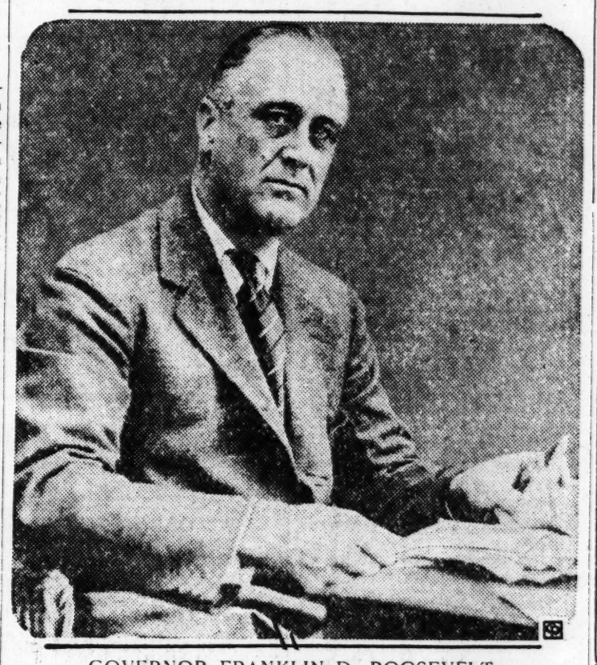

Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, who thinks so well of Governor Roosevelt that he asked his own state not to support him as favorite son, but to instruct its delegation for Roosevelt, said:

"The Georgia primary has again demonstrated the uncanny strength which the New York governor has with the rank and file of Americans. The tremendous advantage which he piled up in the Georgia primary can indicate nothing, if not strength. Georgia is typical of the south, and I believe a vast majority of Dixie wants Roosevelt as their candidate.

"And if he is our candidate, he can-

Governor Roosevelt will go to the Atlanta convention with the entire 410 unit votes of the state, it was indicated Wednesday night with more than 150 counties in the state reporting the New Yorker far out in front in their complete totals, while he was running far ahead in other counties which were not complete in their count. Judge Howard got a little better than one to two in Habersham county, where he made his strongest showing.

In the 152 counties in which the primary was held the unit vote went to Governor Roosevelt and as the party rules declare that the strongest candidate shall get the votes of the counties in which no primary was held it was indicated that the state's entire 410 votes would be for him at the convention.

ROOSEVELT HAPPY OVER GEORGIA VOTE

ALBANY, N. Y., March 23.—(AP)—Georgia—Franklin D. Roosevelt's "other state"—made the New York governor "particularly happy" by the overwhelming vote it cast for him today, he said in a brief statement tonight. He was obviously greatly pleased.

He said: "I am made particularly happy by the Georgia vote, and I deeply appreciate the confidence shown in me by what I have been proud to call 'my other state.'"

BY R. E. POWELL.

His "other state" Wednesday gave Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt the third and most significant primary victory in the advance to the democratic presidential nomination when it piled up for him a vote of ten to one over G. H. Howard, Fulton superior court judge, who had promised to deliver the state's 28 delegates to Speaker John N. Garner, of Texas, if nominated.

Incomplete returns from all of the 155 counties which held primaries received up to a late hour Wednesday night gave Roosevelt 52,843; Howard 5,947. He will receive the county unit votes in the four counties which did not hold primaries by virtue of the fact that he gathered a majority popular vote.

In Fulton, Judge Howard's home county, where the greatest concerted effort for Garner support was made, Roosevelt won by a vote of more than three to one. The popular vote ranged from this ratio to more than 60 to 1 cast for him in Wilkes county. Two counties gave him every vote reported.

The total vote in Fulton was 5,212 for Roosevelt and 1,689 for Howard. In DeKalb, it was 1,151 for Roosevelt and 298 for Howard.

Political leaders in Georgia, including Major John S. Cohen, democratic national committeeman; Clark Howell, former committeeman; Lawrence S. Camp, state chairman; Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., and W. E. Page, the latter Governor Roosevelt's personal representative here, who managed his campaign, acclaimed the Georgia victory and agreed that the New York governor had spec-

BRITAIN TO DEMAND OATH OF IRELAND

Crown To Oppose Abolition of Allegiance and Retention of Annuities.

LONDON, March 23.—(AP)—Great Britain took a decisive stand today against the announced intention of Eamon De Valera, president of the Irish Free State, to abolish the oath of allegiance to the British crown and to withhold payment of the Irish land annuities.

Speaking in the house of commons, J. H. Thomas, secretary for dominions, asserted the oath is an integral part of the treaty which established the Irish Free State 10 years ago, and that payment of the annuities constitutes a bargain between two peoples and England is determined it shall not be violated.

A formal communication to this effect will be sent to Dublin immediately and will be published as soon as possible thereafter.

The Irish treaty provides the form of an oath to be taken by all Free State officeholders. De Valera contends that although the form is stipulated, the treaty does not make an oath mandatory. During the recent Irish campaign, which ended with his election as president, he asserted one of his first official acts would be to abolish the oath.

Source of Annuities.

The land annuities amount to 3,000,000 pounds a year. It is money collected from Irish farmers in repayment of loans made on their behalf so that they could buy out their landlords, when the Free State was set up. Under President Cosgrave the collections were remitted to London. De Valera says he will withhold those payments, although the collections will continue, until England establishes the justice of her claim to the money.

Cheers from most of the members during and after the stern declaration by Mr. Thomas indicated the government has a great majority behind it to support its Irish policy, but George Buchanan, one of the left-wing labor members, interrupted the secretary when he asserted there must be no violation of the Irish treaty with the shout: "Is that a declaration of war?"

There were shouts of protests from the ministerial benches and Buchanan cried as he resumed his seat: "It is a declaration of war, a declaration of war for 3,000,000 pounds."

De Valera's Policy.

There has been no communication from Dublin with regard to the land annuities, Mr. Thomas said, "but judging from statements reported to have been made by Mr. De Valera in the Free State senate, we understand his government proposes to retain the Irish land annuities."

The British government, he declared, considers that the Free State is bound "by the most formal and explicit understanding to continue paying these annuities to the national debt commissioners."

With the policies of both sides thus defined, the attitude in political circles tonight was one of tense expectancy as to the next development.

There was a suggestion in some quarters that the dispute might be referred to the World Court or the League of Nations.

FIANNA FAIL JUBILANT OVER DE VALERA'S ACTION

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, March 23.—(AP)—President De Valera's action in notifying England that the Free State intends to abolish the oath of allegiance and the Irish land annuities has caused jubilation among the fianna fail members of the dail.

There was a divergence of opinion in the press which followed the usual party lines. The Irish Press, a fianna fail organ, said, "We owe no allegiance to the British crown and we will yield none."

The Irish Times, organ of the southern unionists, demanded an immediate session of the dail to meet the "national emergency," and asserted that De Valera had issued a challenge to England to which the reply "must be of the sternest kind."

At the same time there was some concern over the possibility of disorders during the week-end at commemorations of the Easter week uprisings of 1916. Free State troops will be confined to barracks over the week-end.

Trysts With Girl Send Pastor, 47, To Illinois Hospital for Insane

HARRISBURG, Ill., March 23.—(UP)—A jury of physicians and church members found the Rev. Lester G. Beers insane today and ordered him sent to a hospital after he admitted carrying on a love affair with a girl 30 years his junior and quoted scriptures to justify his actions.

"But if any man think that he behaveth himself uncomely toward his virgin, let him do what he will; he sinneth not," the minister read from the First Corinthians as he sought to justify his love affair with Miss Serena Weil, 17.

Action to have the 47-year-old pastor of the Fashionable Hill Methodist church at Belleville declared insane was started by his family after it became known he had met the girl frequently for months, corresponding with her, and bought her many expensive presents.

The principal witness against him was Dr. W. H. Whitlock, superintendent of the East St. Louis district of the Methodist church. Whitlock once prevailed upon Beers to enter a hospital voluntarily. Beers admitted that while in the hospital he received three letters a day from Miss Weil. She called him "Big Boy" and herself "Sugar," he said.

Miss Weil's father recently swore out a warrant for Beers' arrest, charging he violated the Mann act by taking Serena with him on a trip into Kansas and Missouri.

In his testimony today, Beers contended he was not insane and quoted the Bible to justify his action. He said he loved Miss Weil "better than anything in the world" and wanted to marry her. He said also that he loved his wife, "but in a different way."

FILIBUSTER DELAYS VOTE ON 'GLADES PARK

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—A determined filibuster lasting over two hours today forced from a ranking place in the business of the house the Owen bill to establish an Everglades national park.

It was scheduled for consideration during the afternoon, but its opponents so delayed proceedings that Chairman Evans, of the public lands committee, announced its withdrawal.

"This filibuster has been going on for over two hours," Evans said. "In the interest of reasonable legislation, the author of the bill, Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, has very generously authorized me to say that if her bill is standing in the way, it will not be called up."

The announcement was applauded.

CHINESE ADVANCE TOWARD SHANGHAI

Japanese Prepare To Prevent Encroachment on Safety Zone.

SHANGHAI, March 23.—(AP)—A threat of new fighting arose today as the peace parley between the Chinese and Japanese broke up over a difference in rank between the negotiators.

The Japanese said the Chinese troops were edging back toward Shanghai inside the 12 1-2-mile safety zone and that the Japanese were preparing to take strong measures to prevent any encroachment upon that limit.

General Chiang Kuang-nai, the Chinese delegate, walked out of the peace parley and said he would not come back until Lieutenant General Kenkichi Uyeda, the Japanese spokesman, had been replaced by a full general.

Chinese soldiers crossed Soochow creek at Chi-Wangmiao, Japanese observers said. This point is inside the zone of evacuation laid out by General Uyeda in his ultimatum of February 20.

The Japanese asked the British authorities to request that the Chinese withdraw south of the creek. The British consul was informed that the Chinese were digging in on the north side of the stream opposite the Japanese lines, apparently with the intention of staying there.

As for the peace parley, it was generally expected that it would be resumed tomorrow, possibly with General Tai Chi, commanding the Chinese garrison at Shanghai, in place of General Chiang Kuang-nai.

The League of Nations' commission of inquiry, which originally intended to stay here until a truce was arranged, will move to Nanking on Saturday. From there they will go to Peiping at the end of the month.

A new municipal council, chosen in a vote which continued through the past two days, has been elected to govern the International Settlement. Joseph W. Carney, one of the two American members, failed of re-election and the only American on the new council is Frank J. Raven, banker and real estate operator. Of his associates five are British, five Chinese, two Japanese and one Danish.

$10,000-a-Year Man Hits Congress Economy

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP) There is one member of congress opposed to salary cuts because he's "a $10,000 man."

That's what Representative Abernathy, of North Carolina, told the house Tuesday, and added that his democratic leaders should halt their economy committee.

"I'm a $10,000 man," Abernathy said. "Before I came to congress I made $20,000 a year practicing law.

"I say to those who want to cut salaries: They may be $1,000 men in their districts, but I'm a $20,000 man in mine. And I'm going to be renominated without opposition."

SWAPPING MEETS VILLAGE'S NEEDS IN QUAKER STATE

SAXONBURG, Pa., Mrach 23.—(AP)—Saxonburg has taken a page from ancient history to solve the economic situation—everybody's swapping.

Swapping has been going on for a year and has become so common the newspaper has incorporated a "swap column."

Butter and eggs are exchanged for merchandise at stores, for gasoline and old parts for autos, and, since the boys' band started, for musical instruments.

Coal is hauled or teaming done in exchange for horse-shoeing. Last spring ground was plowed in exchange for half the crops. Any man can get land on promise to part with one-fourth of the produce. Cabbage plants were exchanged for tomatoes and bulbs and seeds for flowers and vegetables.

Last summer crabapples went for pickles, hay for a load of straw, a gallon of buttermilk for a peck of spinach. In the fall apples were exchanged for cider for year-old hens for winter laying, apples were picked and services rendered in all lines of work for whatever the farmer had that the worker wanted.

Merchants say everybody is happy under the arrangement.

Just one swap has failed to go through—a youngster tried to trade a new baby for a mouth organ.

ADOPTED DAUGHTER OF GANDHI ARRESTED

11 Per Cent Slash In U. S. Pay Favored

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The special house economy committee today tentatively agreed on a salary reduction proposal of 11 per cent on all government employes after allowing a $1,000 exemption.

It is estimated that $67,000,000 would be saved through the reduction. It would affect several hundred thousand employes.

By allowing the $1,000 exemption, the slash would be applied only on the amount above that received by an employe.

SINGER SAILS FAR SEEKING U. S. SOIL FOR WEDDING RITES

SAN FRANCISCO, March 23.—(AP) A story of difficulties experienced by Madame Valdi, American opera singer, in finding a bit of American soil in the South Seas upon which to be married was related today in advices received by the Union Steamship Line from Suva.

The messages said Madame Valdi, in private life Mrs. Anne Margaret Lewis Mallor, had met Charles E. Curtis, Tahiti planter, while on a yachting trip and had consented to marry him but insisted the marriage be performed under the American flag. Tahiti is French territory.

Madame Valdi and Curtis, the advices said, set out for Pago Pago, but found that port in the grip of an epidemic. They headed for Apia, Samoa. Dangerous seas prevented them from entering the harbor. The couple continued to Suva, Fiji Islands, only to find the American consul there had gone fishing. The messages said the marriage took place when the consul returned home.

RUSSELL MAKES BOND ON 'CON' GAME CHARGE

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—(AP) Lee M. Russell, former governor of Mississippi, and L. C. Cadenhead, both officials of the Securities Trading Corporation here, today voluntarily appeared at the criminal sheriff's office and furnished bonds of $1,000 each to face charges of obtaining money by means of a confidence game.

The charges were brought by Thomas Spicuzza, who alleged that he turned over $8,000 in homestead stock to the men and received only $1,000 in return.

PARIS, March 23.—(AP)—The finance committee of the chamber of deputies reversed itself today and approved the government measure for a 68,000,000-franc loan to the French line. The money will be used partly to complete the new liner on which construction was stopped for lack of funds.

'Carry On' Duce's Plea To Fascist Followers

ROME, March 23.—(AP)—This has been a hard winter, but next year things will be better, Premier Mussolini told 10,000 of his black shirts this evening as they crowded into the square in front of his office to celebrate the thirteenth anniversary of the meeting at Milan, where the fascist party was born.

"The north wind is blowing, but now it is spring," he said. "Five months ago I told you this would be a hard winter, but we would live through it. From now on I will be thinking of next winter.

"I tell you—and you know I keep my promises—that next winter there will be more work and more help for all the people in Italy."

He told them that this year the fascist watchword will be "durare" (carry on).

BY BESS FURMAN.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The case of women's rights versus man's law was argued before the congressional bench of 23 male judges today with feminine witnesses taking both sides.

More than half a hundred from national organizations brought before the mahogany dais of the house judiciary committee the contest of how best to wipe the statute books clean of the discriminations against their sex which all agreed existed.

The National Women's Party, whose argument was directed by Mrs. Burnita S. Matthews, believed there should be a constitutional amendment proclaiming equal rights with men. The National League of Women Voters, marshalled by Mrs. William J. Carson, of Philadelphia, said such an amendment violated states' rights.

After a brief opening statement by Representative Ludlow, democrat, Indiana, sponsor of the amendment, the proponents began with Mrs. Rebekah Greathouse, assistant United States attorney for the District of Columbia. She said the supreme court, "in its conservative way," has interpreted the rights of women under the constitution to be those common law rights of the 18th century and quoted Blackstone' commentaries to show how "appalling" were the discriminations against women.

"Her husband could chastise her or restrain her liberty," Mrs. Greathouse said. "In short, she was her husband's slave, dependent upon his whims without appeal to any court—and penniless. Remnants of these disabilities still remain."

Mrs. Carson carried the burden of the opposition and said a constitutional amendment was "unnecessary since undesirable discriminations not only can be removed without a federal amendment but are being continually so removed."

KING TO REVIVE OLD TRADITION OF AIDING NEEDY

LONDON, March 23.—(UP)—King George will revive an ancient English tradition tomorrow when, accompanied by Queen Mary, he will go to Westminster Abbey to distribute "maundy money" as alms to the aged people of the parish.

The king probably will carry posies and wear a linen sash, symbolizing the towels with which the monarch washed the feet of the poor on Maundy Thursday in the 14th century.

The Maundy Thursday ceremony has been carried out by the clergy of the abbey and officials of the royal almonry for the last 200 years, during which time the king has not participated. The ceremony, which is something similar to the ancient custom once observed by the king of Spain in washing the feet of beggars, was instituted by King Edward III in 1363.

It was continued for many reigns, but finally dropped. William III was the last king who personally distributed alms to the abbey.

The clergy, carrying posies and wearing linen sashes, will accompany the king when he takes part in the ceremony.

WAGE SLASH ACTION DEFENDED BY L. & A.

SHREVEPORT, La., March 23.—(AP)—Claiming a deficit in current operations of the Louisiana and Arkansas railroad and "near bankruptcy" in its allied branch, the Louisiana & Arkansas Railroad of Texas, officials of the railroad in their hearing here today claimed justified the 10 per cent basic wage cut recently declared for shop crafts workers over the protest of the employes.

The railroad side of the controversy which narrowly averted a strike on the road last year is being heard before President Hoover's emergency board headed by Justice Walter P. Stacey, of North Carolina, after the board last week heard arguments of the employes.

Some of the exhibits offered today by the railroad met with vigorous protest from employes' counsel who charged "camouflage" in statements and "forced contracts." The railroad denied these charges.

Patent Foot Warmers Burn Officers' Feet

HAMMOND, Ind., March 23.—(AP)—Patrolman Roy McCutcheon was "burned up" about his new shoes.

He raced into the station yesterday, and, to the astonishment of his fellow officers, promptly submerged his feet, shoes and all, in a bucket of cold water.

"It's those patent foot warmers I just rigged up," he explained. "I put some small batteries in my pockets and hooked them up with metal plates in my shoes.

"Suddenly my feet started to burn. It must have been a short circuit."

Myriad 'Relatives' Seeking Share In Disputed Wendel, Wood Estates

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—The vast estates of two aged women, whose hermit-like lives were strangely similar, Tuesday attracted enough claimants to populate a village as lawyers sought to populate a village as lawyers sought to untangle the skein of distant relationships.

One contest involved the millions willed to charity by Miss Ella Von E. Wendel, who thought herself the last of her family when she died in the gloomy brownstone mansion that still stands amid the sleek modernity of midtown Fifth avenue.

The other involved the fortune so carefully hoarded by Mrs. Ida Mayfield Wood, who refused to trust banks after the panic of 1907 and kept nearly a million in cash in paper bags and the lining of old black dresses.

Surrogate James A. Foley is hearing both cases, though a question as to his jurisdiction has been raised by the multitudinous Wendel heirs, because the decedent also had a residence at Irving-on-the-Hudson, in Westchester county.

There was scarcely room enough in Foley's courtroom for the many lawyers who came to represent Wendel claimants. Some represented only 15 or 20. A grand total of 1,622 claimants want a share in the fortune of approximately $75,000,000.

Foley said "some people in different parts of the world seem to believe there is no will and all they have to do is to establish relationship. From abroad we have had claims filed by whole villages whose inhabitants bear only the name of Wendel."

To settle it, he said, Miss Wendel's name will be placed in the center of a chart of concentric circles, each line representing a degree of relationship. Those whose relationship is closest will have the right to contest.

He set April 10 for hearing on the subject of jurisdiction. One lawyer suggested the whole matter ought to be transferred to Madison Square Garden.

There were fewer claimants for the relatively small Wood estate, though two groups sought to be named administrator.

One was headed by her nephew, Otis F. Wood, who was her guardian during the last months of her life; the other group comprised step-grandchildren and step-great-grandchildren.

Road Relief Measure Halted by Filibuster

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—For the second time in the last few days a futile attempt was made in the senate today to get action on the democratic road construction unemployment relief measure.

The measure, carrying $132,500,000 as passed by tre house and $3,500,000 more added by the senate roads committee, was brought up under a rule terminating consideration at 2 p. m.

Senator Hayden, democrat, Arizona, told the senate it could be passed before that time if no filibuster was made against it but arrival of the hour found Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, a strong opponent of the measure, reading extracts from the Congressional Record to his colleagues.

Court Refuses To Hear Appeal of Al Capone

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP)—The United States circuit court of appeals refused today to listen again to Al Capone's appeal from his conviction for dodging federal income taxes.

The court disposed of the matter in short order, having received only yesterday the government's formal answer to the Capone arguments for a new hearing. Previously the trijudge appellate court had upheld the conviction before U. S. District Judge James H. Wilkerson, who imposed a sentence of 11 years in prison and a $50,000 fine.

C., March 23.—(AP)—The operations of 16 persons, indicted after a liquor raid near Florence, which netted 1,800 gallons, were directed by the Detroit "Purple Gang, a Capone organization," J. A. Clifton Jr., assistant prohibition administrator, told Judge J. Lyles Glenn in federal district court here today.

Executive Tariff Power Hit by Customs Court

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Congress violated the constitution when it provided flexible tariff regulations empowering the president to write new language into the 1930 tariff law, the second division of the United States customs court here ruled unanimously.

The specific case on which the ruling was made was one involving the protest of Sears, Roebuck & Co., against a raised duty on wire fencing.

The court held that in order to make changes in the tariffs levied, President Hoover was forced to write an entirely new paragraph into the tariff law, whach was an encroachment upon the legislative rights of congress.

SALES TAX MEASURE FAILS IN MISSISSIPPI

JACKSON, Miss., March 23.—(AP) The administration's 3 per cent sales tax bill today failed to pass the senate. The vote was 25 yeas and 24 nays. It needed a three-fifths vote for passage. Proponents of the measure immediately served notice they would seek reconsideration.

The final vote on the bill came suddenly after opponents of the tax had led a fight throughout the morning to place additional amendments in the bill and after the senate had heard a special message from Governor Connor, informing the legislature that "the general fund of the treasury is practically empty."

The bill was twice reconsidered in the house before being passed by the necessary three-fifths majority there.

Community Farming Project Seen As Salvation for Group of Jobless

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., March 23.—(AP)—A vast community farming project was being considered today as a solution for the unemployment problem.

Under it some 200 selected families, now unable to care for themselves, would live in a self-sustaining colony on a co-operative farm of 20,000 acres.

Oscar W. Behrens, secretary to Mayor William Anderson, and one of the sponsors of the idea, said the plan was modeled on an American idea—that of the farm co-operative—and was entirely different from that followed by Russian communists.

Behrens, who is president of the Minneapolis direct unemployment relief plan, said his committee was virtually assured by interested individuals of a $100,000 fund to start the colony.

The plan would entail purchase of land on a 25-year contract with each family buying its own plots, deferred payments to start after effective operation had begun.

The community would be provided with schools and such manufacturing plants necessary to produce many commodities the community would need.

New Yorker Smashes Howard-Garner Opposition in All Counties.

tacularly hurdled the last barrier to his nomination.

The delegates to the national convention at Chicago, now expected to nominate Governor Roosevelt on the first ballot, will be chosen at the state convention to be held in Atlanta April 6. Under the rules they will be named by Governor Roosevelt or a committee acting for him.

Significant of the state-wide trend to Governor Roosevelt, forecast since he entered the primary, was the vote in the Cusseta precinct of Chattahoochee county, Judge Howard's former home box. It went: Roosevelt, 54; Howard, 2.

Not a single county unit vote out of 410 was in jeopardy as Roosevelt supporters will name delegates in five counties which failed to hold primaries because of winning a majority popular vote elsewhere.

Returns from Atlanta and Fulton county and the cities in the greater Atlanta district were slow coming in. Practically all of the country districts in Fulton were merged with city polling places, keeping the polls open to 7 p. m.

Fulton county will have six unit votes in the state convention and DeKalb county a like number.

Little surprise was reflected in the voting, comparatively light, unless it was in the result at Warm Springs, where Governor Roosevelt lives when in Georgia. There the vote was 218 for Roosevelt and 1 for Howard. Four Meriwether county precincts, in which Warm Springs is located, gave Roosevelt 718, Howard 2.

With one-third of the counties complete, indications were that a vote of 60,000 had been polled. The ratio of 20 to 1 continued.

In the more than 50 counties reporting in whole or in part early returns gave:

Roosevelt, 14,873; Howard 726.

In two of the 154 counties holding primaries, Roosevelt received every vote cast. Lincoln gave him 108 to 0 and Echols 49 to 0. The vote in two out of 8 precincts in Towns county was 86 to 0.

In the Roswell district of Cobb county, where the ancestral home of the late Theodore Roosevelt is located, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt received every one of the 115 votes cast.

In Chatham, one of the only two counties ever seriously claimed by Howard managers, the vote was Roosevelt 1,274, Howard 34.

Roosevelt appeared to have lost five boxes in the entire state, two in Clarke, two in Floyd and one in Crisp.

Barrow, the home county of Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., gave Roosevelt a majority greater than 10 to 1 on the face of early returns. This was one of the very few counties in the state where a local newspaper lent any support to the Howard campaign.

Muscogee county, former home of Judge Howard and present home of W. E. Page, Governor Roosevelt's Georgia spokesman, gave Roosevelt a majority of more than 20 to 1. Bibb county, home of Representative L. Thomas Gillen, who managed the Howard campaign, voted 7 to 1 for Roosevelt.

Oconee county was the first to report complete. It went to Roosevelt, 58 to 4, and thereafter began the parade with county following county in lifting the Roosevelt banner by such majorities as have heretofore been unknown in a Georgia contest.

Unique Conditions.

Georgia has been holding primaries, of one fashion and another, for quite a few years but none of them like the one held Tuesday.

It was both the most listless and one-sided ever pulled off. What enthusiasm, or political interest, there was came from the desire of the more ardent Roosevelt supporters to give the New York governor a vote as large as physical conditions, which varied in the counties, would permit.

Leaders Tuesday publicly explained what they have feared from the outset. There existed in the preferential primary a marked apathy because the voters have been "urged" to go to the polls so often this year. The personal magnetism of Roosevelt, his great popularity in Georgia, where he spends much of his time and the political winds pointing to his election helped to overcome what, without these factors, was a striking indifference to what happened in another vote test.

Foregone Conclusion.

There was also, and this cut sharply into the size of the vote, a conviction in many counties that Georgia would cast an overwhelming vote for Roosevelt and thousands who ordinarily would have taken the time to go and vote for him as their choice remained away from the polls because they knew the result was a foregone conclusion.

While the vote in Fulton was larger than expected, and the Roosevelt majority heavier than some observers had guessed, it reflected the apathy in many others. It was the third time in 14 days that the voters had a contest to pass upon.

In several counties, the primary for county offices was held just a few days ahead of the preferential primary—in two counties these were held Tuesday—and in others the same primaries are to be held a day or so later. In the country districts this militated greatly against the size of the vote.

Although urged both by W. E. Page, Governor Roosevelt's personal representative in the state, and Lawrence Camp, democratic state committee chairman, to hold a primary, leaders in several counties went into a huddle, canvassed the preference of many voters and arbitrarily decided it would be "a waste of time" to hold one. They recognized that the county unit vote would be for Roosevelt anyway.

Expense a Factor.

Again, there was the expense of the primary to be reckoned with. The $1,000 each paid by Georgia friends of Governor Roosevelt and by Judge G. H. Howard provided the official ballots. In most of the counties, managers and clerks served free and

GEORGIA DECISION HAILED BY PAGE

Howard that Georgians will not stand for proxies nor will they permit themselves to be led by the nose by him or anyone else.

"Just as it happened in New Hampshire, North Dakota and other states, where primaries have been held, Governor Roosevelt has eliminated the opposition, and in Georgia he definitely eliminates Speaker Garner from the race, just as he did Al Smith in New Hampshire and Governor Murray in North Dakota. The results in Georgia are indicative of what will happen in every state in the southeast.

"Nothing can stop Governor Roosevelt from receiving the nomination at the national convention in Chicago on June 23, and it is my prediction that he will be nominated on an early ballot. There isn't the least doubt but that in the general election Governor Roosevelt will be swept into the presidential chair just as he has swept the country in the primaries.

"He is a man of destiny and will go down in history as the most wonderful president since Woodrow Wilson.

"Our work has been completed in Georgia and we are grateful to the many friends of Governor Roosevelt throughout the state who have given liberally of their time and money in his interest and I want to express to them my appreciation personally and on behalf of Governor Roosevelt."

"No campaign was ever won in Georgia with less money expended. Aside from our payment of Roosevelt's entrance fee of $1,000, our total expense including mail and everything else was less than $1,000. On the other hand, no more aggressive campaign was ever fought in Georgia than that conducted under the direction of William Randolph Hearst to defeat Roosevelt. Tons of mail was sent out, paid workers were engaged throughout the state and advertisements were inserted in almost all of the newspapers. We estimate that not less than $20,000 has been expended in the effort to 'stop Roosevelt' in Georgia, this state being regarded as a keystone state for all this section. Reports show that when a great issue in a great many of them the registration list was furnished without cost by friends of Governor Roosevelt.

Although it has been apparent in Georgia for more than a year that Roosevelt would get this state's 28 votes in the national convention, the assurance that he would do so virtually "without a struggle" was not clear until the entry lists had closed on March 22 and the opposition dwindled down to Judge Howard, the "proxy" candidate for Speaker John N. Garner, as the only other candidate qualified.

The state committee met in Macon on February 5 and fixed February 22 as the date for qualifying, March 23 as the date for the primary and April 6 the date for the state convention. It will be at the convention that the 28 delegates are officially named to represent the state at the national convention.

Murray Entry Rumored.

For several days after the committee meeting at Macon, there were reports that Governor W. H. Murray, of Oklahoma, would make a stumping tour of the state and enter Georgia as a candidate for the nomination. A representative of Murray, beguiled by advices that Murray clubs were being formed here, came from Oklahoma City to make an investigation. He conferred with Turner Smith, Atlanta publisher, and personal friend of the Oklahoma governor; State Chairman Camp and Governor Russell.

A decision as to whether he would enter hung in suspense for three days thereafter. Then it was announced that his formal entry had been signed, as required, and that the $1,000 entrance fee had been sent to Miss Stella Akin, committee secretary, at Savannah. The $1,000 fee arrived by telegraph before noon, February 22, but the letter containing the entrance signature did not arrive before the closing time. Miss Akin and State Chairman Camp ruled that Murray failed to qualify.

Within an hour before the expiration of the time limit for filing, L. Thomas Gillen, speaker pro tem. of the general assembly, accompanied by a representative of the Hearst newspaper in Atlanta, appeared at Miss Akin's office, posted the $1,000 required and left the application to enter signed by Judge Howard. That development made the primary necessary under the Macon convention rules.

of national importance is involved, people cannot be weaned away from duty either by the lure of money or by fanciful appeals for support of phantom candidates."

Roosevelt "Next President."

Major Cohen's statement said:

"In all of Georgia's political history no candidate has ever before received such a smashing victory in all sections. The unanimous action of our people is a striking evidence of their admiration for Governor Roosevelt's achievements and affection for him personally. The opposition was vigorous, intelligent and apparently well financed. The virtues of Speaker Garner were extolled in newspaper advertising, radio addresses and in tons of literature sent out all over the state.

"I have congratulated Governor Roosevelt as the next nominee of the democratic party and as the thirty-second president of the United States."

Gillen's Statement.

Gillen's statement follows:

"I am gratified with the popular vote which has been given Judge Howard for Speaker John N. Garner in the Georgia primaries today.

"It is naturally conceded that the Roosevelt campaign has been organized in Georgia for 18 months. We of the south have no apologies to make for supporting a son of the south with every ounce of our energy.

"If Mr. Roosevelt is nominated in the national convention in Chicago he will not have a more ardent supporter than Judge Howard or myself, as we have always been, and always will be, true democrats.

"I thank personally the warm supporters of Judge Howard and Speaker Garner in Georgia. I congratulate them on their clean campaign in behalf of a true southern son.

"If there has been any bitterness injected into this campaign it was by the other side, and in all good fellowship and sportsmanship it is forgiven, as an error bred in the heat of battle, for we are all earnestly hoping that democracy's cause will triumph.

"Our entire purpose was to give the people of Georgia an opportunity to express their preference for democratic nominees for president. In so far as we did that our campaign achieved its purpose and therefore was a success."

ROOSEVELT TO WIN ON FIRST BALLOT, VOTES INDICATE

not be defeated when the votes are counted in November. North Dakota is typical of the west; New Hampshire is representative of New England, and now that Georgia has joined the Roosevelt ranks, I fail to see where any other candidate has a chance."

Right Candidate Found.

Senator Clarence Dill, who has been an enthusiastic supporter of Governor Roosevelt for many months, said, "Georgia, I am sure, speaks for the southland and, although it was generally conceded he would carry Georgia in the primary today, the result gives evidence that a pretty important section of this country is solidly for him. The west, speaking through North Dakota, has already shown a pronounced preference for Mr. Roosevelt, and the New Hampshire result means practically the same thing as the result in Georgia, so why does the democratic party wish to seek a stronger candidate.

"Roosevelt should be nominated, and he should be nominated on the first ballot. We don't want a repetition of the Madison Square Garden fiasco. We want a candidate who can win—and we have found him."

ALBANY, N. Y., March 23.—(AP) Seventy-nine democrats from Connecticut called on Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt today to tell him that most of Connecticut's delegates to the national convention already are certain to support his nomination for the presidency.

The visitors were headed by Dr. Edward G. Dolan, of Manchester, who said twelve of Connecticut's sixteen delegates already are certain to back him for the nomination.

That democratic caravan included Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch, of Columbia, candidate for national committeewoman, who said "Governor, we all love you and all of us are back of you."

FINANCE GROUP DRAWS "ALFALFA BILL'S" CRITICISM

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., March 23.—(AP)—The national Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the proposed federal sales tax were criticized as "merely temporary reliefs" by Governor William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, of Oklahoma, here tonight.

The Oklahoman spoke in the interest of his candidacy for the democratic nomination for president of the United States. It was the opening address in Florida of a short speaking tour which will take him through the state.

He said the people of the nation were being unjustly accused of hoarding "since federal laws regulating banking and finance relieved us of whatever we may have had to hoard." Much of his talk was devoted to a discussion of the history of national finances and banking.

ROOSEVELT CHOICE SEEN ON ONE VOTE

Cummings Predicts New Yorker's Nomination on First Ballot.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—While Georgia voters were lining up for Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt in the south's first presidential primary today, the prediction was made here by Homer S. Cummings, of Connecticut, legislative contact man for the Roosevelt forces, that the New Yorker would be nominated on the first ballot at Chicago.

Cummings, a former national chairman of his party, made his forecast while sitting in the office of Representative Rainey, of Illinois, house majority leader, where he sounded out house democrats from nearly every state on the national convention situation.

Several weeks ago he discussed Roosevelt prospects with senators from more than 20 states. After today's talks he said he found sentiment for the governor stronger than ever.

"The average experienced politician," he said, "has made up his mind that Roosevelt's nomination is inevitable."

Cummings claimed Roosevelt would go into the convention with 680 of the 1,154 votes, or 90 less than the required two-thirds, and that the remaining delegates needed would line up for him before the first roll call was over.

"Any man with a lead of that kind cannot be defeated," he said. He described Roosevelt's popularity as "nationwide," and said he was first choice in 35 states and second choice in most of the others.

He counted Kentucky's 26 votes for the New Yorker now that Senator Barkley, of that state, has eliminated himself and also put Kansas in the governor's column.

"Republican leaders are hopeful of another Madison Square Garden fiasco," he said, adding "the only chance Hoover has of being elected is in the democratic convention."

Confident of President Hoover's renomination, republican chieftains are still casting about for a convention keynoter. Chairman Fess, of the national committee, said today this was "still up in the air," but would be definitely settled at a meeting of the arrangements committee in Chicago, April 16.

It was understood in some national committee circles today that informal overtures had been made to Calvin Coolidge to sound the party battlecry, but that the former president was unreceptive to the idea.

Although Senator Watson, of Indiana, is favored in senate ranks, national committee members were said to be looking for someone else.

Several prospective keynoters have been mentioned for the democrats.

William G. McAdoo, supporter of Speaker Garner for the democratic presidential nomination, will leave here tomorrow for New York. The former treasury secretary said yesterday the Texan had an "excellent chance" fo the nomination and would win California's delegation in May in a three-way contest with Roosevelt and Alfred E. Smith groups.

HOSPITAL ASKS $7,000 OF RICHMOND COUNTY

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 23.—(AP)—Trustees of the University hospital here have asked a grant of $7,000 for 1932 from the Richmond county commission. This sum represents an increase of $1,000 over the amount given the hospital last year.

Dr. T. R. Ponton, hospital superintendent, said the cost of caring for indigent patients has averaged over $600 monthly, and that the number of free patients is increasing while the pay patients are decreasing.

Roosevelt Given 3-1 Victory By Voters of Fulton County

Vote Is 5,212 to 1,689 for Howard; DeKalb Goes Four to One for Governor, 1,151 to 298.

Fulton county Wednesday gave Franklin D. Roosevelt a three-to-one margin over Judge Gus H. Howard, proxy candidate for Speaker John N. Garner.

Despite the fact that Howard has been a superior court judge here for more than half a dozen years and has been a prominent figure in local political circles, Fulton voted 5,212 for Roosevelt, an adopted Georgian, and gave only 1,689 votes to Howard, who was making the race in an effort to pledge the six county units to Garner.

DeKalb, Fulton's neighbor, defeated the invasion of Roosevelt's adopted state by an even greater majority—four to one. Roosevelt received 1,151 votes there as Howard polled but 298.

Howard failed to carry a single Fulton county precinct, and netted only two in DeKalb. One of the two—an 11-vote precinct—he carried by only one vote.

Mrs. Adele Tatum, Los Angeles, 85-year-old sister of Mrs. Bordley, is contesting the widow's will on grounds the wealthy St. Louis woman was "mentally uncapable" when she made it, leaving the bulk of the estate for the benefit of "incurables."

GRAF AT PERNAMBUCO, DAMAGED IN LANDING

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, March 23, (UP)—The dirigible Graf Zeppelin arrived tonight after a 4,800-mile flight from Germany.

The dirigible carried mail and passengers. William B. Leeds, of New York, has arranged passage for the return flight.

The Graf Zeppelin was slightly damaged by a violent gust of wind which struck the big ship as it was being moored.

The wind threw the dirigible against the mooring mast, sweeping away the gangway and damaging a cabin door.

RASKOB TO COVER MARA-KENNY NOTE

Democratic Head Promises To Pay Unless Signers Meet Obligation.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—John J. Raskob today pledged himself to "make good on my indorsement" of the $70,000 in notes Timothy J. Mara and Patrick F. Kenny signed as their share of the $1,000,000 fund to underwrite the deficit from the 1928 democratic presidential campaign.

Saying he "personally indorsed these notes purely as a matter of accommodation to these gentlemen," Mr. Raskob, chairman of the democratic national committee, said in a statement he would pay any amount the County Trust Company is unable to collect from them.

His statement was issued simultaneously with a denial by Supreme Court Justice Peter Schmuck of an application of the trust company for a bill of particulars setting forth certain points in the defense of Mara, sports promoter. The company is suing Mara for payment on a $50,000 note and Kenny on a $20,000 note.

In their answers to the suits Mara and Kenny, a Yonkers contractor, asserted they signed the notes as an accommodation to the County Trust Company in furtherance of what they termed a fraudulent scheme by the trust company to conceal contributions to the 1928 democratic campaign fund.

The trust company asked the court to order Mara to disclose the names of those who induced him to make the note, with whom he made the agreement, and the time and the place. Mara's attorneys opposed the application as an attempt to obtain Mara's evidence and also on the assertion the accompanying affidavit was made by the trust company's attorney and not by an officer of the company.

Mr. Raskob denied the charges, saying the County Trust Company, of which former Governor Smith is chairman of the board, knew nothing whatever of the underwriting agreement to wipe out the democratic party deficit. The company, of which Mr. Raskob is a director, he said, contributed nothing to the $1,000,000 fund.

Mr. Raskob's statement, which he said he issued "in response to inquiries and editorial comment," included a list of persons who helped underwrite the deficit. The list included three persons who gave $150,000—Mr. Raskob, William F. Kenny (no relative of Patrick F. Kenny) and Herbert Lehman. Patrick F. Kenny's note originally was for $25,000, but later was reduced to $20,000.

SHERIFF OF PEARSON COUNTY DEFEATED

PEARSON, Ga., March 23.—(AP)—Sheriff Louis White, who recently figured in Roundabout swamp liquor raids, when a dynamite trap was set for the officers, was defeated today in a run-over primary. The winner was Melvin Davis, who received 844 votes to 772 polled by the sheriff. There was considerable interest in the contest.

Sheriff White was slightly injured when the dynamite trap was set off in the swamp. One of his deputies was fatally injured.

In the regular primary Davis ran first, White second and W. S. Wiggins third.

Fire Brings Hoard Of Old Money To View

THOMASVILLE, Ga., March 23. It took a fire and the destruction of their humble abode to run two money hoarders of Thomasville from under cover. Two negro women—both very old—came into the Peoples Savings bank here Tuesday, hoisted a paper-wrapped bundle on the shelf at a teller's window, unwound many lengths of cotton string and brought into view a package of bills. They were very old bills, some of them moldy with age, and all of them large-size currency of an issue of other days. They were scorched and burned to a crisp along the edges. They represented in part the savings of several decades for these two old women, who take in washing to gain their livelihood.

STATE SAYS WITNESS RUN OUT OF SAVANNAH

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 23.—(AP) In the superior court today, William Ryan, of Nebraska, was to have been tried for assault with intent to murder and attempted kidnaping. The state asked for a continuance because it alleged it's principal witness, Alfred B. Brown, whom Ryan is charged with attempting to kidnap, had been run out of town because gangsters had threatened his life.

The defense denied this was true. The court directed the solicitor-general to find if Brown had been forced to leave the city and if this was found to be true, to indict those responsible for his departure.

"We'll have no Chicago methods used here," declared Judge Meldrim from the bench.

Ryan is held on six charges, three charges of assault with intent to murder and one charge each of attempted kidnaping, assault to rob and larceny of an automobile.

PIGS OF GEORGIA LOSERS TO IOWA IN FORENSIC ARENA

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—The rival merits of the Iowa corn-fed pig and the Georgia pig were debated today for the entertainment of the Circus Fans Association of America.

Iowa pigs, it was brought out, are really pachyderms and their tails are so crooked they are used for corkscrews. In this corner was Felix Adler, Ringling Brothers' clown and animal trainer.

Georgia pigs, said the opposition, are fence-walkers and terrific old soaks. In this corner was Earl Chapin May, author of "The Circus, From Rome to Ringling."

"Georgia pigs can walk on fences for miles," said May, opening the affirmative. "They have a wonderful sense of balance. I've known pigs in Bibb county that walked on their hind legs from the day they were born and never knew any other way. Their food had to be served from tables."

"Which is natural," said Adler for the negative, "because the Georgia mud is so deep they'd drown if they walked naturally. Out in Iowa, where we get 15 gallons of corn to the acre, pigs is really pachyderms. They grow as big as young elephants and never forget. Iowa pigs' tails are so crooked that we coat them with cement and use them for corkscrews."

"Yes," the affirmative came back, "but there never was an Iowa pig that could drink like a Georgia pig. Iowa pigs, when they're drunk, can't walk at all, but when Georgia pigs get inebriated they never get off their hind legs."

Pompeo Cappini, sculptor, settled the argument by disqualifying the Georgia pig because "it digs for its food in the mud and is therefore a hog." He admitted that he was not an expert though, for the reason that "the only pigs I've ever done busts of were human pigs."

Improved Trend of Business Noticeable, Says Arkwright

MACON, Ga., March 23.—(AP)—An improvement in the trend of business in the country has been most noticeable in the past few weeks, Preston S. Arkwright, chairman of the anti-hoarding campaign in Georgia, told members of the Macon Rotary Club at their luncheon meeting today.

"This doesn't necessarily mean that activities are so noticeable, or that the price of commodities has increased, as there is of necessity a 'time lag' which it takes for people to get renewed faith in conditions," he said.

Mr. Arkwright, president of the Georgia Power Company, pointed out that it is possible to have an improvement in fundamentals and at the same time a decrease in business activities.

"When business went on the decline it went down by degrees, and so improvements will have to ascend in a jagged line," he said. "The root of the depression was the fall of commodity prices brought about by the dumping of commodities on the market when money was called by the banks."

The strength of banks is greater now than since 1928, when they were at their greatest strength, he said. He called attention to the fact that there have been fewer bank failures in March than any month since 1928.

"Everything must wear out," he said. "Mill machinery is now cut to 44 per cent of efficiency. Men's minds have continued to function even during the depression and new discoveries will come to light when times are good again."

"ADVENTURE ROAD" FOR TIFTON GIRLS ENDS AT MACON

MACON, Ga., March 23.—(AP)—The "road of adventure," upon which two young Tifton waitresses blithely embarked Tuesday led them to the Salvation Army home and later the women's detention room at the city barracks here, where they were being held today pending receipt of funds to send them home.

The girls, Georgia Giddens and Nora Suggs, said they were 20 years old, but officers said they appeared to be about 16 years of age.

Officer L. E. Lord was summoned to the Salvation Army headquarters last night when the girls applied for lodging. There they told the officer that they had left home in Tifton about noon and had "hitch-hiked" to Macon. Each had a diary, in which they had copied poems of adventure and romance, and had written of their short experiences "on the road."

Relatives in Tifton were wired by police to send funds to pay for transportation of the girls back home.

GEORGIA PRESS BODY WILL MEET AT TIFTON

September 19 Set for Annual Gathering by President Jack Williams.

WAYCROSS, Ga., March 23.—The Georgia Press Association will hold its annual meeting in Tifton, beginning Monday, September 19, it is announced here today by Jack Williams, editor of the Waycross Journal-Herald, president of the association.

The meeting previously was planned for another date, but it was revealed that conflicts would arise, and a change was effected by the board of managers, of which there are 11 members.

"Several dates were considered for the meeting, but a number of proposals were found unsuitable because of conflicts with the tobacco marketing season, the annual meeting of the National Editorial Association, the state primary, and other events," Mr. Williams points out.

"September 19, it is believed, will be more suitable than any other date."

Tifton is regarded as one of the most progressive cities in the agricultural belt of Georgia, and plans for the entertainment of the editors, including several side trips, indicate that the convention will be one of the most enthusiastic and profitable in the history of the association, the president reveals.

The Tifton Gazette, with the Herring brothers as editors, will be host to the convention.

SALES TAX FORCES READY FOR BATTLE

Both Camps Confident as Hour Draws Near for Revenue Vote.

BY CECIL B. DICKSON.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—Drawing their forces together for a last desperate stand against eager foes, house party leaders today prepared for a decisive battle tomorrow to keep the sales tax provision in the new revenue bill.

Chieftains of both camps conceded the result would be close, but more confidence was shown by opponents of the sales levy than by those supporting the ways and means committee bill.

Majority Leader Rainey said he still believed the 2.25 per cent levy on manufacturers' sales would be approved. However, the opposition leaders, Representatives Doughton, of North Carolina; Rankin, of Mississippi, democrats, and LaGuardia, republican, New York, forecast it would be stricken from the measure.

Charging that the concessions made by the ways and means committee to exempt food and clothing left a "joker in the bill," LaGuardia said in a statement, all articles that went into food and clothing still would bear the levy.

Food Containers.

"I absolve the ways and means committee from any intent, but believe it has been imposed upon by someone who has tried to slip over a joker," the New Yorker said. Cans, crates and other food containers, as well as materials for clothing and shoes, would still bear the tax under the licensing system carried in the provision, he said. Under the bill, a manufacturer not licensed would have to pay for material produced by a licensed manufacturer.

The food, clothing, medicine and farm implement exemptions were estimated by the treasury to reduce the probable yield of $595,000,000 by $140,000,000. LaGuardia said if the exemptions went all down the line, they would amount to $250,000,000.

The opponents of the sales tax received a setback on one of their substitute items. Secretary Mills estimated that the return next year of the Ramseyer amendment increasing estate taxes to a maximum of 45 per cent would be but $20,000,000.

Returns for Year.

In a letter to Representative Hawley, of Oregon, ranking republican on the ways and means committee, Mills said in the fiscal year 1933-34, $135,000,000 would be returned. The adoption of the amendment was the fourth victory of the bi-partisan sales tax opponents over the party leaders.

Mills said the suggestion that the new estate tax rates will yield for a full year between $500,000,000 and $600,000,000 was obviously based upon returns for 1929.

When the house resumes consideration of the sales levy tomorrow it will consider the amendment by Acting Chairman Crisp to exempt food, clothing, medicine, farm implements and insecticides.

Several other amendments must be disposed of before that of Doughton to strike out the sales tax will be considered.

INCOME TAX COLLECTIONS EXCEED EXPECTATIONS

Income tax collections thus far this month have exceeded treasury estimates.

The latest treasury statement, for last Monday, showed receipts for 21 days of March amounted to $178,567,113. The treasury had forecast collections for the entire month would approximate $175,000,000.

Receipts for Monday were $11,129,428, which was $2,000,000 less than on the comparative day a year ago. The month's total was approximately $135,000,000 less than for the same period last year.

Collections for the fiscal year amounted to $836,688,455 compared with $1,484,466,317 for the previous year. The deficit was $1,805,204,869.

HOOVER SUGGESTS RUDY VALEE WRITE PROSPERITY SONG

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP) Rudy Vallee, stage and radio crooner, reported today that during a visit at the White House President Hoover had suggested he write and sing a new song with a prosperity theme.

The singer caused a flutter among some feminine members of the executive offices' personnel. Several stenographers waited in the lobby, while he—with Mrs. Vallee—chatted with the president and two of his secretaries, Walter H. Newton and Theodore Joslin.

Vallee said that during a period of repartee in the president's private office, Mr. Hoover had remarked he would "rate a medal" if he would "write a song to drive away the depression." The singer did not say whether he intended to try for such a reward.

In reporting his conversation today, Vallee said Mr. Hoover had asked him if he was still pleasing people. He said his reply was that he "hoped so."

It was recalled, he said, that Mrs. Vallee was from California, the president's home state, where her father is a chief of police. Vallee said it was their intention to return to the west coast after the revue in which he is now playing concludes its tour.

DOTHAN, Ala., March 23.—(AP)—J. Henry Witherington and Charlie C. McArthur, defendants in a seed loan conspiracy trial here last week, today were arrested on federal warrants charging perjury in their testimony.

Witherington, Houston county farm demonstration agent, was given a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Berry Whidden and held to the grand jury under $5,000 bond. McArthur waived a preliminary hearing and posted bond of $5,000.

Chow Dog Barks Alarm, Families Escape Blaze

Excitement of a fine chow dog caused by a burning house next door Wednesday morning awoke Mrs. Joseph Himmel, 195 Merritts avenue, who telephoned Mrs. J. S. Ware, 203 Merritts avenue, and sounded the alarm. Among the occupants of the two-story structure was Mrs. Inez Beck and two twin babies.

When Mrs. Ware received the telephone alarm she awoke all members of the household and they escaped to the streets barely in time to avoid injury or death in the flame-swept house. Firemen attributed the blaze to defective wiring.

MARINES MAY QUIT NICARAGUAN POLLS

BY JOSEPH H. BAIRD.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(UP) Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson refused today to concur in a Nicaraguan proposal which he felt might keep American marines in Nicaragua longer than January 1, 1933.

The American government had been asked to supervise next November a Nicaraguan election for only a president and a constituent assembly to revise the constitution rather than the scheduled ballot for a president, vice president and a section of congress.

Stimson presented his negative reply to Doctors Carlos A. Morales and Horacio Arguello Bolanos, representatives of President Jose Moncada, of Nicaragua. In it he pointed out the Nicaraguan plan would jeopardize the power of the president to be elected next November. It would leave all authority in the hands of the constituent assembly, which, some observers believe, might elevate any favored person or group into a position of authority.

DRY CLEANING PLANT LOSES $14 TO BANDITS

Invading the offices of the main plant of the Stoddard Dry Cleaning Company at 713 West Peachtree street shortly before closing time, three young white gunmen held up the attendant and escaped after robbing the cash register of $14.

Miss Mildred Thomas, 425 Ponce de Leon avenue, N. E., in charge of the office at the time, told officers the three men entered hurriedly and without attracting undue notice. She suddenly was confronted with three pistols, and one of the men rifled the cash drawer.

'TIPS' WORTHLESS IN LINDBERGH HUNT

Dozen Houses Searched in New York But Without Producing Clue.

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 23.—(AP)—"Hot tips" that the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was being held in some house in New York city or north Jersey poured in to the famous flyer's home at the rate of nearly one an hour today.

Groups of investigators sped through the barriers surrounding the estate in rapid procession, but they returned always with the report that "nothing of importance was discovered."

Late in the day Colonel H. Norman Schwarzkopf, state police head, announced:

"We have investigated more than 10 houses variously reported as containing the baby, or harboring suspicious characters, or being involved in suspicious circumstances. No information of any value in connection with the case developed."

Only negative information was contained in the bulletins that came from the Sourland estate.

Salvatore "Salvy" Spitale and Irving Bitz, named by Colonel Lindbergh as his "go-betweens," were convinced from the work they had done on the case that the kidnapers were not members of an organized gang.

Bitz, in an interview, said Spitale had gone to Detroit on a "hot tip," but that it has turned out to be worthless.

Morris Rosner, who announced 10 days ago he had definite reason to believe the child alive and well, was seen coming from the Lindbergh estate today, but there has been no indication he has been making any progress.

Owney Madden, who once ruled by terror a district in Manhattan called Hell's Kitchen, has been working on the mystery for 20 days without result.

COLOMBIAN AVIATOR TO INVESTIGATE CLUE

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 23.—(AP)—Major Benjamin Mendez, one of the best flyers in Colombia and a friend of Colonel Lindbergh, today received permission from the war office to fly to Buenaventura, where it was reported that the kidnaped Lindbergh baby was being held on an island near the coast. The flight will not be made, however, unless the American legation requests it.

HOME UNDER GUARD AFTER KIPNAPING THREAT

DURHAM, N. C., March 23.—(AP) The home of Mrs. John A. Buchanon, daughter of C. W. Toms, vice president of the Liggett & Myers Tobacco Company, has been under heavy police guard because of death and kidnaping threats, police revealed today after 10 days of secrecy.

Authorities said Mrs. Buchanon has received two telephone calls and five letters demanding payment of $10,000 under threat of death for herself and kidnaping for her two children.

THOMAS J. SHEPARD, PIONEER CITIZEN, DIES

Thomas J. Shepard, 86, pioneer citizen of Atlanta and one of the most prominent leaders in Masonic affairs in the city up to the last decade, died at his home, 679 Durant place, N. E., Wednesday, after a brief illness. Mr. Shepard was a Confederate veteran and a charter member of the Gate City lodge of Masons.

Funeral services will be held at Peachtree chapel at noon Friday, the Rev. Dr. Ryland Knight, of Second Baptist church, officiating. A Masonic detail will have charge of services and rites of that order at the graveside in Crest Lawn cemetery.

Mr. Shepard is survived by two daughters, Miss Elizabeth Shepard and Mrs. F. B. Juelg, and a son, J. E. Shepard, and several grandchildren.

Claudel Denies Pro-Jap Tendencies in France

ST. LOUIS, March 23.—(AP)—Paul Claudel, French ambassador to the United States, denied here today false reports, which he said had been spread, that France had sided with Japan in the recent Chinese-Japanese situation in Shanghai.

His country, he said, had been in complete accord with the other powers. He also denied what he termed "another canard," which had created an impression that a militaristic spirit prevailed in France.

The ambassador spoke before the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce and other organizations.

J. P. Morgan Ends Long Silence To Broadcast 'Block-Aid' Appeal

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—J. Pierpont Morgan, sitting in the old-fashioned living room of his town house, surrounded by pictures of his illustrious ancestors, delivered his first radio speech tonight.

For six minutes he faced the blazing coals in a huge fireplace and talked into two small microphones on his flat-top walnut desk.

He broke his record of not having delivered a public address since the war to describe a unique relief plan he expects "will prove in large measure to be the much desired solution of the most pressing problem of our country today."

"We have reached," he said, "a point where the aid of government or the gifts of individuals, no matter how generous, are insufficient to meet the conditions which have come upon us."

Text of Address.

In calling upon everyone to "do his bit," Mr. Morgan said, "I must remind you that many people are too proud and too brave to reveal their necessities to charitable organizations or to state and city relief agencies. These people suffer in silence; often they suffer until parents and children are seriously ill."

The plan he outlined, he said, would also go far toward solving that problem. It is the "block-aid plan" under the general direction of the emergency unemployment relief committee, which Mr. Morgan said has raised and is now distributing over $19,000,000 for relief.

The financier told how ten "block-aiders" in each of New York city's 16,000 blocks will start out Monday on a canvass of their sections, seeking out those who need relief and asking contributions from others.

"In collecting these funds," he said, "the block-aider will not ask for large sums which would be embarrassing to those who earn moderate salaries. Most people will be asked for 10 cents a week for 20 weeks. Those who feel they can afford it without undue hardship may give 25 cents, 50 cents or one dollar.

"It is not a plan to raise a great sum of money from comparatively few people. But it is the only plan that I have seen or heard of by which a great sum may be raised over a period of months and without undue hardship on any giver; and a sum coming from a far greater number of people than has ever before been brought into one common effort for the good of the community . . .

Open to All.

"The block-aid idea is the right idea—it involves going to everybody—to those who have little and to those who have much—and asking for help for relief work in such small amounts that no one who has seen with his own eyes or heard from others of the greatness of the need will hesitate to give the sum asked."

He called the general idea a "great" one and said it was based on the consideration of the whole city as a collection of blocks, each one being a small town in itself.

"In a small town," he continued, "there is more neighborliness and more knowledge of each other's needs and condition than can possibly be the case in a great city."

"It is my earnest hope," he said in concluding, "and I fully expect that hope will be realized, that this great block aid organization, starting on its work next Monday, will prove in large measure to be the much desired solution of the most pressing problem of our country today. I hope, too, that it may not only be of use in New York, but may indicate to other large cities, whose problem is the same as ours, a way out of the worst of their difficulties."

AnnHarding, Blonde Film Star, Harry Bannister To Seek Divorce

HOLLYWOOD, March 23.—(AP)—In two brief letters delivered to the press, Ann Harding, beautiful blonde star of films, and Harry C. Bannister, film player, announced plans today to seek a divorce.

The plans of the couple came as such a shock to Hollywood, which always had believed "Ann and Harry" to be among the happiest of the married set, that the letters at first were disbelieved until intimate associates saw them and verified the signatures.

Upon the film colony, where Miss Harding has attained the greatest degree of her success, the couple placed the blame for the breaking up of their home. They said that motion pictures had placed them in a position which no longer was "tenable."

Miss Harding is under contract at R-K-O studios. Bannister recently announced he had purchased his contract from the same organization and intended to free lance.

The letter bearing Miss Harding's name embossed at the top was dated "March 21," and read:

"The following statement, together with a statement from Mr. Bannister, is being delivered simultaneously to the general press:

"We, Harry Bannister and Ann Harding Bannister, are getting a divorce, because, during the three years in the motion picture industry, we have been placed in a position which is untenable.

"Due to Harry's constant and generous effort to forward my interests, often at the expense of his own, he is gradually losing his identity, becoming a background for my activities, and looked upon as 'Ann Harding's husband.'

"We have decided that the only way for Harry to re-establish himself in his profession is to cut the Gordian knot, to set forth on his own—quite apart from me—and win his way back to the standing he enjoyed in the theater, before this unfortunate situation in pictures has a chance to reach us, and destroy the love and respect we have for each other.

"We have found courage to preserve the thing we have in the way that seems best to us."

(Signed)

"ANN HARDING BANNISTER."

A shorter letter was enclosed, bearing Bannister's name.

"The following statement, together with a statement from Mrs. Bannister, is being delivered simultaneously to the general press:

"During the five and one-half years I have been married to Ann Harding I have had the love and respect and devotion of the very great and lovely person who is my wife.

"Therefore, in order to preserve this in its entirety, we find the apparently drastic course of divorce, the quickest and best solution to our eventual complete happiness.

"There is nothing further that I can add to Mrs. Bannister's statement."

(Signed)

"HARRY C. BANNISTER."

They have a daughter about two years of age.

Miss Harding and her husband came to Hollywood from New York, where she was an outstanding star of the stage and he had appeared prominently in several stage plays.

Her success in motion pictures was instantaneous and almost overnight she became one of the most popular stars of the film colony.

Miss Harding, a native of San Antonio, Texas, was educated in several exclusive eastern schools, and started a business career as an employe in a New York insurance company. Her talent soon led her to the stage.

She played on Broadway for six years and in April, 1929, she came to Hollywood. Her pictures have been few but highly successful. "Holiday" was one of her biggest hits.

Bannister played in one of her films, "Her Private Affair," and has taken supporting roles in several others. He has spent much of his time recently flying. The couple own two airplanes.

UTILITY VALUATION METHODS BARED

Mississippi Power Concern Shows "Appreciation" of 38 Per Cent.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—An "appreciation," or enhancement of fixed capital and investments by 38 per cent in the Mississippi Power and Light Company was testified to before the federal trade commission today by Examiner Charles R. Taylor.

The Mississippi company is an indirect subsidiary of the Electric Bond and Share Company through the Electric Power and Light Corporation.

Taylor, upon concluding his testimony on the Arkansas Power and Light Company, began a review of the Mississippi company's affairs in response to questions by the commission's chief counsel, Robert E. Healy.

Taylor estimated the net appreciation in assets at the company's reorganization in 1927 at $6,331,351.07.

This figure, he said, was exclusive of certain "intangible" items which he estimated at approximately $1,400,000.

Speaking in a similar vein with his testimony on the Arkansas company's organization, Taylor said it was "apparent that the (Mississippi's) board of directors considered elements of intangible character" when they reorganized the company.

He said the expenditures for reorganization were written in as capital. He replied "no" when asked by Healy if he considered this proper.

Harry H. Carter, another commission examiner, gave detailed technical testimony on export of power between Arkansas, Louisiana and Mississippi, by the Arkansas and Mississippi companies and the Louisiana Power and Light Company. The financial structure of the Louisiana company was not examined in detail, although there were frequent references to it in the testimony on the other two companies.

Scientist Defends Bible On Theory of Creation

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 23. (AP)—A return to the idea that the universe was created all at once, as set forth in the Bible, was suggested today by Professor Ernst J. Opik, of the Tartu University observatory, Esthonia.

Professor Opik, striking at the widely accepted theory of stellar evolution in his speech at the dedication of the astrophotographic building of the Harvard College observatory, startled his hearers by suggesting that the age of the universe had been grossly overestimated.

He said observed facts indicated the present universe could hardly have existed longer than 3,000 million years, an estimate that represents an enormous reduction in the conception of the age of the universe held by many scientists.

25TH SENATOR SIGNS PROHI BILL PETITION

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The Tydings petition asking the senate judiciary committee to report out a resolution for repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment was signed today by Senator Davis, republican, Pennsylvania.

His signature made 25 names to the petition.

Senator Tydings, democrat, Maryland, its author, will seek a vote on March 30.

Senate prohibition leaders expressed confidence today in the outcome. Senator Sheppard, republican, Texas, predicted there would not be more than 25 or 30 votes for consideration of a repeal resolution.

TEXTILE WAGE PROBE VOTED IN S. CAROLINA

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 23.—(AP) Governor Ibra C. Blackwood today had for his signature a bill passed by the legislature authorizing an investigation of the "stretch-out" system, out of which grew labor troubles in South Carolina textile mills three years ago.

Directed principally toward determining the effect of the system on the health of operatives, the bill calls for appointment of two physicians, one appointed by the chairman of the senate commerce and manufacturing committee and the other by the corresponding house chairman, to make the inquiry.

Under the "stretch out" system, unhealthy working conditions have been charged because of the increased number of looms each operative is required to handle.

BULLET IS REMOVED FROM BANDIT'S HEAD

Archie Frank White, Daylight Robber, Is Given Even Chance To Live.

Medical science came to the aid of law Wednesday and removed a bullet imbedded near the brain of Archie Frank White, 32, who was shot Tuesday afternoon in a daring downtown holdup by Odis Oglesby, Rogers stores superintendent. Carried to Grady hospital the bandit hovered between life and death for several hours and it was not until 24 hours had elapsed that doctors gave him an even chance for recovery.

The holdup was staged at a Rogers store at 201 Marietta street and White, brandishing a revolver, ordered clerks and customers to hold their hands high while he forced Paul Wheeler, the store manager, to hand over the cash drawer contents, five one-dollar bills. Backing out he circled corners to Walton street, where Mr. Oglesby, following, collared him. As White drew a gun, Mr. Oglesby shot him in the temple.

Members of the robber's family said that a series of unfortunate events and the lack of steady employment had caused him to resort to banditry. White declined to comment on the matter other than to inquire what had happened.

Doctors said Wednesday that even if White lives, he may be blind for life.

AUBURN DUAL RATIO SEEN BY HUNDREDS

The dual ratio week demonstration inaugurated Saturday by the Bird Motor Company to put the new Auburn eight and twelve in the spotlight has been a success, according to an announcement Wednesday by the company. A car that can show 80 miles an hour in second gear was viewed by hundreds of visitors, although the company had stated that no salesman would try to sell a car.

Mr. Bird explained that his company was making the dual ratio demonstration purely educational because of the intense interest roused in it during the past three months. The company accordingly made it clear to visitors that they were not imposing when they were given a demonstration in cases where they had no intention of buying.

He said that tests are being made to determine the acceleration of the dual equipped Auburns, and their performances on hills. The tests are made publicly and are carefully checked by disinterested experts. Special exhibits appear in the Auburn sales room.

Mr. Bird explained dual ratio, briefly, as an advancement in rear axle engineering which eliminates the compromise from driving ratios. In the past, he said, it has been impossible for a single car to command maximum efficiency on hills and in traffic, or on a straight-away, because i' driving ratio was fixed. It was necessary to effect a compromise which would give fair performance under all conditions.

"Dual ratio, by providing a choice of two driving ratios, has made this compromise unnecessary," he said. "A low ratio is afforded especially for the requirements of hills and heavy traffic. It gives the car fullest pulling or acceleration power. The high ratio translates engine power into speed for the straight-away, or allows the car to operate at ordinary speed with a one-third reduction in engine revolutions and resulting fuel economy. The change from one ratio to the other is governed by a small control lever on the dash."

COMMITTEE FROWNS ON SEED LOAN FEES

Eugene Talmadge, state commissioner of agriculture, was informed by Senator Walter F. George Wednesday that the seed loan administrator at Washington disapproves the practice of charging farmers for making out their applications.

In a letter to Senator George, Commissioner Talmadge said that he had received letters from many sections of the state in which farmers protested against county agents and others who were making out their applications from charging them as high as $1.25 for the application.

Mr. Talmadge also said that he had written to Dr. Phil Campbell, head of the state college extension service at Athens and Dr. Campbell replied that the matter of making any charge was in the hands of the county committees.

Senator George in another telegram to Eugene Talmade, state commissioner of agriculture, Wednesday said that he opposed a national sales tax but that if an item of the bill to tax cottonseed oil products was reached in the senate he would "do my best to eliminate" that feature.

In a letter to Senator George and other members of Georgia's congressional delegation, Commissioner Talmadge said that while the proposed sales tax measure exempted meat products, dairy products and oleomargarine it did not exempt cottonseed oil products.

53 ADDITIONAL PLACES FOUND FOR JOBLESS

Fifty-three additional jobs were reported Monday afternoon by canvassers in the united action campaign against unemployment, bringing Atlanta's total since the drive was begun in this city to 2,001. Passing of the 2,000 mark caused workers under the direction of the Atlanta post of the American Legion to feel highly encouraged at the prospects of a successful campaign.

The organized drive in Georgia has already resulted in jobs for more than 7,000 men and women being obtained, according to William A. Sirmon, adjutant of the state Legion forces. Unofficial reports at Adjutant Sirmon's offices in Atlanta indicated that the 120 Legion posts throughout Georgia are meeting with good results in the drive.

SPELMAN TO PRESENT CHARACTER STUDIES

COMMUNIST CASES PUT UP TO JUDGE

Pomeroy Will Decide Whether Six Defendants Must Stand Trial.

The question of whether indictments charging attempts to incite insurrection, a capital offense, are sufficient for trial of six alleged communists will be decided by Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, of Fulton superior court, within the next few days, after counsel for the defense presents its demurrers, Judge Pomeroy announced Wednesday after hearing arguments.

Should Judge Pomeroy order the six persons to trial, Georgia will witness the second trial under the 1868 statute since its enactment, the first trial in 1868 having resulted in a reversal of the lower court because the law as originally enacted failed to provide a penalty for the offense. This was corrected, however, in 1871, according to Assistant Solicitor-General John H. Hudson, who is prosecuting the cases.

The six defendants, Joe Carr, M. H. Powers, Mary Dalton, Ann Burlack, Gilmer Brady and Henry Story, Wednesday were watching developments of their cases from Chattanooga, where they will remain until they are needed in court, according to Oliver C. Hancock, of defense counsel.

Claims Indictments Invalid.

Advancing the contention that the defendants should be prosecuted under the "rescue," mob violence or riot laws instead of the insurrection statute, W. A. McClelland, of Macon, argued that the indictments are invalid because they fail to state the speeches, persuasion or literature complained of by the prosecution. McClelland said that if Carr and Powers, in appealing to passers-by for rescue from policemen who had arrested them, were guilty of attempting to incite insurrection, then a landowner who calls in his neighbors to eject a constable who attempts to levy illegally is guilty of the same offense.

"The only thing Carr and Powers asked was that the people restore their liberty," McClelland said. "They were content to let the government go where it willed. They were not after seizing the capitol and unseating the governor and the judges of our courts. They were just friendless and helpless persons trying to hold a meeting. Whether the meeting was to be good or bad, I am not prepared to say, and do not know, but they certainly are entitled to be put upon notice so they will know just what utterances they are accused of making illegally. They were not attempting insurrection against the government, but against individual policemen, just as a maudlin drunk might cry out for help after his arrest."

Hudson contended that overthrow of the government was the purpose of the presence in Atlanta of the defendants. "If we wait until they seize the capitol and courts before we consider it an overt act, there will be no government left to punish insurrection," Hudson argued. "Such was not the intent of the law."

Defends Officers.

Answering McClelland's argument that upon the officers rests the burden of proof that the arrest of Carr and Powers was legal, Hudson said that "officers are presumed by the law to do their duty." Hudson said that under the insurrection statute, the state does not have to plead the speeches and literature complained of.

References were made to Karl Marx's "The Left Wing Manifesto" and other communistic papers. Injected into the discussions also were references to the alleged aims of the communists, "a proletarian dictatorship; smashing of the national guard, C. M. T. C. and R. O. T. C., and abolition of the 'bosses' wars."

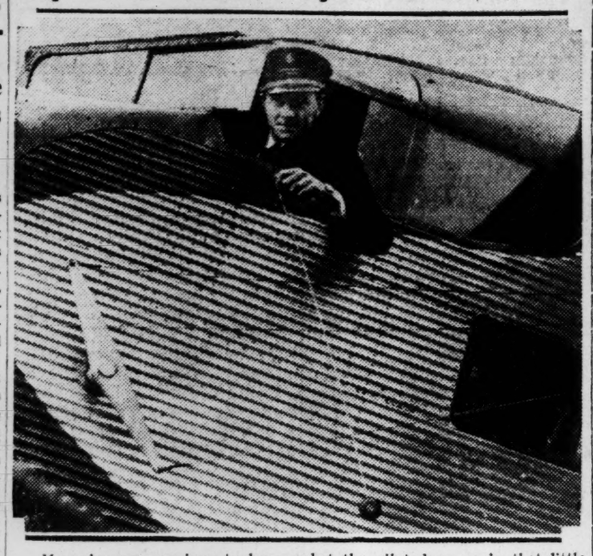

Hancock said that the 1868 law was passed to reach "a different situation that is not now before the people, and they are seeking to apply that archaic law to a new situation."

The indictments were returned in 1930. After remaining in jail for some time the defendants were allowed liberty under bond pending trial of their cases. The charges followed a series of meetings at which, on one occasion, someone exploded a tear bomb. The state charges that literature advocating the overthrow of the "capitalistic" government was distributed, and that speeches were made urging revolt.

Hudson said that the only case ever tried in Georgia under the act was that of John T. Gibson, a "free person of color," whose conviction in 1868 was reversed because the act did not then provide a punishment. Gibson was tried for counseling other "free persons of color" to break into jail and rescue Charles Fryer, Hudson said.

Although conviction under the insurrection attempt statute carries the death penalty, provision is made for a 5 to 20-year sentence on a jury recommendation of mercy.

Yo-Yo Top Takes to the Air; Up and Then Up Goes Yo-Yo

If you're ever curious to know what the pilot does up in that little closed-in cabin on a long flight we'll let you in on a secret. He yo-yos.

It has been said by eminent scientists that any child or individual who will lightly cast aside the yo-yo without mastering it will have difficulty in mastering life's problems.

Amby Subuia, one of the Philippine champions who is in Atlanta demonstrating this native top, gives you the low down on how to make the yo-yo yo-yo.

The yo-yo is all wound up, ready for a spin when you buy it. The loop projecting from the groove should be made into what is known as a slip knot and then placed around the middle finger at the first joint. Turn the palm of the hand upward, not downward, and allow the top to fall over the end of the finger.

When the yo-yo falls within about three inches to six inches from the bottom, raise the hand slightly, at the same time turning the palm downward to receive the yo-yo as it approaches your hand. Then you will see the yo-yo climb the string like a squirrel. This action is similar to bouncing a rubber ball.

If unsuccessful, rewind the string loosely in the groove of the yo-yo until the string has taken hold; then wind more firmly until it is all wound up.

ANN BURLACK CLAIMS R. I. REVIVED CHARGES

PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 23.—(AP)—Ann Burlack, 21-year-old radical agitator, one of six reputed communists against whom court action is pending in Georgia on charges of attempting to incite insurrection, declared here tonight that the Georgia case against her had been revived at the instigation of Rhode Island textile leaders.

Attempts were made by Miss Burlack to conduct a meeting recently in Central Falls, but she failed to obtain a permit to use a hall and was prevented by police from holding the meeting in the corridor.

"It would seem to be significant that five days after police frustrated our attempt to hold a meeting in Pulaski hall in Central Falls, this Georgia case, which has been lying quietly for two years, should suddenly be revived," she said tonight.

Miss Burlack has been in Rhode Island since March 8, when she returned from a tour of New England, New Jersey and Pennsylvania textile centers. Previously she made a visit to soviet Russia, she said.

ORGANIZATION NOTES GAIN IN EMPLOYMENT

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—An upward trend of employment was noted tonight by headquarters of the united action campaign to put a million unemployed Americans to work.

"The course showing unemployment has stopped going down at last," said a joint statement issued by Mark T. McKee, executive director, and Carl Byoir, director of organization.

It sent its grand total beyond the 300,000 mark today with 13,393 persons placed in wage-earning tasks in 132 towns in 39 states. The day's figure brought the total for the campaign to 312,897.

VICTIM OF STABBING SUCCUMBS AT GRADY

A mystery stabbing in a North Boulevard apartment last week was claimed to have been solved by detectives when the victim, John E. Lambert, of 540 Courtland street, died in Grady hospital late Wednesday afternoon. The stabbing occurred in an apartment at 521 North Boulevard on March 21, and, although police arrested G. P. Washington, 26, of Tampa, Fla., the wounded man refused to say why he was knifed or to name his assailant.

Upon the death of Lambert Wednesday afternoon, the charge against Washington was changed to murder, and detectives say Washington told them that the stabbing was the result of a fight which started when a girl companion of Washington sat in Lambert's lap during a party in the apartment.

Lambert, who had been a patient at Grady hospital more than 30 times as the result of a shoulder which frequently "jumped" out of place, was conscious up to the time of his death, but, according to hospital attendants, made no mention of the cause of the fight or who wielded the knife with which he was fatally stabbed.

CARROLLTON BANKER GETS TWO-YEAR TERM

George L. Stewart, 39-year-old cashier of the First National bank of Carrollton, which was liquidated in November, 1930, was sentenced to two years in the federal penitentiary Wednesday morning when he entered a plea of guilty before Judge E. Marvin Underwood in federal district court to charges of abstraction of bank funds.

The indictment on which he pleaded guilty charged Stewart with juggling accounts over a period of time from 1928 to 1930 and appropriating approximately $5,400 to his own use. He was arrested in April, 1930, and the bank was liquidated in November of the same year.

MRS. JOSEPH M. HIGH IS PAID FINAL TRIBUTE

Tribute to the unselfish devotion with which she endeavored to serve her community was paid to the memory of Mrs. Harriet Wilson High, widow of J. M. High, former leading retail merchant, at funeral services held at Mrs. High' Fifteenth street residence Wednesday afternoon. Dr. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of the North Avenue Presbyterian church, praised Mrs. High's loyalty to the church and her generosity to Atlanta. A large number of local lovers of art attended the rites. Interment was in the High family lot in West View cemetery.

Representatives of the Daughters of the American Revolution, the Colonial Dames, the United Daughters of the Confederacy and the Daughters of Patriots and Founders attended the services. It was Mrs. High who organized the Daughters of Patriots and Founders and she was honorary life president. An honorary escort from the Atlanta Art Association served, and the High Museum of Art, which she donated to the city in 1926, was closed as a token of mourning for her passing.

WATERWORKS MEN END MEETING TODAY

Following the election of new officers and a feature lecture on "Trend of Municipal Sewage Disposal," by Wellington Donaldson, consulting engineer of New York city, the fourth annual session of the southeastern district of the American Waterworks Association will end at the Biltmore hotel today. This afternoon the annual golf tournament for members will be held at East Lake.

The meeting, which opened Tuesday morning, has been notable for the numerous technical discusions by leading engineers in this and other sections of the country. Among the speakers Wednesday afternoon were J. K. Marquis, of Spartanburg, S. C.; Hilary H. Gardner, of Atlanta, and L. H. Enslow, editor of Waterworks and Sewage.

The annual banquet was held at the Biltmore Wednesday night, with special entertainment taking the place of speeches. Following the banquet a dance was held in the ballroom.

HARRISON FUNERAL AWAITS RELATIVES

Funeral arrangements for Fred E. Harrison, 50, well-known Atlanta attorney, were held in abeyance Wednesday by Harry G. Poole, pending the arrival in Atlanta from distant cities of relatives. The body of Mr. Harrison was found Tuesday afternoon at the wheel of his automobile, which was parked on a lonely site on the Chamblee-Tucker highway. An automatic pistol and two notes were found near by.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of suicide after readir, the note left addressed to Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole, in which the attorney made known his intention to commit suicide.

ATLANTA, GA., MARCH 24, 1932.

A PUNCTURED BOOM.

Nobody is surprised at the decisive nature of Georgia's expression in Wednesday's election of its presidential preference. Any other result, or a victory of less magnitude, would have been surprising.

There has not been a day since the beginning of the unnecessary campaign foisted upon the state by the entrance of a "proxy" candidate that the voters have not understood the sinister motives behind it.

From the start it was a bluff, pure and simple, instigated not with any intention or expectation of convincing the people that it was a serious effort to capture the state's delegation to the Chicago convention, but solely for the effect the sounding of its tom-toms might have in other states.

To that end the game was played to the finish, without attracting a corporal's guard of support in Georgia.

During the campaign in New Hampshire fake "news" reports, emanating from the newspaper mouthpiece of the "proxy" forces in Atlanta, were circulated among the voters in the hope of misleading them into believing that Georgia was on the verge of turning thumbs down on an adopted son.

The same thing was tried in Minnesota and North Dakota—but it hasn't worked anywhere it has been tried.

The stern condemnation in yesterday's result of the methods being employed to bolster up the expiring "stop-Roosevelt" campaign in other states will not be without effect throughout the country.

Those behind the movement are entitled to such comfort as they can get out of the result of a campaign conceived in deceit, conducted in hypocrisy and concluded in ignominious defeat.

THE WHITEHALL VIADUCT.

With the signing by Acting Maypr J. Charlie Murphy of councilmanic resolutions awarding the reconstruction of the Whitehall street viaduct to the Flagler Company, the way is cleared for a start on the preparatory work for this much-needed civic improvement.

The wisdom of municipal construction programs at this time is emphasized by the low price quoted for the work. Two or three years ago the present cost of $30,482 would have been at least a third more.

Councilman William M. Rogers, of the seventh ward, chairman of the bridge committee of council, has done yeoman work in clearing away all the necessary preliminaries to the actual start of work on the new viaduct. As a result the new structure will be erected during the months when traffic is lightest and the temporary closing of the viaduct will bring about the least possible overcrowding of the other arteries of the city.

The work will also bring employment to many men in different lines who are now without work.

Councilman Rogers' task was not an easy one, but the whole-hearted manner in which he went at it insured the success of his efforts to have this important municipal undertaking gotten under way at a time when it will be of the greatest benefit.

The financing of the viaduct is made possible through the advance to the city of its share of the cost by John W. Grant, and to the county by the First National bank, through its president, John K. Ottley, both on long-term loans.

The completion of the new viaduct will give Atlanta a system of modern structures over the railroad tracks at each north and south traffic boulevard, and will mean that not for many years will the city have to spend any money to improve or enlarge its downtown bridge system.

KEEPING THE RECORD STRAIGHT.

Despite world recognition of Dr. Crawford W. Long, of Georgia, as the discoverer of anesthesia, Dr. Frank W. Boland, of Atlanta, president of the Crawford W. Long Memorial Association, calls attention, in a communication appearing elsewhere on this page, to the fact that "there is a tendency in several places to resurrect the old idea that Morton, of Boston, discovered anesthesia in 1846."

It has been indisputably established that Dr. Long performed a surgical operation with the application of ether to deaden the pain of the patient in 1842, and that following that successful experiment he used anesthetics in many operations during the four years prior to the date claimed by Dr. Morton as the first occasion on which anesthesia was put to use.

The United States government recognized the legality of the claim made by Dr. Long's friends by sanctioning the placing of his statue in the national hall of fame in the capitol at Washington. Numerous medical societies throughout the country adopted resolutions approving the selection of Dr. Long for this honor.

The National Eclectic Association as far back as 1879 passed a resolution declaring its "recognition of the inestimable services rendered to medical science and humanity by the late Crawford W. Long, the discoverer of anesthesia." The Georgia Medical Association participated in the unveiling of a monument to Dr. Long as the discoverer of anesthesia. The memorial hospital at the University of Georgia is named in his honor.

His photograph hangs in the anesthetics hall of the Royal Society of Medicine, London; during the war the Georgia D. A. R. financed a Crawford W. Long memorial bed in the hospital at Neuilly, only three miles from Paris. La Escuela de Medicina, published in Mexico City, recognized the claims for Dr. Long in an article in which it said "A statue of Crawford W. Long should be raised not only in the national hall of fame but in every medical school, in every hospital, in every public institution, the world over."

Dr. Long's alma mater, the University of Pennsylvania, celebrated the seventieth anniversary of his discovery of anesthesia by unveiling a bronze tablet to his memory.

Notwithstanding these and innumerable other official recognitions of Dr. Long as the discoverer of anesthesia, Boston persists in the annual observance of "Ether Day" in recognition of the claims of Dr. Morton.

There also stands in Connecticut a monument erected to Horace Wells, the inscription containing the statement that he "discovered anesthesia November 2, 1844."

In view of the continued New England claims Dr. Boland's suggestion that "Georgia should celebrate the real 'ether day' once in a while," is both timely and wise.

A moralist says automobiles are ruining the younger generation. We don't know about this, but we know the younger generation is ruining the automobiles.

Dr. Mayo says you can keep young by doing as the young do. Perhaps he's right—but it wouldn't be worth anything like the trouble it entailed.

A dentist warns that drinking bootleg liquor is very injurious to the teeth. But that doesn't particularly matter—those who drink it won't need teeth very long.

The Russians want to Americanize their railroads. As a starter, it shouldn't be difficult for them to inaugurate our system of train-calling.

A scientist says that kissing has an intoxicating effect. We'll bet he wasn't monkeying around with any test tube when he made this discovery.

An eminent banker in refusing an interview recently said that bankers talk too much. Perhaps they do, but then it always does take a lot of language to say no without saying "No."

A college professor is trying to determine what subject is most difficult to master. Offhand, we'd say Chinese shorthand.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

Germans in Favor.

The other night a big crowd turned out to a New York church to hear Captain Julius Lauterbach, one-time commander of the submarine Emden, relate the story of his amazing wartime venture as a sinker of unarmed merchantmen, troop transports and war vessels. He was introduced by Captain Felix Von Luckner, another modern buccaneer.

The stories they told were deeply appreciated by the audience. The two sailors were cheered to the echo. Americans apparently admire plucky soldiers or sailors, even if they spin the yarns of their heroic stunts themselves.

Whatever the merit or demerits of reviving war memories, this much is certain: very little remains in this country of that spirit which was so evident in 1918, when many prominent men solemnly declared that it would be impossible for them ever to shake the hands of a German again. They are shaking them very heartily these days.

In Cincinnati I saw a movie of a German outfit attacking a French post. The Germans were cheered when they put the French to the bayonets. Our attitude toward Germany and the Germans certainly has changed. I doubt, though, whether Captains Lauterbach and Luckner would have a chance to tell their stories to any French audience.

In France the old spirit is alive.

American Wins Soviet Contest.

The soviets are planning to put a gigantic modern structure, the Palace of the Soviets, on the spot where up til a few months ago stood the Cathedral of the Redeemer in Moscow. The new building is to house governmental offices, and will also contain a state theater, shops, a library, a hotel and other modern conveniences.

The Russian government desires that this palace shall in architectural lines express the spirit of the new era. Coupled with vastness of design, it is to convey an impression of solidity and security. The government therefore invited architects all over the world to submit designs. The winning design has just been announced. It is the work of an American expert, Hector O. Hamilton, of East Orange, New Jersey.

Mr. Hamilton has already left for Russia, where he has been invited by the soviets to superintend the building of the vast edifice, which, according to the blue prints, is something of colossal dimensions, rare beauty and imposing dignity.

Long Live The Emperor!

Henry Pu-yi, formerly of the Chinese imperial throne, latterly of Monparnasse midnight cafe fame, is to be the new emperor of Manchuria. He's getting ready for his coronation, dispatches tell us. It will be a swell affair.

Here's hoping Henry Pu-yi will like it, which is more than doubtful, given the shyness of his character and his pronounced views on war, armies, soldiers, etc.

"A sage has nothing to do with these things," Henry Pu-yi used to say when discussing uprisings and rebellions and warfare in general in the old days when he lingered long hours in one of the famous old taverns of Paris with the newspapermen, artists and their models. "I would sooner paint a beautiful picture than be emperor of the greatest state on earth," he said.

And now he is to be emperor, although not of the greatest state on earth. How will Mr. Henry treat his former friends of the life Bohemian should they ever stray around into his part of the globe? That's something we would like to know, as we are laying subtle plans to reach the east via the west.

Claims for Dr. Morton As Anesthesia Discoverer Still Being Advanced

Editor Constitution: When we placed the statue of Crawford W. Long in Washington, in 1926, we felt that the matter of the priority of the discovery of anesthesia was settled once for all. Apparently, however, we were mistaken, since lately there seems to be a tendency in several places to resurrect the old idea that Morton, of Boston, discovered anesthesia in 1846.

I think it is incumbent upon the press and the educational and patriotic organizations of our state to insist that this great honor really belongs to a native-born Georgian, who was the first to use ether in surgery and did so at Jefferson, Ga., March 30, 1842. Undoubtedly this was one of the great events in the history of the world. It not only concerns the medical profession, but all humanity as well and we cannot give Dr. Long too much credit and praise.

"Ether Day" is celebrated in Boston, by appropriate ceremonies and I believe we should celebrate the real "Ether Day" in Georgia every once in a while anyhow. The ninetieth anniversary seems to be a good time to begin.

Thanking you for your co-operation, I am

Very sincerely yours,
F. K. BOLAND,
President Crawford W. Long Memorial Association.

If the Vessel Leans Awry, Whose Hand Is To Blame If Not the Potters?

—By Robert Quillen—

The theory that everybody is entitled to freedom is pure nonsense. In a world full of people, one man's rights must end where another's begin. The more people there are in a given area, the fewer the rights of each.

The right to freedom must be earned. And the individual can earn it only by giving evidence that he can be trusted with it.

The human race is young, but in the brief period since the stone age it has acquired much knowledge and wisdom. Of the many truths it has learned none is more clearly established than the fact that restraint of the individual is necessary for the protection and welfare of society.

No less clearly established is the fact that restraint is impossible without punishment or the threat of punishment. Jails are monuments to human wisdom as well as human folly.

Whether the threat of punishment promises a thrashing, a jail sentence or eternal fire is immaterial. The point is that some threat of punishment is necessary as an aid to virtue.

We all-wise moderns have disregarded the experience of the ages and developed a new method of training youth. It consists in washing our hands of the job and leaving youth to train itself—without threat of punishment and almost without hindrance.

Times have changed, we say. Human nature is different. Modern youth will not submit to discipline.

What, then, of soldiers? They are young, are they not? They are modern. They possess human nature. And they submit to discipline as men in ranks have done since the beginning of history.

When youth reaches maturity it is restrained by fear of punishment. It must surrender liberty or action and conform to the rules or go to jail.

When, then, shouldl it be denied training in discipline before maturity? Is youth alone competent to govern itself without interference? Is the theory of punishment right for adults and wrong for children?

To test the worth of a theory, discover whether it works. The old way had faults, but they were the faults of the times. Despite its faults, it developed men and women who had respect for law and scorned indecency.

The new way must be judged by its fruits. To approve it you must approve the customs that developed when the old way was discarded.

HOLLYWOOD IN PERSON

BY MOLLIE MERRICK.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., March 23.—Joan Crawford gets the big opportunity of her career with the purchase of "Rain" by M.-G.-M., as a starring vehicle for this promising young member of the cinema great.

While every producer in the business has been willing to admit that Joan Crawford is an actress of outstanding ability and supreme box-office appeal, her assignments heretofore have followed largely along the same lines—the dancing daughter of modernity jazzing it through tears and difficulties to a saner understanding of life.

As "Sadie Thompson," Joan Crawford will have a chance to play a truly dramatic role with plenty of meat in it. United Artists had been holding the rights to the play for Gloria Swanson's next talkie vehicle. Then Gloria Swanson had difficulties with Sam Goldwyn about stories, and met Michael Farmer. She preferred an interval given over to domesticity to playing Sadie in talking pictures. And that is that.

A new blonde arriving in Hollywood ranks will cause a sensation without doubt. She is Diana Wynyard, the lovely English actress who made a conquest of New York when she appeared with Basil Rathbone in "The Devil Passes."

Diana Wynyard has great freshness and charm as well as true beauty and her stage training has been of the best. She joins a studio where she will find plenty of competition—Norma Shearer, Joan Crawford, Marion Davies, Garbo—and so on. One can name them indefinitely.

Tallulah Bankhead has chosen the most sophisticated Easter costume of any of the cinema beauties. A long draped skirt of black crepe is moulded to her hips and flares like the petals of a morning glory. The jacket of black crepe is hip length and banded with silver fox. A blouse of dusty gold lame is starred over with little white flowers. And the tiny hat which crowns the picture is literally worn on one ear. It is of the crepe also and about the size of a cardinal's cap. Bankhead's ash-blonde hair is beautiful and this type of headgear is particularly becoming.

Marion Davies also has selected a somewhat formal costume for this sunny clime. Of black wool, form fitting, it is a lovely slim frock with a deep white satin vest. A tiny black felt hat worn forward over the laughing eyes of this lady would be a most delicious touch as you'll have to admit. There are cuffs of the satin and a separate fox scarf.

Thelma Todd is also wearing a lot of black these days. It sets off her blonde beauty, for one thing, and, for another it makes a girl appear so slim! Thelma, who has been signed again as leading lady for those irrepressible Marx brothers, is on a diet of soup—the quickest way to get thin this colony knows.

You have nice warm black coffee for breakfast, and a nice cup of warm bouillon at 10:30. For luncheon you have a nice cup of warm soup—without vegetables or cream, of course. Then there's that nice soup again at 3:30 and for dinner . . . don't guess, let me tell you . . . it's soup. You dwindle. But you mustn't do it for more than five days at a time. And some of the girls have a bit of skimmed milk or tomato juice warmed up to vary the monotony.

That midnight hair of Carmelita Geraghty has been made blonde. It's sensational with her black eyes and it goes to prove what Hollywood can do in the way of effecting beauty transformations.

$10,000 DAILY COST ENTAILED BY NEWS OF SINO-JAP WAR

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The battle within a battle as foreign correspondents at Shanghai sought to get their "war" news back home was described by Charles Stephenson Smith, of the Washington bureau of the Associated Press, before the Institute of Far Eastern Affairs.

Citing the intensive interest in America when the Chinese-Japanese hostilities were at their climax, Mr. Smith said that during this period American cable news from Shanghai and Tokyo was estimated at from 10,000 to 30,000 words daily.

"The cable rate on Shanghai press matter is 27 cents a word," he pointed out. Some of the matter came at full rates, which is $1,46 a word. There were single days when the tolls on news of the Shanghai fighting sent from the far east to the United States doubtless exceeded $10,000. This does not include dispatches from Geneva and European capitals concerning the far eastern tangle.

While correspondents on the scene flooded the seven cables available for transmission of news and the business offices noted the steadily rising costs, Mr. Smith said, editors in this country sat checking clock-dials showing the difference in time between here and China, routing matter by the cable that was moving the news the fastest.

"It was as exciting as a horse race," he said.

Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

THE ROLLING TEST FOR BELLY-TONE.

Sorry there is not enough time to review last lesson today, children, but if anything in today's lesson puzzles you at all, you might dig up the paper for this day week and the issue for this day fortnight and go over the first and second lessons of the series on the role of the belly as an organ of circulation.

In modern practice we have some functional tests which give much more information, in some cases, than a physician can elicit in the ordinary way. A familiar one, which is fairly simple for the layman to understand, is the breath-holding test. A healthy person at rest can hold his breath 40 seconds or perhaps a bit longer in some circumstances. If you find you can't hold out for 40 seconds by the watch, there's certainly something wrong with you—not necessarily your heart, but anyhow your circulation is inefficient and you ought to consult a physician about it, whether you can conjure up any symptoms or not. If you feel silly about going to the physician for such a thing, here is a perfectly good alibi—say nothing about your little test, but just tell him you want a general health examination by way of a check up or inventory. Then leave it to the doctor to discover if there is anything wrong.

For years I have been advising folks to roll somersaults regularly, night and morning, as a first rate substitute for exercise. A lot of old fossils, lay and professional, have considered this absurd. Some of them, particularly the professional ones, have expressed themselves in print in the medical journals about it. Still I keep on rolling, rolling, right merrily—or rather I keep on keeping our readers doing so.

Perchance a few old subscribers will remember the Brady symphony—a set of exercises I devised. A rendition of the Brady symphony consumed 15 minutes a day, all told. One can roll oneself a half dozen somersaults forward and another half dozen or the same six backward in less than two minutes. I do not mean to imply that it is possible to get the benefits of 15 minutes' exercise from two minutes somersaulting. But in one way the somersaultaqua has it over the symphony — guys who won't work will roll their own, and a roll is better than a loaf any time. I commend the somersault habit particularly to the older boys and girls —the older you feel or look the better. But I want it distinctly understood, I shall not be responsible for broken necks, punctures by hairpins or safety or other pins, loss of meals or any other casualties. Before you try somersaulting, you had better find out what a somersault is, and I don't mean Webster's version. If you don't think the somersaultauqua a silly business, write in and inclose stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for instructions.

been borne out by Beavers' subsequent ultimatum to members of the department.

Hudson Not Shifted.

Only Lieutenant E. C. Hudson of the five lieutenants composing the 4 o'clock watch escaped a shift in Beavers' rearrangement. He remained in charge of the North Side residential patrol.

Those changed were:

Lieutenants Robert L. Waggoner from the North Side city patrol to the South Side residential patrol; M. A. Hornsby from the South Side residential patrol to the South Side city patrol; W. C. Hardy from the South Side city patrol to the North Side city patrol, and L. F. Carter from the North Side city patrol to the South Side city patrol. The lieutenants have charge of the patrols, and the city patrol consists of the business districts in the respective sections of the city.

"There has been grumbling about the 10 per cent cut in salaries of policemen," Beavers told the 5 o'clock watch Wednesday afternoon, "but from the way most of the men have been acting, and the little police duty they have been doing, they are overpaid even with the cut.

"Perform or Get Out."

"Perform or get out. Lieutenants of this department have been shielding men under them who have violated departmental rules. From now on I am chief of this department. Several lieutenants of recent creation have acquired too much prestige. If I am not chief but one day, I intend to be chief for that day. If you can not co-operate, just turn in your uniforms.

"We are near the end of the rope—especially in the case of several of the grumbling lieutenants. They have been leaving their territories. Unless this condition is corrected immediately, something is going to 'pop.'

"Attend to your business and let other people's business alone, and quit squabbling. I mean business about this, and if there is a single man on the department who can not gracefully submit to what I am saying and who disagrees with it, turn in your uniform and get out now. It will save trouble later."

Insubordination Charge Likely.

Poole probably will be charged with insubordination and several other counts, which, in the discretion of the police committee, would subject him to demotion if not to enforced retirement, should he be found guilty.

Beavers last year charged Poole with a "whispering campaign which is undermining my influence in the department and which is reacting to the detriment of the service."

Last year's police committee took no action, and finally Beavers was forced to file a petition for retirement on a pension. Key and Beavers outwitted the old committee, however, when Beavers filed the petition to become effective January 26, 1932, the day of his forty-third year of service in the department, and Key shifted the old committee, giving Beavers an entirely new group of bosses friendly to the chief. Beavers, on the first day of January, withdrew his pension application, and yesterday made it known that he will be chief in fact as well as in name.

Authority Divided.

For the past several years there has been a virtual division of authority at the police station. Beavers and Poole fell out, and that started the fight. They have had periodic battles since with Poole gaining in prestige. Mayor James L. Key, however, moved to divest Poole of his authority when he selected the 1932 police committee, and Beavers' bold action Wednesday was taken to mean the first flurry before the storm which, it is expected, will rock the entire department.

Poole will not be driven from his post, it was said Wednesday, although Poole would make no statement. He can not be demoted or fired and neither can any other officer unless found guilty of some offense. Poole has walked the straight and narrow, his friends assert, and no charge with any substance can be made against him.

"This is just a beginning of the reform we plan in the department," Beavers said in commenting on the changes. "We plan to put the department to work to protect the lives and property of Atlantans. That is what policemen are hired to do."

Foster Fund Climbs to $549; Boykin Orders Early Trials

Courage Fund

The Foster Courage Fund growing steadily as contributions to the family of the heroic detective flow into The Constitution. Wednesday night reached $549. Subscriptions Wednesday ranged from 50 cents to $25. As fast as the money is received it is being turned over to the family of Detective Frank C. (Red) Foster, who died in an effort to prevent the robbery of the Boulevard Delicatessen.

City Detective Was Working To Retrieve Lost Home at Time of Murder by Bandit.

As the Courage Fund for the bereaved family of the late Frank C. Foster Wednesday climbed to $549, it was learned that the brave detective, who paid with his life for performing his duty in thwarting the attempted robbery of a delicatessen, had lost his home because of economic pressure due to sickness of Mrs. Foster.

"Red," as Foster was called affectionately by his associates in the Atlanta police department, lost his home when Frank Clinton Jr., now 4 years old, was born. Mrs. Foster was critically ill and the savings of the little family were diverted to pay hospital and doctor's bills.

Red lost his little home, and the only insurance he was able to carry was the $2,000 to which all members of the police department are entitled under the group policy plan.

Since Mrs. Foster was restored to health, the family has lived in a rented place, but Red dreamed of the day when he again could provide a home of his own and was working to that end, when the bandit's bullet ploughed through his body as he boldly prevented the robbery of the lunchroom.

Thought Only of Duty.

When the bandit quartet invaded the lunchroom, where Foster was seated after having been relieved of his duties for the day, and Red saw they intended to rob the place, thoughts of his family were momentarily banished. He was not dreaming then of the little home he hoped to retrieve by frugal living, nor of the education he hoped to provide for his loved ones.

There was one—only one—thought in his mind. That was to do his duty as an officer of the Atlanta police department. Heedless of the result, he boldly challenged the outlaws, and when the flash of pistols began, although himself mortally wounded, he brought down one of the quartet.

Law enforcement officers Wednesday were ready to place the four surviving members of the bandit gang on trial, but nothing the law can do will restore Red to the fireside of his bereaved family. Never again will Clinton Jr., 4, nor Climie, 8, his little doughter, know the joy of calling their "Daddy" and hearing his response. His lips are sealed with the stillness of death. There is an emptiness, a void, in their small hearts. Red paid with his life for performing his duty and he left two children with small opportunity of gaining an education and his family with little hope of taking its proper place in the world unless his loyal friends and those who appreciate bravery and a loyalty to duty aid them.

Public Asked to Help.

Realizing this, The Constitution agreed to sponsor the Courage Fund. It is wide open to any who wish to contribute, and persons from all walks of life are invited to help. Red paid the supreme sacrifice in discharging his duty. He could have failed to interfere. He was off duty. Such things have been done before, but those who knew Red best, know he was not made of that kind of stuff. They knew he would do just what he did, fight until the last spark of life was snuffed out.

Prompt trial of four negroes accused of the murder was ordered Wednesday by Solicitor-General John A. Boykin in setting the cases for next Wednesday before Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy in Fulton superior court.

Detectives Lon Evans and Sam A. Smith are on their way from Detroit with Mose White, who was indicted with Richard Sims, Richard Morris and John Wesley Peek for Foster's murder. White was said to have been the fifth member of the gang which attempted to rob the Boulevard Delicatessen only to meet with a heroic attempt by Foster to foil the robbery. One member of the gang, Harold White, died at Grady hospital as the result of wounds inflicted by Foster.

STATE DEATH LIST INCREASED BY TWO

Georgia's list of dead from the windstorms of Monday night rose to 37 Wednesday as relief agencies drove into the task of rehabilitation.

The two new deaths were those of R. M. Hitchcock, of Comer, bringing the list of deaths in the Athens vicinity to 15, and of Willard Autrey, 10, at Dalton. The boy's death lifted Murray county's list of fatalities to six.

Governor Richard B. Russell Jr. promised every co-operation his office could render in an interview with Stone J. Crane, general field representative of the American Red Cross, who passed through here en route to Comer to make a survey of damage and relief facilities.

In the Cartersville vicinity, relief work was being directed by Miss Annette McClaren from the Washington Red Cross office. Red Cross stations had been set up in Athens and Bartow as well.

Crane was accompanied here by Dr. William de Kleine, general medical advisor of the Red Cross, and Thomas Thompson, field worker, who went on to Alabama to survey the situation there. Dr. de Kleine will return to Georgia later to confer with Crane.

Fourteen persons remained in hospitals at Athens, 15 at Dalton, and others at Rome. Several were not expected to live.

In the Cartersville vicinity a serious need of food, clothing and shelter was reported. The city itself escaped damage, but the citizens constituted themselves an unofficial relief force for the outlying districts.

Throughout the storm-ravaged area temporary shelters were being set up and preparations were being made for rebuilding the scores of homes that were blown down around their occupants.

Governor Russell, Senator George and Congressman Tarver have asked to be advised of the relief needs of the territory.

RED CROSS BEGINS WORK OF MERCY

ville, Ga., to assist in relief work there.

In Athens, Ga., organized and volunteer relief forces co-operated in assisting the injured and homeless. Mayor A. G. Dudley and civic organizations formed a central relief committee to direct rehabilitation. At the Union Baptist institute for negroes in Athens, students and faculty members were preparing food and caring for injured negroes.

In South Carolina, relief workers were sent into the Berry Shoals and Fairmont communities of Spartanburg county, where three persons were killed and more than a score hurt by Monday night's tornado. The Red Cross, Salvation Army and the national guard were working jointly in the relief of some 30 families left homeless there.

The same measures were being taken in the Pulaski and other stricken communities in Tennessee and in the storm area in Kentucky.

Everywhere is expressed the determination to rebuild. Billy Smith, editor of the Chilton County (Alabama) News, expressed the note of the stricken communities when he said, "Those who suffered the storm ravages are going to rebuild their homes and take up life where it was interrupted."

Colonel Hartley A. Moon, adjutant geenral of Alabama, today ordered an aerial survey of communities in the state lashed by Monday night's tornado and in an endeavor to ascertain quickly supply needs of the storm sufferers.

He instructed that two planes be sent to Montgomery from the national guard base at Birmingham early tomorrow to pick up two representatives of his department who will make the survey. It is planned to make a hurried sweep of all the major disaster centers and report back to Montgomery by early afternoon.

Health officers in all the affected areas were instructed by J. N. Baker, state health officer, to lend every assistance to the Red Cross and local relief agencies in relieving the suffering and controlling spread of disease.

Simultaneously, the state department of agriculture in conjunction with railroads and the Red Cross launched a statewide relief program to provide food, clothing and other necessities for the unfortunates without shelter and left destitute as a result of the tornadoes.

A survey conducted by agents of the department disclosed that more than 1,000 farm homes were completely destroyed and many others severely damaged. L. N. Duncan, director of the Auburn extension service, announced that county agents and home demonstration agents near storm centers have been instructed to devote their entire time to relief work.

TERRIFIC DESTRUCTION DESCRIBED BY AVIATOR

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 23. (AP)—A titanic drag lowered to the ground to sweep it clean could have done no better than the tornadoes that struck Chilton county Monday night, Colonel Sumter Smith, of the Alabama national guard, said today after an aerial reconnaisance.

An area covering 25 square miles was extensively damaged, Colonel Smith said, with patches of destruction ranging from 100 yards to a mile wide.

The twisters hedge-hopped across the countryside, Colonel Smith said, dipping to sweep a large area clear, then lifting only to drop to earth and create havoc a short distance further on.

Houses were masses of splinters, woods a mass of twisted, broken timber and fields littered with debris.

"I have never seen destruction to equal it," Colonel Smith said. "No person could actually describe the situation and tell it as bad as it is."

STUDENTS DEPART FOR COAL FIELDS

University of Chicago, Smith College, University of Cincinnati, Boston University, Harvard University, Ohio State University, and University of North Carolina. A delegation from the University of Tennessee will greet them at Knoxville.

The national college committee of the National Student League arranged the excursion. Donald J. Henderson, president, and an instructor in economics at Columbia, explained the purpose is purely sociological research.

"COMMUNISTIC" ACTIVITY IS BANNED BY OFFICIALS

PINEVILLE, Ky., March 23.—(AP) Warning that no communistic activities and no incendiary speeches will be tolerated during the visit of students to the southeastern Kentucky coal fields was issued by city and county officials here today.

The students, representing a dozen or so colleges and universities, are expected to meet in Knoxville, Tenn., Friday, drive and reach the Bell county coal fields late that afternoon. Sociological research into conditions that caused the bloody clashes between strikers and deputy sheriffs during last year's coal fields strike are to be studied and relief brought to jobless miners, according to Donald J. Henderson, president of the National College Committee of the National Student League.

The visiting students will be "accorded the freedom of the county," Walter B. Smith, county attorney, said today, "but the moment they identify themselves with the 'red' movement, they will be filed with other exhibits we have in jail here. We will not tolerate any communistic activities in Bell county."

At Harlan, Sheriff J. H. Blair, of Harlan county, said no "red" speeches would be allowed in Harlan county.

'UNDERPASS' FORCES WIN MONROE RACE

FORSYTH, Ga., March 23.—(AP)—In one of the most hotly contested local elections in recent years, the three incumbent members of the Monroe county board of commissioners were returned to office over three opponents.

The main issue at stake was whether the new Indian Springs highway should come down Railroad avenue, or enter Forsyth by an underpass. The old commissioners, favoring the railway underpass road, were victorious. The successful candidates and the votes they received were: A. M. Garr, 955; C. A. Holmes, 1,120, and J. A. Pennington, 971. The defeated candidates and their votes were: J. D. Lane, 702; U. L. Porch, 555, and B. J. Tribble, 227.

Dr. Thomas D. Thurmond, county school superintendent, seeking re-election, was defeated by Mrs. J. T. Sutton. Other candidates in this race were T. G. Scott and R. L. Williams. Other county officers were unopposed.

HOOVER APPROVES 'YELLOW DOG' BAN

Anti-Injunction Bill Signed; Constitutionality in Doubt.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—President Hoover late today signed the Norris-LaGuardia anti-injunction bill outlawing the "yellow dog" contract and safeguarding labor's right to bargain collectively.

In signing the measure, the president made public a lengthy letter from Attorney-General Mitchell, discussing various argument against the bill but recommending that it be approved.

The anti-injunction measure provides among other things:

Avoidance of the "yellow dog" contract which forbids employes from joining labor unions and grants public recognition of labor's right to organize.

The right of defendants in contempt suits to a jury trial and a transfer of judges.

Rigid limitation of injunctions in labor disputes without prior hearings and findings of fact unless unlawful acts have been committed, substantial injury to property is in prospect or officers are unable or unwilling to furnish protection.

Attorney-General Mitchell's letter asserted there were various aspects of the bill "the unconstitutionality of which has been debated."

He said, however, the questions were of such nature "that they can only be set at rest by judicial decision."

Service Flying Men Show Courage In Escaping Death in Mishaps

By the Associated Press.

Mishaps to airplanes, accompanied by instances of personal bravery, figured largely in news of the Pacific coast Tuesday.

Colliding over Los Angeles harbor, planes piloted by Naval Ensigns Elliot W. Parish and Clayton C. Marcy, were damaged. Displaying cool heads, the naval officers piloted the ships to the water's surface, where harbor craft rushed to rescue the pilots and two observers.

At San Diego Corporal Himer N. Torner, of the marine corps, forced his way into the cockpit occupied by Staff Sergeant Orla S. Hofer, when the latter became ill at an altitude of 5,000 feet and fell over the controls. Torner, without piloting experience, brought the ship safely to a landing.

A Navajo Airways' plane with six passengers was found 10 miles south of Nelson, Ariz., after it had been missing 16 hours. Outside of being cold and hungry the passengers were none the worse for a forced landing and their night in the open.

TWO NAVY PILOTS SHOW COURAGE AFTER COLLISION

SAN PEDRO, Cal., March 23.—(AP) Two navy pilots courageously remained at the controls of their planes after a collision, 2,500 feet above the anchored squadrons of the United States fleet in the harbor here yesterday and landed safely in the sea.

Both pilots, Ensigns Elliott W. Parish and Clayton C. Marcy, as well as their passengers, Lieutenant J. E. Oberrender and Chief Gunner's Mate B. L. Summers, escaped without getting their feet wet.

CORPORAL PROVES WORTH AS EMERGENCY PILOT

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 23.—(AP) When the marine corps made Himer M. Torner an emergency corporal, it did not realize he would take his rating literally.

Torner, a novice in the air, went aloft as a passenger in a training plane yesterday with Staff Sergeant Orla S. Hofer.

Over Camp Kearney, at an elevation of 5,000 feet, Sergeant Hofer became ill, fainted and fell against the controls.

Torner saw the plane begin a quick but crazy descent toward the camp buildings. Realizing an emergency existed, he crawled out of his cockpit, pulled the unconscious sergeant away from the controls—and the marines, or rather the marine, had the situation once more in hand.

Although his maneuvering would not have qualified him for a pilot's license, Torner brought the plane out of its spin with the ground but 500 feet away, shot it up to 3,000 feet and then, feeling he had mastered the plane, brought it to an awkward landing on the wrong runway at the army flying field.

When army officers reached the plane to inquire for the reason for the unscheduled maneuvers over their buildings, they found Torner applying first aid treatment to Hofer, who was quickly revived.

DR. HENRY PORTER TO RETURN FRIDAY TO VIRGINIA PULPIT

After having spent several days in Atlanta as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Dodson, Dr. Henry Alford Porter, former beloved pastor of the Second Baptist church of this city, will return Friday night to Charlottesville, Va., to occupy his pulpit there for Easter Sunday services.

Dr. Porter was entertained Wednesday at luncheon at the Capital City Club by P. C. McDuffie, who assembled a number of his old Atlanta friends to meet him.

During his long residence in Atlanta Dr. Porter made many warm friendships, and probably no minister ever serving a church here had more friends or was entrenched more deeply in the hearts of the people of this city than Dr. Porter.

He now has charge of the leading Baptist church in Charlottesville where, regardless of denomination, he is held in high esteem by the citizenry of that place and by the college boys of the University of Virginia.

Dr. Porter will conclude a two weeks' evangelistic campaign at Second Baptist church tonight and Friday night with sermons on "The Great Call" and "Keep the Fires Burning."

SOUTH AFRICA FACES DEFICIT OF $6,000,000

CAPETOWN, Union of South Africa, March 23.—(AP)—The Union of South Africa has an estimated budget deficit of 1,200,000 pounds ($6,000,000 at par) for the current fiscal year, the finance minister reported today, introducing his budget in the assembly. With last year's deficit the total will be 2,100,000 pounds at the end of March, he said, and a further drop in revenue is expected for the 1932-33 fiscal year.

DIVORCE IS SOUGHT BY SUGAR MAGNATE

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP)—Bror G. Dahlberg, head of the Celotex Company and developer of vast sugar cane estates in Florida, filed suit in the circuit court today for a divorce from Mrs. Mary Dahlberg, charging desertion.

The Dahlbergs were married in November, 1921. The husband's complaint charges that Mrs. Dahlberg deserted him in January, 1931. The couple has an adopted daughter.

Mrs. Richard Battle Gives Lecture Next Thursday on Flowers

Mrs. Richard Battle gives a lecture Thursday afternoon, March 31, at 3 o'clock in the Spanish room of Yaarab temple, under the auspices of the Wednesday class in Current Events. Her subject will be "The Flowers of All Nations and Climes," and she will trace the legends and traditions of flowers from the creation to the present time, and will give the correct pronunciation of flowers. The entrance to the Spanish room is through the Fox theater lobby, and admission to the lecture is 50 cents, and tickets may be secured at the door.

Mrs. Battle is well known in the cultural life of Atlanta, and is eminently fitted to speak upon the subject of flower legend. When she was a little girl Mrs. Battle carried in her apron pocket a copy of Keightley's "Greek Mythology." Books and flowers are the passions of her life, and her love of children has made her an adept in storing up flower lore to tell her loving listeners. She knows and loves all flowers, trees, every green and growing thing, while gardens, ancient and modern, are her delight.

Such a lecture has not been given before in Atlanta, and an afternoon of charming information and entertainment is assured. This lecture is given in anticipation of the annual meeting of the Garden Club of America in Atlanta in April. It is not confined in any sense to garden club members, but is open to the public, both men and women, and the lecture will hold an especial interest for students in high schools and colleges.

Miss Knox and Mr. Cobb Are Wed At Druid Hills Church Ceremony

Miss Georgia Knox, lovely young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Knox, became the bride of J. Thurman Cobb, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Cobb, of Nashville, Tenn., at a ceremony beautifully solemnized at 6 o'clock at the Druid Hills Methodist church last evening. The Rev. John Brandon Peters, pastor of the church, read the marriage service, which was witnessed by a large throng of relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Robert F. Cunningham, organist, rendered a program of nuptial music and Mrs. Sam Johnson, soloist, sang "I Love You Truly," by Carrie Jacobs Bond, and "Because," by D'Hardelot, preceding the ceremony. During the service Mrs. Cunningham played "Traumeri."

Myriads of stately Easter lilies standing in relief against a background of tropical palms and giant Woodwardia ferns formed the decorations in the church. The choir loft was banked in palms and ferns, and forming a semi-circle against the dark, rich background was a series of seven-branched cathedral candelabra. The bases of the candelabra were caught with clusters of Easter lilies, and floor baskets of similar blossoms flanked either side of the altar.

Wedding Personnel.

The groomsmen included J. T. Braswell, Ernest Littleton, J. F. Stanfell and Dan Knox, brother of the bride. Miss Agnes Conley acted as maid of honor for the bride, and the matron of honor was Mrs. Robert Knox, first cousin of the bride. They wore gowns fashioned alike of filmy suede lace, Miss Conley wearing shell pink and Mrs. Knox's costume fashioned of cerulaen blue. Modeled along graceful princess lines, the gowns featured long, flaring skirts, tiny puffed sleeves, and sashes combining the two shades of blue and pink. The attendants wore lace mits and slippers dyed to match their gowns, and their flowers were arm bouquets of roses, sweet peas and snapdragons, displaying pink and blue tints and showered with sweet peas.

The bridesmaids, Misses Eleanor Williams, of Detroit, Mich., and Katherine Roseberry, of Atlanta, wore similar gowns of suede lace, Miss Williams wearing blue and Miss Roseberry in pink. Their bouquets were of garden flowers, combining pink roses, blue and pink sweet peas and pink snapdragons.

Little Misses Patricia Cunningham and Barbara Ann Jones acted as flower girls, carrying graceful white Marie Antoinette baskets of pink and blue sweetpeas and pink rose petals which they scattered in the pathway of the bride. Miss Cunningham wore a dainty frock of blue chiffon, featuring a pink sash, and Miss Jones' frock was of pink chiffon, sashed in blue taffeta.

Bride Enters.

The radiantly lovely bride entered the church with her father, R. F. Knox, who gave her in marriage, her youthful beauty emphasized by her wedding robes of ivory-tinted bridal satin, simply fashioned along graceful princess lines. The sleeves were long and close-fitting and the long train was built into the gown at the waistline. The only trimming on the gown was a delicate tracery of pearls which outlined the neckline. The bridal veil of tulle fell from a becoming cap of tulle, caught across the back with a wreath of orange blossoms, tiny sprays of orange blossoms caught at intervals in the train of tulle which covered the satin train. A bouquet of Easter lilies and valley lilies showered with valley lilies, completed the bridal ensemble.

Mrs. R. F. Knox, mother of the bride, was handsomely gowned in black chiffon combined with Alencon lace. Her flowers were a shoulder spray of sunset roses and sweet peas.

Mr. Cobb and his bride left for a motor trip which will include fashionable coast resorts in Florida. Upon their return they will reside in Atlanta, where the bridegroom holds the position of southern representative for the H. B. Sherman Manufacturing Company, of Battle Creek, Mich.

ANTI-COMMUNIST LAW PASSED AT KNOXVILLE

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., March 23.—(AP)—An ordinance aimed at communist meetings and demonstrations was on this city's law books today over the protest of Ruth Decker, who said she was a communistic worker from Macon, Ga.

City council passed the new ordinance after heated debate in which communism was denounced by several citizens. It prohibits public meetings and parades unless approved by the director of safety.

Miss Decker has been here several weeks representing the International Workers' Relief, an organization branded as communistic by local citizens. She presented a petition which claimed the ordinance violated the rights of free speech and assemblage.

E. E. Ailor, president of Central Labor Union, opposed passage of the law but withdrew his objection after hearing speeches in favor of it. His objection was it might set up a dictatorship and destroy the right of peaceful picketing.

Culbertson on Contract

Concealing Information

BY ELY CULBERTSON.
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

When two players start out at the contract bridge table as partners, each apparently anxious to conceal from the other the essential information to reaching the correct bid and each anxious to play the hand, the partnership is generally doomed to disaster from the start. Many bridge players suffer from various complexes and probably the most annoying complex in a partner is that of insistence upon becoming the final declarer, regardless of whether that is the best partnership result or not.

North—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ A 10 3 ♡ A K J 8 7 ◇ A K 7 2 ♣ A
♠ K 9 6 ♡ 10 6 3 ◇ Q 10 4 ♣ K Q 6 4	N W E S	♠ J ♡ Q 4 2 ◇ 9 8 6 5 ♣ 9 8 5 3 2
	♠ Q 8 7 5 4 2 ♡ 9 5 ◇ J 2 ♣ J 10 7

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
2♣(1)	Pass	6♠(2)	Pass
7♠(3)	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Of course, the correct opening bid is the forcing bid of two hearts, which discloses rather than conceals the distribution of the hand. The honor count for the Aces is an insignificant item.

2—An equally bad bid. Even a bid of four spades is questionable, but the partners had not learned the value of adapting themselves to each other.

3—A trifle optimistic, but North is to be commended for not bidding seven notrump. His restraint in that was admirable.

When South saw the Dummy, after West had opened the King of clubs, he felt that the contract he had undertaken was unattainable. Winning the first trick with the Ace of clubs, he reasoned that he had no chance of making the contract and hopelessly laid down the Ace of spades. Of course he later had to lose a trick to the King. Actually South had an opportunity—and only one opportunity—to make his bid and that was to find the exact distribution of the trump suit which existed. After winning the first trick with the Ace of clubs, he should then have led either diamonds or hearts and trumped the third round of the chosen suit, trusting that both opponents had three cards in it. Then the Queen of spades must be led as the one chance of fulfilling the contract and thus making the best out of a terrible situation, the atrocious Grand Slam bid.

If West holds the exact cards he actually did hold in spades and the diamond and heart suits break favorably, this play will permit the success of the contract. If West does not cover the Queen, then it must be permitted to ride, as if East holds the trumps the contract cannot be made in any event.

West's correct play with his holding would be to cover the Queen and South must then return to his hand by trumping the third round of the other suit and lead the spade suit again for a finesse. Thus played, a Grand Slam can be made on the holdings of North and South, while the contract should never have been undertaken.

When situations occur requiring the winning of all the tricks in a particular suit, with such holdings as are shown here, there is no other method by which this result can be obtained. Finding a singleton King would be of no avail as the outstanding cards of the suit include K J 9, and if the King were a singleton there would then exist no finessing situation against the J 9.

After the hand had been played North and South recriminated each other. North asserted that South should not have bid six spades, while South retorted that North should not have opened with a bid of three notrump nor later have bid seven spades. Both were right, as so frequently happens in the sometimes heated postmortems that follow the playing of a disastrous hand.

TODAY'S POINTER.

One of the keys to successful contract play is partnership adaptation. The object of bidding is to convey information to your partner and to receive information from him. This end is rarely attained by efforts to forestall your partner from speaking.

Discipline of Crooners Is Urged by Pianist

If he had his way he would censor their efforts just like they do naughty books or moving pictures, he told the Illinois Women's Athletic Club yesterday.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

A desk drawer packed full of letters from wives of unfaithful husbands, put aside because there is nothing new to say to them in the way of comfort; put aside because it seems unutterably trite and even heartless to say the one thing that can be said; take the choice to which you are entitled, of leaving them and being wretched, or remaining with them and being wretched. When a woman loves a man and marries him, putting in his keeping her life's happiness, and, whether from ignorance, or selfishness, or inadequacy of any sort, she loses his love, she's wrecked. She has lost everything that she counts precious. Neither children, nor worldly possessions, nor position as his wife, can console her grief nor salve her pride. Everything she touches or tastes is prickly or bitter. Every thought she thinks is poisoned at the source. Every move she makes is painful. Every smile is forced, and every tear scalds.

Writes one: "My spirit is broken and I am in the blackest despair. I can't read or be diverted by anything. I am afraid I am losing my mind."

Writes another: "Death would be a welcome release from the keenest sort of suffering, suffering that nobody knows except the wife who has lost her husband to another woman."

Still another: "I love him more than my own life. There is no sacrifice I wouldn't make to save him from his own folly. He refuses to tell me everything about the intimate details of his life. I don't even know how much money he makes or how he spends it. I am simply a housekeeper for him and a mother to his children. Yet once he loved me sincerely and I was foolish enough to believe him when he said 'until death do us part.' Isn't such an experience enough to make a cynic of a woman?"

Some of these unhappy wives are to blame for the fix in which they find themselves. Some are entirely innocent of blame. The ones that are nagging and complaining, the ones that are extravagant and wasteful, the ones that have considered only their own pleasure and pursued it, regardless of the tastes and interests of their mates, the ones that have neglected their homes, the ones that have neglected themselves, forgetting that physical daintiness plays as big a part in marriage as it does in young love, the ones that have devoted all their time and thought to the entertainment of their children, forgetting that husbands are always children to good wives, all of these are to blame for having lost their romance.

But there is a host of others that have done their best with what they have had, women who have been not only dutiful and diplomatic but unselfish and sentimental in their attentions to their husbands. They have borne children and economized in the rearing of them. They have made comfortable homes and provided the best entertainment of which they were capable. They have provided good food and kept themselves in the pink of perfection. These things they have done, and then faced defeat.

An acquaintance of mine says the average decent man wants to love his wife and be faithful to her and to his home, he wants to lead a regular and moral life and he even goes further and says if the wife will do her part the man will do his.. But a man is so constituted that failure of the wife releases the inhibitions of would-be decent man, loosens his moral fastenings and makes him easy prey to the wolves that lie in wait to devour him. Be this as it may, these wretched women want something better than philosophic discussion of male tendencies. They want practical advice as to how they may bring errant husbands home. Where it is to be found, what is it?

There used to be a story of a couple who lost a baby by kidnaping. Every day, so the story went, that table was set with a place for the lost child. If he should come home, his chair was ready to receive him. It was his place and there were his parents yearning for his return. But he never came. The days passed. The couple grew old and weary with their waiting and finally life was over for them both.

BABY FRETFUL, RESTLESS?

Look to this cause—

Does your baby have nights when he fusses, tosses and seems unable to go quickly, quietly to sleep? Look for one common cause, doctors say. A constipated condition.

To get rid quickly of accumulated wastes which cause restlessness and discomfort, nothing is better than genuine time-proven Castoria.

Castoria, you know, is made specially for children's delicate needs. It is a pure vegetable preparation; contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics of any kind.

It is mild and gentle enough to relieve a young infant's colic pains, yet is an effective regulator for children of school age.

When your baby is upset and unable to sleep, or has a little cold or fever, it is a wise precaution to give him the gentle but sure regulative help of Castoria. With regulation come relaxed comfort and restful sleep.

Keep a bottle always on hand. Children like the taste of real Castoria—which always has the name, Chas. H. Fletcher, on the package.

"Her Nerves are Ragged . . . She Can't Face Another Day of Work"

"I can't go through another day . . . oh, what is the matter? What shall I do"? Did you ever feel this way yourself?

Nearly Nervous Prostration

DO you know her . . . this poor woman who wakes up as tired as she went to bed?

Her head is still aching . . . her nerves are ragged . . . she's on the verge of tears as she faces another day of work.

"I can't go through it again . . . I can't. Oh, what is the matter? What shall I do?" she cries.

How many young women are fast approaching a nervous breakdown because they let suffering due to female weakness rob them of their strength and health.

In offices or in their homes, they drive themselves, working "on their nerve." Hoping against hope that tomorrow they will feel better . . . but instead they become more and more prostrated.

It is a double tragedy because it is so unnecessary.

Nature did not mean women to suffer so cruelly. If they would only try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound! It has befriended women against their "peculiar" troubles for over 50 years.

It brings soothing, comforting relief . . . gently corrects through its strengthening tonic action the cause of the headaches and backaches that wear you out. Drives away the awful lassitude that kills ambition and makes life a burden.

This simple, safe remedy has justly earned its place in the Family Medicine Cabinet.

Won't you listen to the testimony of thousands of women who use it?

Further plans for the entertainment of members of the Garden Club of America were discussed at the meeting of the Rose Garden Club held recently at the home of Mrs. Mercer Lee on Piedmont road, with Mrs. Roy Morrison acting as hostess.

This latter will be one of the features of the show. Mantels will be set up and arranged by the club members. A committee was appointed to decide on the location and will make its report at the next meeting of the club.

As a preparation for the flower show Mrs. John L. Harper spoke on "Artistic Arrangement of Flowers," and illustrated her talk with bowls of beautiful blossoms. Mrs. Harper said "The flowers are so pretty, it is hard to spoil them," but the many points that she brought out to consider in an arrangement will help to create more harmonious effects when placing the flowers in the homes.

Harrison—Cottongim.

A wedding of quiet beauty and simplicity was that of Miss Emma Jean Harrison and Joseph Franklin Cottongim, which was solemnized Sunday afternoon, March 20, at 2:30 o'clock at the home of the bride on Jefferson avenue, in East Point. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. A. Duncan in the presence of the immediate families in the large living room, which was beautifully decorated.

An improvised alter was placed before the fireplace and banked with palms and ferns, and seven branched cathedral candelabra were placed at either side holding burning white tapers.

The bride had as her only attendant her sister, Mrs. Carl H. Hasick, who was the matron of honor. The bridegroom had Mr. Hasick as his best man.

The bride wore a becoming gown of light grey chiffon, and her smart hat was of grey straw trimmed with dainty blue forget-me-nots. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds and lilies of the valley. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Lena Harrison.

Mr. and Mrs. Cottongim left by motor for a week's visit in Savannah and interesting parts of Florida. Mrs. Cottongim's traveling costume was a spring coat suit of brown with harmonizing accessories. Upon their return they will be at home to their many friends at 417 Jefferson avenue, East Point.

Why So Many Take BLACK-DRAUGHT

THERE are good reasons why so many people prefer Thedford's Black-Draught—why it is their favorite laxative:

They like its thorough, cleansing action.

They like that "better feeling the next morning,"—a refreshed feeling after the release of intestinal poisons.

And the low cost of Black-Draught is another point in its favor. You are really buying medicine when you buy Black-Draught, as the sealed container, in which the medicine is sold, costs only a small fraction. Its light weight has saved expensive freight bills.

NONE BETTER OR MORE ECONOMICAL

Black-Draught is packaged, weighed and sealed by machines. It can be sold for less because of these savings in your favor.

THE MYSTERIOUS DRUMMING.

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

A bit of mystery is nice
—Farmer Brown's Boy.

Farmer Brown's Boy entered the sugar house just in time to get a glimpse of little Mrs. Whitefoot the Wood Mouse disappearing under an old coat in a corner carrying one of her babies in her mouth.

"Well, what do you know about that!" he exclaimed and stood perfectly still for a long time hoping that she would reappear. But she didn't appear again and he had to go about his duties.

"She must have moved her whole family," he explained to Farmer Brown. "I thought I fixed that old house of hers and that stick of wood so that it was as good as ever and she wouldn't mind my having opened it. She was the bravest little mother I ever have seen. I wish you could have seen her when I opened that nest, staying right there with those babies, although she must have been frightened almost to death. I wonder where she has moved to. It must be under that old coat.'

"Why don't you look under it and find out?" asked Farmer Brown.

Farmer Brown's Boy shook his head. "No, I won't do that. Not now anyway. She has had fright enough for one day. Imagine having a great giant tear your house wide open. It does seem as if that hollow stick is a better and safer home than she can find under that old coat, but I suppose she feels that what has happened once may happen again. Anyway I am not going to give her another fright like that. Perhaps some time when I know she is out I will look under that old coat."

After supper Farmer Brown's Boy got that hollow stick which had been the home of Mrs. Whitefoot. He loosened the wire with which he had bound the two halves together and took them apart. There was the once snug little hollow cut out long ago by Drummer the Woodpecker when that stick was part of a standing dead tree, and there was nothing in it but a few chips.

Farmer Brown's Boy emitted a low whistle of surprise. "She has not only taken her babies away but she has taken the whole nest!" he exclaimed. "My, how she must have worked while we were away. Poor little thing, she was frightened. Well, she shall not have another fright like that if I can help it."

That night after climbing into his bunk he did not at once go to sleep. He lay there watching the flickering shadows made by the fire and thinking of the brave little mother he had without realizing it frightened so dreadfully that day. Farmer Brown in the bunk below was asleep. It was very still in the sugar house. Presently he heard a soft drumming. It was rapid, like the drumming of Downy the Woodpecker, but very soft and short. In a few minutes it was repeated. He couldn't tell whether it was outside or inside the house. He couldn't be sure just what direction it came from. When he moved to look over the edge of his bunk it ceased. It was mysterious, very mysterious.

"Stump" Will Appear Again in Tech Uniform

Positively the most exciting news of the day, so far as the football fans are concerned, is that John Griffin (Stumpy) Thomason is going to be seen in a Georgia Tech uniform again, catching punts with a couple of tough ends bearing down on him.

Stumpy is something like the sailor with a day off who goes rowing in the lake at the park; he spends his afternoons watching spring football practice at Georgia Tech.

Coach W. A. Alexander, who is preparing his movie scenario for the impending visit of the Grantland Rice Sportlight movie people early next month, discovered Stumpy Wednesday afternoon and signed him up for his old specialty.

"Sure," said Stump, "I'd like to."

After four years of college football and two tough years in the pro game, it is still fun to Stumpy Thomason to be out there catching punts and trying to evade those ends.

I have read of gentlemen who go to the Louvre and sit and Oh! and Ah! for hours in front of some pictures and statues. But there are hundreds of football fans who could sit all afternoon and scream and shriek when Stump Thomason was catching those punts.

He could look great losing 15 yards. He was always a threat. His style was absolutely unorthodox. He ran back now and then, when he wanted to, in fact; but he always was a sort of rabbit, scuttling along in a harum-scarum sort of way that had hearts in throats and pulses pounding.

I can shut my eyes and see him now as he looked out there on the emerald turf at the Rose Bowl field in California—waiting for that ball to come down—I can hear the faint thud of the ball as the breathless crowd waited and then the screams of joy and anguish as he caught it—or fumbled it—or lost yards—or gained plenty—he might do either one.

Wallace Wade, when he was at Alabama, used to wish for the day to come when Stumpy Thomason would graduate from Tech.

"I never feel safe when he's in there," he said. "It doesn't matter whether he's gaining or losing, he's too dangerous for me."

At any rate, there will be quite a crowd present the day the movies are made in the first week of April. There are any number of football fans who would walk a mile to see Stumpy catch another punt and twist away from those ends.

GIVE PHAR LAP A HAND.

One wonders how the football players must feel about Phar Lap, the great Australian gelding who won the Agua Caliente handicap last Sunday.

The California climate is supposed to play the very dickens with the visitors, making them feel lethargic, sleepy and all rundown, so to speak. The varying altitudes are supposed to do things to the blood pressure. Football players are often not themselves. That after a mere transcontinental trip.

And yet here is Phar Lap, from the land of Down Under, a steamer trip of about a month and then hundreds of miles on a railroad—literally thousands and thousands of miles of travel. He was carrying 129 pounds and he toyed with Reveille Boy, a good horse. Phar Lap could not have been at his best after all that travel.

Football coaches whose teams must make a transcontinental trip might cut out the story of Phar Lap and let the boys read it. The big fellow took it all with a lot of horse sense.

THEY'LL BE CLEAN, ANYHOW.

Ed Jacobs, the man behind the gun at Macon, is credited with one of the best stories of the year. When Sam Guthman Jr. was notified of his election as vice president of the Macon club he is reported to have taken the honor lightly.

"Huh," he is quoted as saying, "Ed Jacobs wants me hooked up with baseball so he can get all his uniforms washed free of charge."

Guthman owns most of the laundry business in that section. But he was wanted for other reasons than free washings for uniforms. He is a real sportsman and an asset to minor league baseball.

THE LATE SAMMY STRANG.

No one told the strangest story of the many in the life of the late Strang Nicklin, of Chattanooga, Tennessee. His life was varied, carrying him into the army, into baseball and into other businesses.

But he is the only man who ever quit baseball to study opera. Nicklin came from a wealthy family in Chattanooga. They never wanted him to play baseball. He played under an assumed name, Sammy Strang. He and Johnny Dobbs, former manager of the Crackers, played together for many years.

He quit the Giants in 1909 and went to Paris, where he engaged the most expensive teachers to be had. He stayed for a number of years but decided the opera going was too rough and came back to baseball.

I recall probably the last public appearance of Nicklin as a singer. It was the baseball meeting at Asheville in 1927. He sang an Irish ballad or so at the banquet that night.

Judge Landis stood up and applauded. "That's fine. Why, that's great, Sammy," he said.

Babe Herman, recently traded to the Reds by Brooklyn, did not accompany the team from Tampa but Wally Gilbert and Ernest Lombardi, who figured in the deal, were in the Cincinnati lineup. Stripp, Cuccinello and Sukeforth, former Reds, played with the Dodgers.

HENS 12; PELS 10.

NEW ORLEANS, La., March 23. (AP)—Manager Bib Falk, of the Toledo American Association team, got a pretty fair line on four rookie pitchers when New Orleans defeated Toledo, 12 to 10, in an exhibition game here today. Eissler, Tate, Marleau and Mel Miller were wild and ineffective. The Mudhens' hitting, however, was quite satisfactory, with Hale and Clements clouting home runs, the latter's with the bases full.

MILLERS 5; LOOKOUTS 4.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 23. (AP)—Joe Mowry's pinch hit in the ninth scored Smith with the run that gave Minneapolis, American association, a 5-to-4 win over the Chattanooga Lookouts in an exhibition baseball game today.

Enters National Meet

BULLDOGS MEET TIGERS TODAY

ATHENS, Ga., March 23.—Georgia's baseball Bulldogs will leave here early Thursday morning for Clemson College, S. C., where they will open their season against the Clemson Tigers in two games Thursday and Friday.

Following the games with Clemson the Bulldogs will go to Columbia for two games with the University of South Carolina. The games with the Gamecocks will be on Saturday and Monday. The Georgia team will return to Athens in time for the beginning of the third term classes next Tuesday.

The Bulldogs finished four weeks of practice today in the best of shape, although Coach Bill White has been forced to call off practice several times due to inclement weather. The team has been working hard for the past week.

Vernon (The Catfish) Smith, Georgia's ace athlete, will make his debut as a pitcher during one of the four games. Smith, one of four pitchers being carried along, pitched and won a game from Mercer last year, but he spent most of his time in the outfield. This season Coach White started him off as a pitcher and will count heavily on him for mound work.

Following are the men making the trip: Leroy Young and Rogers, catchers; Ray Fleming and Rose, first base; Parks and Costa, second base; Key, shortstop; Webb and Kendricks, third base; Mott, Gaston and Chastain, outfielders, and Smith, Simpson, Chandler and Nicholson, pitchers.

While the Bulldogs are spending their spring holidays on the road, other Georgia athletic teams will pass theirs at home. Weems Baskin will dismiss his 20-odd track men after an early morning practice Thursday. The track men will report back by next Monday afternoon for their first practice in preparation for a meet with Clemson here April 2.

One-Armed Man Joins Dodo Club

DEL MONTE, Cal., March 23. (UP)—There have been many holes in one, but there have been few, if any, holes in one by a one-armed man.

That is what Judge Ray Baugh, of Monterey, was celebrating today.

Louisa Robert Trains Early for Big Meets

Marvelous Advancement Made by Atlanta's Ace Girl Swimmer; Leaves Friday by Plane.

By Jack Troy.

When some mortals already are at work and others are rubbing the sleep out of their eyes and contemplating on the futility of it all, and yet still others are rolling luxuriously in their beds—and glad to be there—Miss Louisa Robert, leading young Atlanta amateur swimmer, is knifing through the clear blue waters of the Athletic Club pool, training for the National Junior A. A. U. meet Saturday in Indianapolis, Ind., her immediate objective, and the Olympic trials to be held in New York early this spring.

Miss Robert and her mother, Mrs. L. W. (Chip) Robert, will go by plane to Indianapolis, leaving here Friday. Miss Robert is to be entered in her favorite event, the 100-yard back stroke, at Indianapolis, Saturday night. She will not participate in any other event. The 100-yard free-style tends to slow her up in the back-stroke.

With the grace of a born swimmer, Miss Robert slipped into the tile pool Wednesday morning and started her daily workout with a "warm-up" swim of 440 yards, using the backstroke, her specialty. This she followed up with a fast 100-yard dash. Then she practiced turns and starts and the other things that are necessary for a swimmer with championship aspirations to do expertly. This is a routine practiced daily, except Tuesday, by Atlanta's comely backstroke champion of the south.

There is only one girl swimmer in the south believed capable of giving Miss Robert a "battle" in the backstroke. She is Miss Katherine Rawls, 14-year-old prodigy of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. To be sure they have never met in competition, but it would be a great race.

And—did you know: That Miss Robert has been swimming seriously only since last summer, when she trained under the direction of Mrs. Gladys Lindsay, wife of the director of the pool at Sea Island Beach, who once was champion backstroke swimmer? That she has been entered in only two competitive events, the recent district championships at Washington, D. C., in which she lowered the district record for the 100-yard backstroke, and the city meet at the Venetian Club here last year? And that she carried off the major honors in both events?

DEVELOPED RAPIDLY.

Thus it is hardly necessary to say in so many words that the meteoric development of the 17-year-old aquatic star has been nothing short of marvelous.

Miss Robert is five feet three inches tall and weighs 120 pounds. Daily training has developed her wonderfully. She looks at you through serious brown eyes; her dark brown hair is wavy. And her white, even teeth flash back at you.

And that intangible something known as competitive instinct is developed in her to a high degree. And

Inter-City League Starts April 16

The inter-city baseball league met at Spalding's Tuesday night and adopted playing rules for the coming season. Other important business transacted was the election of Don Sykes as chief umpire and Dick Anchors and Walter Johnson as umpires, agreement on $15 as the franchise fee, and the starting of the schedule on April 16.

Fisher Body, Douglasville, Federal Prison, Druggists and Fulton Bag are in the league now, and they are searching for a sixth team to fill up the league. Any teams wishing to play and not already pledged are invited to call Hal Voorhis and investigate.

Williard Planning Another Campaign

LOS ANGELES, March 23.—(AP)—Jess Willard, former world's heavyweight champion, today announced he contemplated a return to the ring to engage in exhibition bouts.

His managers said he would go into training immediately and that they hoped to match him with Jack Dempsey, to whom he lost the title, and Jack Johnson, from whom he won the crown, in four-round exhibitions.

Wimberly Decides Fencing for Tech

COLUMBIA, S. C., March 23.—(AP)—University of South Carolina fencers sprang a surprise here tonight by holding the experienced Georgia Tech team to a 5-to-4 score.

CHAPMAN HOPES FOR BIG SEASON AT THIRD BASE

Johnny Says He Will Get Back His Old Batting Average.

By Jimmy Jones.

There wouldn't be anything wrong with the weather so far as the Atlanta Crackers are concerned if it wasn't so uncertain.

For instance, it wasn't too cold for practice yesterday but it was considered a bit frigid for playing a game, so the Crackers had to practice. And the average ball player would rather play a game any day than practice.

The Crackers and the Toronto Maple Leafs may play a game today in sheer desperation after two postponements in a row.

INADVISABLE.

Both Red Barron and Tom Daly, rival managers, deemed it inadvisable to attempt a game yesterday. Both clubs have progressed thus far without any sore arms or charley horses and they did not care to invite disaster for the sake of an exhibition in the chill weather.

Both clubs enjoyed a very good practice instead. Barron had Danny Lynch working at short and Lenny Mock at third during the workout, and both men fielded in nifty fashion. Lynch may become the club's utility infielder and his "B" classification enhances the possibility. He seems to be equally at home at short and second.

Lenny Mock is the best looker of the "B" infielders afield and it seems to be a battle between him and Lynch now for the honor of being carried. Barron said yesterday that he also had to decide between Duck McKee and John Cummings as the Class B outfielder when cutting down time comes. He can carry only one "B" outfielder through the season.

SKIPPER BLUE.

The skipper was a little blue yesterday over a report that Paul Gregory would be retained longer by the White Sox. "I need Gregory on the club worse than we need the money we got from his sale," Barron stated. The White Sox manager, Lou Fonseca, has informed The Constitution that Gregory is looking good and that he may carry him for at least the first two weeks of the season and in the eventuality he continues to look good, may send him to the American association for a whirl in double-A time.

Gregory had been mentioned as a possible solution to Barron's class problem as he is a B pitcher. At any rate, Barron feels he will get just as much valuable experience pitching to Southern league hitters as to those of the association.

PROMISED PAUL.

A cheering bit of news yesterday came from Johnny Chapman, the hard-belting third-sacker.

Chapman stated that he thought he would be in the best condition of his career by the time the season starts and figured on having one of his best years in baseball since he broke into the Southern league in 1925.

"I am already in better shape than I was a week before the season started last year and I have a good two weeks yet to go," Chapman declared.

Chapman also stated that he hoped to boost his hitting average to at least .360 this year, which was about what he hit with Mobile and Nashville. He also is anxious to add to his extra-base total and pound out his old quota of home runs. Chapman batted .326 last year, which is far from bad for a third baseman, but the big fellow is one of the best right-handed hitters in the league and normally clouts above .350.

NEVER RIGHT.

"I never got right last year at all—I just didn't get started right," he said. Chapman also praised Barron for the way the young Cracker boss was handling him.

"I always have to get in shape gradually, and Barron isn't rushing me; I'll promise that by opening day I'll be in tip-top condition," he added.

Chapman says his throwing arm feels fine right now and that he is eager to try it out in a regular game. He will get his chance today if the weather is right. Chapman, who has never played ball on a winning club, will give his best to the Crackers, he has stated.

"I'll be in there hustling for Barron all the way," Chapman concluded, dispelling all reports that he was a dissatisfied ball player.

Daniels, Veteran Umpire, Passes; Started Connie

Daniels was found unconscious by a farmer on a county road in Colchester. Officials expressed the opinion he tripped in a rut during a snowstorm.

Daniels is believed to have lain in the snow several hours before he was discovered. He suffered a severe gash in his head in the fall.

The veteran umpire began officiating in baseball games in the American Association. He picked up Connie Mack while the latter was playing on a Meriden team.

Daniels spent 25 years umpiring in the American Association, the National League, the Eastern Association and the College Association.

MILAN EXPECTS BARONS TO END SEASON AT TOP

By Clyde Milan,

Manager Birmingham Barons.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 23.—(AP)—It looks to me like the Southern association is in for a red-hot pennant chase this season.

Unless we show a big reversal of form, or some of the other teams show surprising improvement, the Barons hope to be around the top when the curtain drops next fall.

On paper New Orleans and Chattanooga appear to have been greatly strengthened since last year. These two teams with Birmingham, Little Rock and Memphis, ought to wage a merry battle for the first division honors.

We have lost Art Weis, the spark plug of our offense, but Joe Prerost and Woodley Abernathy have been going like great guns in spring training, and we should not suffer much from the loss of Weis. Andy Moore, my other outfielder, is expected to round out what I consider a crackerjack outfield.

I have one other hole to plug, third base. Charley Gooch is gone and I am grooming Art Hord for the post. Hord showed he was capable last year and I expect him to fill Charley's shoes capably.

I am standing pat on my other positions with the players that helped us win the Southern and Dixie championships last year.

America Wins In Team Play

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Breaking even in the concluding singles matches tonight, the United States wound up the winner in its international team tennis joust with Franch three victories to two.

Frank Shields drove home the deciding points for Uncle Sam when he subdued Christian Boussus, 6-1, 6-4, 10-8, in the night's opening engagement. After that it mattered not that the 34-year-old Jean Borotra closed the three-day carnival with a spectacular win over this country's newest indoor champion, Gregory Mangin, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, 6-1.

LANIER IS OUT OF PREP LOOP

Lanier High school, of Macon, has definitely withdrawn from the Big Six prep league, and LaGrange High, LaGrange, Ga., has been invited to take the Poets' place, it was announced Wednesday by W. O. Cheney, chief executive of the league.

At a recent meeting of the league Lanier High was voted a member and was included in the baseball schedule, and LaGrange High was favored for membership in the event Lanier found it unwise to be a member of the organization.

A letter was received from Lanier stating that the Poets would be unable to play midweek games away from home and the long trips to Monroe and Gainesville were rather expensive.

NORTH - SOUTH OPENS TODAY AT PINEHURST

By Dillon Graham,

Associated Press Sports Writer.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 23.—(AP)—Dixie's oldest and the last golf stake of the winter—the $5,650 north and south open tournament—today beckoned the homeward-bound professional brigade for the start tomorrow of the 72-hole medal test.

The first two rounds will be played tomorrow with the final 36 holes scheduled for Friday. This competition will end the country-wide tour which began the middle of last fall.

For two years this tournament has been won by golfers scoring their first major triumph, and tonight the masters of the woods and irons were wondering who would break through the victory in the thirtieth renewal.

CAME WIFFY COX.

Two seasons ago it was a young Arkansan, Paul Runyan, now of White Plains, N. Y. Then came Whiffy Cox, a top-notcher from Brooklyn, who had been a contender for sometime but never before an important winner.

Since then Runyan has won the metropolitan title, the Gasparilla open, and has placed high in other events, while Cox has been one of the most consistent performers among the barnstorming troupe.

It was here that Billie Burke, the open champion, scaled the heights for the first time in 1928, and a year later Horton Smith, the tall Missourian, added the finishing touch to a brilliant campaign.

Gene Sarazen, Johnny Farrell, and Tommy Armour, all former open champions, have never struck their game at Pinehurst, but each of them is playing well, and a victory for any of the three would not be surprising.

SARAZEN FAVORED.

Sarazen, winner of the $10,000 Coral Gables Miami Biltmore open Sunday, is apparently already assured the high-money winner position of the year, and another victory would put him in a class by himself.

Walter Hagen, showman of the links, threatened seriously in several big tournaments recently, finishing second at Miami, and Pinehurst may be the scene of his first triumph of the winter trek. Three times, in 1918, 1923, and 1924, the Haig won here.

Today, the pros were spending most of their time chipping toward and putting on the hard sand greens, which generally cause most of them trouble after the change from the grass greens of the Florida courses.

The weather was windy, with the mercury hanging around 45 degrees, and a threat of rain in the air.

Pro-Amateur Golf Tourney On Today

A third effort will be made at 2 o'clock this afternoon to play the semi-monthly pro-amateur golf tournament on the Ingleside Country Club course. The event has been postponed for two weeks, due to rain and cold weather. Due to the postponements, one of the events likely will be canceled as today is the regular scheduled date.

Jimmy Livingstone, professional at the Ingleside club, will be the host and will represent the Atlanta Golfers' Association, co-sponsors with the Atlanta professional golfers of the event.

Every professional, assistant and amateur golfer in the city is eligible and invited to participate in today's event. Cash prizes will be given to the professionals and suitable golf equipment will be given to the amateur prize winners.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By Grantland Rice

Maxims of Methuselah Jr.

It may be that the human race
Has met this raw test face to face—
What have you done to earn your place

Where courage stalks the open plain,
And there is still use for a brain?

To break through darkness into light?
Why have they disappeared from sight?

Life, liberty and happiness
Are not some fickle fate's largess.
But fruits of logic, work and stress.

Of wisdom there is nothing now
From highest to the lowest brow
To feed the ego of a cow.

Some day, perhaps too late, we'll learn,
In looking for the upward turn,
We'll get exactly what we earn.

This is Herb Pennock's twenty-first year under the big tent. Which proves that a rather frail looking athlete can go the route long after bulkier bodies have subsided and quit. But one of the bulkier ones who quit was not Cy Young, who hung around for 22 years.

As far back as last fall Pacific coast experts were predicting that young Frank Crosetti, of the Yankees, would be an American league sensation. If he lives up to spring promise Mr. Mack will be under far more pressure than he has known for some time.

There was a time when a combination of Crisler, Wieman and Martineau, from Chicago, Michigan and Minnesota, would have meant midwestern football for Princeton. But that day has passed. There is no sectional brand left.

By the end of the season last year a combination of Stevens, Walsh and Friedman had given Yale and up-to-date attack and an up-to-date defense, which is the main idea. Changes in the rules, calculated to lessen injuries, should help Princeton where the reserve power has not been any too plentiful.

Battalino Takes the Hurdle.

While the toll of the scales made this expedition not a matter of choice to Bat Battalino, there is plenty of speculation over the Hartford Rusher's future among the lightweights. He'll not have any more gruelling examinations than he faces tonight in taking on Billy Petrolle, the indestructible Fargo Express.

The decision was booked for a while ago, but Petrolle was banged up in training and Battalino had a warm-up with Eddie Ran. At the time, Ran's status suggested that the Bat might never get past the warm-up, but a combination of his fighting instinct and a smart defensive style, developed for the occasion, steered the Battalino fortunes past the first shoal.

But Ran was a right-hander and Bat could move his fielders over when he was pitching to him. Bat kept his left up all evening and Ran couldn't think of an answer.

Petrolle is no dead left-field hitter. He can punch with both hands and has the ring experience to figure out a novel twist in attack while the milling is on.

Not often do the fight fans have a chance to see two recognized punchers indulging in a test of wits as well. Battalino's crowding style and willingness to fight are not enough to carry his flag all the way through the enemy ranks of bigger and wiser men.

If Bat isn't stymied by Petrolle, the long awaited fight with Canzoneri will be much nearer.

A Racing Tonic.

Australia did its bit by the fight game when the freckled Fitzsimmons pepped up the heavyweight division, laughing away poundage differences. Now another visitor from the Antipodes is here, with a reputation for taking on all comers.

Phar Lap, the only welcome red terror these United States have reacted to, made a sensational debut at Agua Caliente. Not by winning, but by winning his first start after a long winter voyage, and a system of training contrary to American axioms.

Winning at all distances, with increasing imposts, which once forced him to run the Melbourne cup with 150 pounds up, Phar Lap is the nearest approach to a wonder horse that will be campaigning here this summer. Needing only a little over $44,000, there's a little doubt he will top Sun Beau's all-time money-winning record.

Inasmuch as foreign visitors are not automatically qualified for the feature racing events of the eastern season, as are foreign golf professionals in the national open, the late decision to campaign the Australian gelding here prevents him from tackling some of the leading eastern classics. The middle west will see more of him.

FOURSOME ENDS 'EVEN-STEPHEN'

Miss Bea Gottleib, New York state champion, and Berrien Moore Jr. finished all-square both in match play and in aggregate scores, in a match with Miss Margaret Maddox, Georgia and Atlanta champion, and Scott Hudson Jr., Wednesday afternoon on the No. 1 East Lake Country Club course.

The match was in compliment to Miss Gottleib, who has been visiting in the city for several days and who leaves today with Miss Maddox, Mrs. O. B. Keeler and Mrs. Ashby Taylor for Pinehurst, N. C., to participate in the annual north and south woman's championship next week.

Hudson won medal honor for the round with a 77, while Moore was one stroke back with a 78. Miss Gottleib carded a fine 81 for the first time that she has played the course, while Miss Maddox, with a coupe of out-of-bound strokes, carded an 84.

Play throughout the match was unusually close, with the iron game standing out prominently.

Miss Gottleib's approach shots were particularly good, while Miss Maddox was very good with her putting. Miss Maddox sank the longest putt of the day from the edge of the 16th green, after getting in trouble on her third shot.

MRS. O. B. KEELER IS RE-ELECTED AS GOLF HEAD

Atlanta Woman's Golf Association Completes Successful Season.

Showing appreciation for their good work last year, members of the Atlanta Woman's Golf Association re-elected the same staff of officers at the annual meeting and election of officers Wednesday morning at the Atlanta Athletic Club. They are Mrs. O. B. Keeler, president; Mrs. M. S. Mentzer, vice president, and Mrs. W. D. Doak, secretary and treasurer.

Chairmen of the various committees are: Mrs. A. G. Smith, handicap; Miss Mary Warren, tournament; Mrs. C. E. Williamson, membership, and Mrs. Guy Butler, publicity.

Representatives from the various clubs are: Mrs. H. B. Kirkpatrick, East Lake; Mrs. Clarence Bradley, Druid Hills; Mrs. Charlie Black Jr., Capital City; Mrs. C. C. Clower, Ansley Park; Mrs. Robert Schwab, Ingleside; Mrs. Albert Jones, West End, and Mrs. Carlyle Fraser, public courses.

The association has just completed one of its most successful seasons in which the membership reached 128 and bids fair to have another great year.

A schedule of tournament was discussed, but the dates were not definitely determined. A one-day medal play tourney will be held Tuesday, April 19, at Druid Hills in the formal opening of the spring and summer tournament program.

A series of monthly match play and one-day medal play tournaments will be played with the exception of July and August and that depends on the weather conditions during the hottest part of the summer.

The annual Maier & Berkele tournament will be played during the early part of June and following the usual custom it will be played on one of the municipal courses.

Tentative dates for the annual city championship and the Georgia state championships have been set for the middle of September and the first of October. The city meet likely will be awarded to East Lake on the new course, while Capital City Country Club is favored for the annual Georgia state tourney.

It was announced Wednesday that prizes will be given for low gross, low net and the player who reduces their handicap the most during the year. The low gross and low net prizes will be based on the ringer scores for the years. A reduction of the handicap is a great incentive for the new players who have won the prize for the past few years.

Mrs. O. B. Keeler, president of the association, stated that invitations have been received from Radium Springs, Augusta, Macon and Columbus for a series of inter-city matches for the spring and summer months. Dates for the matches will be arranged within the next few weeks and will serve as practice rounds for the annual city and state meets that close the season in the early fall.

Jones, Burke Beaten, 2 Up

PINEHURST, N. C., March 23.—Playing in a four-ball exhibition match, Bobby Jones, the four-ply golf champion, and Billie Burke, open champion, lost to Wild Bill Mehlhorn and J. Miyamoto, Japanese. The victors won, 2 up.

The match, a preliminary to the annual north and south championship, was followed by a large gallery. The weather was disagreeable.

Jones, admittedly not partial to sand greens, was out in 33 strokes, with four birdies in the card, and came back in 36 for a total of 69.

Mehlhorn likewise had a 69 made up of a 34 an. 35. The open champion shot 36-38—74, while Miyamoto required one more stroke, 38-37—75.

Two aces were scored today on the championship course. Victor East, of Springfield, Mass., got his hole-in-one on the fourth hole, and James Powers, of Long Island City, N. Y., duplicated the feat on the 15th hole.

BILLY PETROLLE LIKED TONIGHT

By Stewart Cameron,

United Press Sports Editor.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(UP)—The eve of New York's most attractive prizefight in months found Billy Petrolle firmly established as an 8-to-5 favorite over Christopher Battalino, Billy confident of winning in seven rounds, and the Bat convinced he will win on a decision over the 12-round route.

The crowd at tomorrow night's Madison Square Garden bout is expected to approach sell-out proportions although the fight bears the stigma of one postponement, and in spite of an $8 top.

It's a beautiful match. The boys are so evenly rated that there has been no end to the street-corner discussions over its possible outcome. Both are sluggers and neither wastes much energy. Their marksmanship has given plenty of headaches to the best of their rivals. Besides, neither has ever been seen taking a backward step in the ring. When they come out of their corners tomorrow night something is going to happen.

Boxing circles today heard rumors that Battalino's weight will cause a surprise. The report is that he will come in at 134, and maybe below that because he has worked himself to a fine edge for Petrolle. Billy is expected to weigh 138.

Gentleman Jim Corbett, an infrequent boxing spectator, will see the bout. Although his physicians have warned the former heavyweight champion that he should stay away from crowds and excitement, Corbett says he "just must see my boy." He meant Petrolle. Corbett, decidedly scornful of the abilities of most of the present-day top-ranking boxers, has a tremendous regard for the Fargo Express.

ATLANTA BODY PLANS TO MAKE STRONG EFFORT

Scott Hudson Pledges Support to Move; Other Meets Sought.

A determined effort will be made by members of the Atlanta Woman's Golf Association to sponsor the 1934 southern woman's championship golf tournament, it was learned Wednesday at an annual meeting of the association at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Scott Hudson Sr., president of the Atlanta Athletic Club, has pledged his support of the movement and every effort will be put forth to bring the event to the East Lake Country Club, it was stated Wednesday.

Women's golf in Georgia and Atlanta in particular has grown in leaps and bounds during the past few years and the city is in better position now than ever to sponsor a big women's tourney.

East Lake is the only club in the south with the exception of Birmingham Country Club that operates two golf courses, and it would make an ideal place to stage the southern women's tournament.

Atlanta is the most centrally located golfing center in the south and already both the Georgia men and women's amateur events are scheduled for this year.

A strong effort is being made to bring the southern amateur here in 1933, and with the women's event sought for 1934, the city will have its share of major golf events during the next three years.

Georgia Golfers Defeat Rollins

ATHENS, Ga., March 23.—The University of Georgia golfing team defeated Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., 13 to 5, here this afternoon in the first match of the season.

"Red" Leathers, guard star on the Georgia football team, playing his first match for the Bulldogs, was low medalist with a 77. He was closely followed by Newton, of Rollins, who shot an 80. The match was played over the Athens Country Club course. Par is 73.

The feature of the afternoon's play came on the eighteenth hole of the first foursome. Leathers' chip shot went 40 yards for an eagle three to win a point for Georgia. It was a par 5 hole. Playing with Leathers in this first foursome was Carroll Latimer, Atlanta, letterman from last year. They won, 2 to 1, from Newton and Love.

Leathers beat Love, 3 to 0; Latimer lost to Newton, Rollins, 2 1-2 to 1-2; Warner won from Turner, Rollins, 3 to 0, and Johnson and Ward, Rollins, tied at 1 1-2 apiece in the individual play.

BY JOHN L. COOLEY.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Stocks combined somnolence with flabbiness today and the net result was another list of small declines in one of the year's smallest turnovers.

Business news was hardly of a character to inspire market improvement. Although some promise was held out for better times in the steel industry next month. German bonds felt less despondent. Wheat recovered.

Stocks dipped at the opening. Offerings dried up so completely on this setback that a period of firmness ensued, but almost as soon as losses had been retrieved the market embarked on a slow downward drift that persisted to the heavy close. American Telephone was under pressure and closed 2 1-4 points lower. Proctor & Gamble cut an extreme break of 4 points to 2 3-4 net.

Northern Pacific declined more than a point. On the whole, rails were dull. Norfolk & Western was heavy.

Offerings of General Motors diminished and the quotation held above recent lows. Case, International Telephone and Bethlehem sold off fractionally. United States Steel and American Can reacted about a point. Kreuger & Toll figured in some large transactions, yielding slightly. Market's total turnover amounted to 837,728 shares.

Sentiment in brokerage quarters was rather mixed. Several houses have been looking for a technical rally on the theory that shorts will cover with some activity before April 1 when the stock exchange's new regulation on borrowing becomes effective. The other view is that this rule has been discounted as a market factor.

"Iron Age" spoke encouragingly of steel production prospects. There has been no improvement this month, which is decidedly abnormal, but a rise of "some proportions," the review said, is anticipated, with indications that it may come in April.

Foreign Markets

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

LONDON—Uncertainty during the coming holidays regarding conditions on the continent caused dullness and narrow movements in prices. Giltedged and international issues were steady with others easy. Support from Paris later helped somewhat and the closing was steadier.

PARIS—Trading on the bourse was calm but the tone was better than that of the past few days. Limited buying caused slight gains and closed firm.

Highlights of Wall Street

BY CHARLES W. STORM, Editor, the News Service of Wall Street.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Failure of the bulls and bears to act pending the outcome of the Glass banking bill and the tax measures accounted for an unusually dull and sagging stock market today.

The news for the most part was discouraging but brightened somewhat after a statement in one of the steel reviews that industry would show some improvement within the next fortnight.

The gloom prevailing in the brokerage business was reflected by the sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership for $117,000, a new low price. Apathy with regard to railroad stocks was registered in the omission of the dividend by Northern Pacific, for many years considered one of the best railroad investment stocks.

Another unfavorable development was the revival of selling of bank stocks.

PRICE-CUTTING.

Price-cutting, a thorn in the sides of bankers and owners of securities, is reported to have spread to the electrical business.

General Electric and Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing companies, the two leaders, were said in the Street today to be competing for new business at the expense of prices.

TOBACCO EVENTS.

Some quiet absorption has been going on in the tobacco stocks by those thoroughly familiar with conditions in the industry. While the production of cigarets in February declined nearly 14 per cent, it is pointed out that earnings have not contracted by reason of the fact that since July 1, 1931, the tobacco companies have been getting 40 cents a thousand more for cigarets.

Therefore, earnings of the tobacco companies for the first six months of this year will compare favorably with those for the similar period last year.

SHORTS COVERING.

Part of the buying coming into the market and serving to offset liquidation reflects the activity of professional shorts who do not care to wait until the going into effect of the stock exchange's rule forbidding a brokerage house to lend stocks without customer's consent.

Judging from the character of the replies being received by brokerage houses asking for the consent of their customers to lend stocks, there will not be any material shrinkage in the volume of shares available for lending purposes. Many shorts, however, prefer to play safe and for that reason are taking advantage of all dips in the market to cover their outstanding commitments.

RAIL CONTROL GIVEN TO SOUTHERN PACIFIC

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today authorized the Southern Pacific Company to take over control of the St. Louis Southwestern railway on April 13.

The commission issued the order as a result of notice received from the Southern Pacific Company on February 26 accepting the conditions and terms on which the commission granted authority for it to take over the road.

The commission's order, although made public only today, was voted on March 14. It provided that the Southern Pacific Company should take control 30 days after the date of the order.

NEWBERRY, S. C., March 23.—(AP)—Accepting his self-defense plea, a jury acquitted L. W. Cody, chief of police at Whitmire, of a murder charge lodged against him after he killed J. M. Owens, a shoemaker, following a quarrel over a court case in the Whitmire town hall.

ATLANTA SPOT COTTON.

Atlanta spot cotton closed steady, 15 points down at 6.20. Receipts, 108; shipments, 51; stocks, 165,976.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Partial rallies from an early decline in cotton today were followed by a break in the late trading under a renewal of liquidation.

May rallied to 6.58 but broke to 6.46, new low ground for the movement, and closed at that figure. The general market closed easy at net declines of 14 to 18 points.

The opening was barely steady at declines of 5 to 10 points. Active months sold about 8 to 12 points net lower under early pressure with October declining to 6.91, but offerings were absorbed by trade buying and covering. This demand proved sufficient to steady the market.

Buying was not aggressive and prices broke rather sharply during the last half hour under selling. October declined to 6.85 and closing prices were at the lowest of the day with the active months showing declines of about 70 to 73 points from high prices touched early this month.

Trading in March contracts ended at midday. There was some last moment liquidation which sent the price off to 6.42 or about 11 points below May. The last sale, however, was at 6.51.

Liverpool cables reported general liquidation in that market on the fear of labor troubles in Lancashire. Exports today 28,973, making 6,673,303 so far this season. Port receipts 29,233. United States port stocks 4,462,382.

NEW ORLEANS SPOTS DECLINE 13-16 POINTS

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—(AP)—The cotton market was much more active today than it has been so far this week. Prices tended downward, influenced mainly by unfavorable cables and selling by Liverpool and Japanese interests in American markets, as well as by weakness in stocks. After losing 8 to 10 points in the early trading the market rallied 7 points on good trade buying but weakened again in the afternoon with stocks making lows 12 to 13 points under the highs. The close was barely steady, the general market showing net losses for the day of 13 to 16 points.

The market opened easier on poor cables. Liverpool came in 7 to 8 penny points worse than due, and private cables stated that there had been general liquidation in the market on fears of labor troubles in Lancashire. Manchester cabled that business was restricted in cloth and yarns.

Liverpool is due tomorrow on New Orleans, 3 penny points down.

Brokers' Views

Stock Letters.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Today's market again resolved itself into a trading session in which a low opening was followed by appreciable slow advance which in turn gave way to reaction.

Most support levels are holding well, particularly in oil and rail groups. With respect to former, there is some talk of crude price advances which appears somewhat premature. On the other hand, there is reason to anticipate gradual improvement in statistical position of industry, with firmness in both crude and gasoline prices. We continue to advocate a trading policy, believing protected commitments in leading and well-situated rails, public utilities and industrials are warranted on recessions.

DOBBS & CO.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The market, under the influence of selling in several issues, again sold off and closed on practically the lows of the day. There was a slight rally about midday, undoubtedly due to short covering, which did not hold. Volume was small, amounting to only 800,000 shares.

Among the stocks which seem to be under persistent pressure are American Telephone, General Motors and United States Steel. Reports are current that the earnings of General Motors will be disappointing for the first quarter, some estimates being as low as 11 cents a share, which fact would undoubtedly lead to a dividend cut. We again advise the purchase, on a scaledown, of securities of those corporations showing a strong cash position, with small or no funded debt and low inventories, which have shown an ability to earn their dividend requirements.

BEER & CO.

NEW YORK, March 23.—There was little change in today's quiet market, though final prices again showed a loss for the day and poorest action was in the closing half-hour. After the close omission of the Northern Pacific dividend was announced.

See no reasons as yet to feel that a buying point has been reached.

There may be a further sidewise move till after the holiday or there may be some further attempts at rallying, but fundamentals are too adverse to expect any sustained improvement and unfavorable dividend action in individual issues presents the danger of further declines that would weaken the entire market structure.

COURTS & CO.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The market has continued terribly dull again today with the exception of the Procter & Gamble stocks which at one time declined 4 points to the new low of 33 on fairly heavy selling. There has been small fluctuations in other stocks. Nothing definite yet has come from Washington as to the outcome of the debate on the tax bill and the balancing of the budget. It is still considered very possible that the outcome will be satisfactory. It must be remembered that the United States senate has a vote on this question before it has definitely been adopted. The bond market also was extremely dull and fractionally lower. The commodity market was irregular, cotton off from about 10 to 15 points, grain up three-fourths to 1 cent, and metals remained firm.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The market was stagnant until the final half hour when a selling movement in the rails depressed the general list to a point a little under yesterday's close. The probability of a reduction in the Northern Pacific dividend after the close offset the increase in weekly carloading figures and the better grade of monthly earnings statements which the roads are putting out for February.

Action of railroad stocks which have heretofore been the barometer of the bear market is being closely followed around these levels which are close to absolute record lows. Last week's low point for the Dow-Jones rail averages was 31.86 exactly half a point above the January 5 bear market bottom. Markets tomorrow and Saturday may show the effects of the Friday holiday.

Yesterday's average low of 33.06 was probably shaded a little today. Markets tomorrow and Saturday may show the effects of the Friday holiday.

Cotton Letters.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER.

NEW YORK, March 23.—There was a resumption of selling cotton futures at the opening and although the market showed rallying tendencies at times under short covering, the trend was lower practically throughout the session. Final prices were at lowest of the day and 14 to 18 points under the previous close. Hedge selling was in somewhat heavier volume than recently but the outstanding feature was selling from abroad. Liverpool interests were credited with large sales here presumably against purchases in that market based on narrowness of differences between the two. In the light of developments of past few days we doubt more than temporary technical recoveries for the present.

HUBBARD BROS.

NEW YORK, March 23.—After this morning's setback, due to overnight selling orders and lower Liverpool cables, the market firmed up and moved gradually upward toward last night's prices, but it could not quite recover the ground lost and toward early afternoon prices began to drift lower. Considerable selling was evidenced, presumably for far eastern account, coupled with this we had some tired, long liquidation and selling from the south. This was too much for the market to absorb and shortly went into new low ground for the movement. We believe that cotton should be bought on these setbacks and in the long run it should prove profitable.

LIVINGSTON & CO.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The initial impulse for today's decline came from weak cables which reflected the prospects of a strike in Manchester and continued uncertainty as to the actual attitude of the farm board concerning the marketing of their holdings of actuals which brought forth renewed liquidation. The downward trend was aided in the afternoon by heavy selling of July and October which some attributed to far eastern account.

There was also scattered selling by locals, the west, Wall Street and the south and this pressure brought about a net decline of around 15 points. Recent change in sentiment has been reflected in increased pressure and while there is apparently a broadening demand from trade and speculative resting orders it will doubtless require some development that will revive confidence to bring about any material advance although technical recoveries are to be expected at almost any time.

BEER & CO.

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—Liverpool cables were 7 to 9 penny points worse than due, which was probably responsible for a drop of 4 to 6 points in the local cotton market on opening. Liverpool cabled that there was general liquidation there on fear of labor troubles in Lancashire over the breakdown in discussions of the loom per weaver. The stock market had a poor start and cotton eased off a few more points after the call, strengthened a little later on and ruled relatively steady, but quiet, the remainder of the morning. The principal weakness in the market is attributed to uncertainty as to the farm board's policy in regard to its holdings. While the weather is dry today over the belt, the soil is still wet in many localities and farm work for cotton planting is still being delayed due to this and to the fact that replanting of food and feed crops recently killed is being given preference over cotton preparations.

Grain Letters.

FENNER, BEANE & UNGERLEIDER.

CHICAGO, March 23.—The extremely heavy liquidation which has been in progress all week appeared to have spent its force immediately after opening as prices rallied in face of continued weakness in Liverpool until their close. The advance was continued throughout the latter part of the session and Winnipeg, which had been very weak on the opening, fully kept pace with our late advance. Liverpool was demoralized, with all buyers out of the market and confidence was completely shaken and Buenos Aires, which had held steady throughout the decline in Liverpool and North American markets over the week-end, finally yielded to the general weakness, closing about 2 cents lower than yesterday and being another quarter down at noon. We feel that this week's decline has been largely sentimental and not warranted by conditions and that a good rally is due.

Although corn weakened at the start in sympathy with wheat, the market showed much better undertone and prices ruled firm throughout the rest of the session.

CHICAGO, March 23.—(AP)—Right-about-face action of the grain markets hoisted wheat prices more than 2 cents a bushel late today, compared with semi-demoralized breaks earlier.

The recovery was due to aggressive buying that set in after wheat had dropped to 49 7-8 cents, March delivery, approximating the all-time bottom record for cash wheat here, 48 3-4 cents.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1-8 to 7-8 cents above yesterday's finish, corn unchanged to 1-4 higher, oats 1-4 off to 1-8 up, and provisions varying from 5 cents decline to an equal advance.

Helping to promote subsequent rallies were indications of a revival of export demand for North American wheat, with estimates that 200,000 bushels or more of United States hard winter grade had been bought to be shipped to Europe.

Corn, oats and rye swayed responsive to wheat action with May oats temporarily selling at a new low record for the season.

IMPROVEMENT SHOWN IN BANKING SITUATION

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—The National Credit Corporation, organized last October to extend aid to banks throughout the country, will repay to subscribing banks 15 per cent of the amount advanced by them to the so-called banking pool, it was learned today.

The repayment, to be made on March 28, totals, with interest, about $20,000,000. It is the first refund made, and is taken as evidence of continued improvement in the banking situation.

Although the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is now fulfilling, in general, the services for which the National Credit Corporation was formed at President Hoover's request, it is said the latter is not to be liquidated.

During the period of emergency it loaned $155,000,000 to nearly 600 banks. Pledges to its capital fund amounted to $150,000,000, of which total $135,000,000 was actually paid in. Subscribing banks took the corporation's one-year gold notes.

BANKING SITUATION BETTER IN MISSISSIPPI

JACKSON, Miss., March 23.—(AP) J. S. Love, state superintendent of banks, in a survey of the state's banking situation made public today, expressed satisfaction with the progress made in reopening closed institutions and said: "The road ahead, though tedious and slow, is leading toward normal times."

In a review of 1931, Love said that of 75 banks which closed in the 1931-32 period, the doors of 42 had been reopened, and other reopenings were expected by April 1.

The survey asserted that the 42 reopened banks carry deposits of $11,247,332, while depositors funds remaining in closed institutions totaled $6,421,456.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Raw sugar closed unchanged today at 2.75. Only sales confirmed were 27,000 bags of Philippines for late March arrival to an operator at 2.77; 42,000 bags of Porto Rican and 63,000 bags of Philippines, for prompt shipment at 2.75 to a refiner.

Early upturns in futures were followed by reactions with the market closing net unchanged to 1 point higher.

The market opened 4 to 6 points higher in sympathy with the sharp advance in London. This caused rather general buying which carried May contracts up to .79 and December to .98.

Later the upturn was nearly all lost with May contracts selling down to .74 and December to .93, with final prices at the lowest of the session. Approximate sales were 56,050 tons. March closed .73; May .74; July .82; September .87; December .93; January .96.

Refined sugar prices were unchanged at 4.00 for fine granulated.

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—The bond market was in another hesitant mood today and, outside the United States government list, prices drifted quietly to lower levels.

Support was given the federal section throughout most of the session and five of the Liberty loans recorded new highs for the year. The 3 1-2s, which are completely tax exempt, touched par for the first time in many months.

Some of the high-grade utilities, industrials and railroads resisted flurries of liquidation during the day, but the majority were unable to register gains.

Weakness was shown by some bonds of Baltimore & Ohio and others. International Match 5s sagged, but Kreuger & Toll 5s recovered 2 points of their previous losses.

German government 5 1-2s rallied around 2 points following denials of rumors that the reich contemplated a moratorium on interest or amortization payments.

Sales totaled $9,156,000 par value.

BOND ISSUE SOUGHT BY BALTIMORE, OHIO

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The Baltimore & Ohio railroad today asked the interstate commerce commission for permission to issue $55,813,000 of its refunding and general mortgage 6 per cent bonds. The bonds, which are dated December 1, 1915, and which mature April 1, 2000, would be used as security for short-term loans.

The application did not say what these loans would be but it was generally understood about the commission that they would be available for use as security for loans from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

IRON AGE SEES UPTURN IN STEEL INDUSTRY

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—Based on definite business that seems to be "just around the corner," the steel industry looks forward to a seasonal rise in activities, and expects that the turn will come within the next two weeks, Iron Age declared today.

Business failed to improve in March, normally the month of peak operations. Ingot production continues at 25 per cent of capacity. The review says, expectations of betterment are predicated upon the fact that the Ford Motor Company must soon release large orders if it is to attain a volume production schedule early in April. Other automobile manufacturers are also expected to release business that has been held back because of restricted output.

Financial aid to railroads through the medium of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is expected to stimu' e equipment buying, the review asserts.

Efforts to strengthen steel prices are complicated at seaboard points because of growing foreign competition, it is stated.

BOARD WILL DISCUSS PLANS FOR BOND ISSUE

Robert R. Otis, chairman of the city planning commission, will select a committee of three to confer with various department heads and to devise plans for a issuance of bonds for public improvements, it was decided Wednesday by the commission.

Although the committee will make no recommendations, it will prepare studies and will be ready to give estimated costs, time for completion of any specific project and also will list the most urgent ones, it was indicated. A. Ten Eyck Brown, member of the commission, presented the resolution to create the special committee to co-operate with various city departments.

All petitions for rezoning were adversed by the commission, and a proposal to close Liberty street between Ella and Leonard streets, was referred to the city attorney for a ruling as to the jurisdiction of the commission in the matter.

CURB LIST HOLDS IN NARROW RANGE

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—The curb market again drifted uncertainly lower in sluggish trading today. Turnover of roughly 170,000 shares duplicated yesterday's volume.

Oils were steady to firm. Humble gained 1-2, and Gulf 1-4. Indiana was unchanged.

Mining issues were largely quiescent, although Bunker Hill and Sullivan appeared at 20, off 1 point and a new low. United Verde extension, a copper issue, sagged 1-4 point.

TARZAN AND THE ANT MEN No. 52

(Tarzan Begins at Fox Next Saturday)

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Bewildered, Tarzan knit his brows and looked long and steadily about him at the people in this strange enclosure. There were about one hundred of them, garbed and armed like the little men of Trohanadalmakus and Veltorismakus. But what he could not understand was that they were all men of about his own height! Who were they? Where was he? As consciousness spread slowly throughout his body he realized that he was in pain and that his arms felt heavy and numb.

He tried vainly to move them—they were securely bound. At last, after much effort, for he found he was very weak, Tarzan raised himself to a sitting posture and looked about him. The room was filled with warriors who looked exactly like the little Veltorismakusians. But, strangely enough, they were as large as normal men and the room itself was immense. Some of the men were seated upon benches; others lay stretched upon the hard earth.

Then it was that Tarzan saw that nearly all within the chamber were wounded. A few men seemed to be working over them. Some were garbed in white tunics, like the high caste slaves of Trohanadalmakus. Besides the wounded and the nurses, there were six armed warriors who were uninjured. One of these was the first to espy Tarzan after he had raised himself to a sitting position. "Ho!" shouted he. "The giant has come into his sense," and crossing the room he approached the ape-man.

Standing before him, his feet widespread, the fellow eyed Tarzan with a broad grin upon his face. "Your great bulk availed you little," he taunted, "and now we are as large as you! We, too, are giants, eh?" and he turned to his fellows who joined him in roars of laughter. Seeing he was a prisoner, surrounded by enemies, the ape-man fell back upon that lifelong characteristic of the wild beast—sullen silence. He made no reply, but sat there regarding them with a savage, level gaze.

Woman in Red, Screaming Fury, Attacks Borotra

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—A woman in red, screaming her fury from a front row balcony seat at the Seventh Regiment armory, attempted unsuccessfully to hurl a knife at Jean Borotra, French tennis star, during a doubles match of the Franco-United States indoor championships last night.

Her arm, flashing with gems, was drawn back as though to send the long paper knife her fingers held down upon the court, when it was seized by a man nearby. His fingers tightened about her wrist, and the knife fell harmlessly to the floor.

At the time of the attempted attack Borotra, paired with Antoine Gentien, was playing against the American team of George Lott and John Van Ryn.

Half a dozen men seated nearby went to the aid of the man who had stayed the woman's hand. She fought them furiously. Her red evening gown was torn, and she lost a slipper. She still was screaming when police later sought to question her. Finally, they sent her to Bellevue hospital for observation.

Her identity was not learned. She gave as many as eight names and addresses when questioned at the police station. Many fashionably garbed persons, riding up in costly, chauffeured motorcars, arrived at the police station while she was being questioned, but none was able to identify her.

GIRL SWIMMER TRAINING EARLY

she is imbued with an abundance of nervous energy, and is "scared" before every race. Then she plunges in and strokes to victory. Not a bad combination at all.

HE WAS RIGHT.

The story is told that when Miss Robert took her place on the edge of the beautiful Shoreham Club pool in Washington last Saturday night, a small lad avowed that she would not have a chance against the strong field. But another youngster promptly championed her cause by saying, "Say, look at that gal's shoulders!"

And that is perfectly true. Suppose you and you and you arose at 8 a. m., cold weather or hot, and drove to a downtown pool to put in an hour of serious training, not occasionally, but every day except Tuesday. Suppose you did. But hard training does not cause Louisa to lose weight; she is a perfect picture of health.

The secret ambition of Atlanta's ace girl swimmer, backstroke champion of the south, is to beat Eleanor Holm, world record holder. Strangely enough, there is a marked resemblance between them. The idea of beating Miss Holm isn't so remote, either, for Miss Robert has been negotiating the 100-yard backstroke in pretty fast time.

Among Miss Robert's "likes" are: Ice cream, tennis, horseback riding and other outdoor sports. Swimming, of course, is her hobby. And her beauty is contradictory to the average type of girl athlete. For she has been selected as a princess to represent Georgia in the apple blossom festival at Winchester, Va., in May.

Q. S. S. MANAGERS IN COLUMBIA, S. C., VISIT MILLS HERE

Headed by the president, first vice president and secretary-treasurer of the organization, approximately 30 managers of Quality Service Stores of Columbia, S. C., arrived in Atlanta Wednesday in company with Gabe A. Cohen, sales manager of the Atlanta Flour and Grain Company (Puritan Mills) and will remain in this city as guests of the local concern today and tomorrow.

Hite Byrum, president, Ben Davis, first vice president, and H. G. Brady, secretary-treasurer, were chief guests of the visiting party, whose purpose is to make contact at luncheons and dinners with leading representatives of Atlanta manufacturing organizations. Today they will be taken on a sight-seeing tour of the city and will meet Mayor James L. Key and Governor Richard B. Russell.

Assisting the Atlanta Flour and Grain Company in entertaining the visitors are the Kraft-Phenix Cheese Company, the National Biscuit Company and other local food product concerns.

HOUSE GROUP SEEKS SENTIMENT ON SILVER

WASHINGTON, March 23.—(AP)—The house committee studying silver has asked economists, bankers, or government officials of eight nations what their attitudes would be toward an international conference on the metal.

Chairman Somers of the house coinage committee made this known today as his group sat down to hear Bernard F. Baruch, financier, approve the international conference idea and say he thought the initiative for such a conference should be taken by the United States.

On the Air Today

The United States army band, under the leadership of William J. Stannard, will offer a special Easter program this afternoon from 3 to 3:30 o'clock, over the Columbia Broadcasting system and WGST.

The band will play four compositions, beginning with the processional to Calvary from "The Crucifixion," by Sir John Stainer. "The Crucifixion," described by its composer as a meditation, was written in 1887 for two solo voices and a chorus, interspersed with hymns by a congregation. The present arrangement for a military band was made by William C. White.

Herman Hupfeld, singing song-writer of the Hart, Schaffner & Marx and Zachry Trumpeters, will sing "She's Such a Comfort to Me" from "Wake Up and Dream," as well as the newest of his own compositions, "Baby Lies a Blue Suit Best of All," during the Trumpeters' program over the WABC-Columbia network and WGST from 9 to 9:30 o'clock tonight.

A program of short works, emphasizing the colorful and descriptive in musical composition, has been arranged by Howard Barlow, conductor of the Columbia Symphony orchestra, for the concert to be heard over the WABC-Columbia chain and WGST today, Thursday, March 24, from 10 to 10:15. Toscha Seidel, famous violinist, will be the solo feature.

Elizabeth Connor Lindsay, widow of Vachel Lindsay, famed "Vagabond Poet," and herself a poet, writer and lecturer, will be heard in several recitations as guest artist with Jill and Judy in their program over an NBC-WJZ network from Chicago, this morning at 10:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Lindsay will read some of her own and some of her husband's poetry and will tell some interesting facts about the late writer.

The acceptance was made known at the chicken dinner given by Chief C. W. Munn, of the Decatur department, at his home, 105 Trinity place, in celebration of his first anniversary as head of the Decatur fire department.

Attending the dinner, in addition to members of the suburban fire company, were W. H. Weaver, city manager of Decatur; Chief Terrell and J. R. Seawright, chairman of the Atlanta board of firemasters. Members of the Decatur unit presented Chief Munn with a handsome belt buckle and watch chain.

STATION L-O-V-E BY CRAIG CARROLL

CHAPTER VII.

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE: When Judy Allison had been in Chicago for six months without finding work her father wired her to return to her small-town home. Downcast by her failure, she went to the tea room in her rooming house. Dick Mason, chief radio announcer at WAOA, sat at her table. Impulsively Judy showed Dick her father's telegram. Following Dick's insistence, she reported for a radio tryout the following morning. From all the applicants, she was chosen for the "Beauty Builders'" program. She meets Elton Day, writer of the script for her program.

"She won't. She wouldn't, anyhow. Girls aren't like that."

"No?" he laughed at her innocence. "Girls, eh?" You ought to see them as I see them. They're no fools, not any of them. They want jobs, and they'll go to any length to get jobs. And that girl, that Burdette girl, most of all. She's bad medicine, that's all I'm warning you."

In spite of herself, Judy felt a faint and growing fear. The girl had looked so confident, so deadly, so sure she could do whatever she wanted to do.

Judy got up. She picked up her handbag. Then she found that Elton Day stood before her, barring the way.

"Let me go," she said.

"No."

"People are looking at us."

"They can't help it. You're so beautiful."

"Oh——"

He took her arm. With a quick gesture, he extracted a roll of bills from his pocket, dropped one on the table, signed for the waiter to keep the change. Now he led Judy past the tables, toward the door. Judy, helpless, her face scarlet, her head whirling, found she was being led toward the corridor, and toward the elevator.

She saw, standing near the elevator, Lona Burdette. The girl looked at her casually, almost contemptuously, with enormous insult in her cold green eyes. So much insult that Judy started toward her, not knowing what she was going to do, only knowing she must do something, must drive fear out of her heart by action, now, at once.

Lona Burdette shot a malicious glance at Judy. Then she laughed loudly, so Judy would be sure to hear. She said something in a low voice to a man who stood near her. Some man from station WAOA, Judy knew. And what the girl was saying was something unpleasant and about Judy. And the man would repeat what was said. That was why the Burdette girl was saying it.

Judy knew that Elton Day's face had a strange, almost worried, look as he stood beside her. Then she was inside the elevator, standing beside him.

"Seventeen," he said quickly, as the door closed.

This was too much. Not bewilderment at Elton Day, not fear of the cold menace in the girl's eyes, could stop Judy now.

"Stop," she said sharply, moving forward. "I want to get out."

"But I want to get out," Judy said, feeling like a small child crying for candy.

"Sorry," the operator said.

"Thanks," said Elton Day. And as the elevator stopped, as the door clanged open, he whisked out a bill with a lightning motion stuffed it into the operator's hand, murmured, "See to it you don't ever stop before the seventeenth!" and took Judy's arm with a careless, possessive, easy gesture.

Then things happened.

Judy stepped back. She looked at Elton Day slowly, carefully.

"I don't like you after all," she said slowly, weighing the words. "I don't like you at all."

"But . . ."

"Back home," she said carefully, "we have a word for people like you. It's a country word and maybe you wouldn't remember it. We say they are too fresh to live."

He began to laugh. She couldn't help noticing, even in her anger that he had beautifully even teeth. And she couldn't help knowing that Elton Day knew his teeth were white and even and she couldn't help feeling he had practiced that laugh in front of his mirror for many hours.

She pushed the "down" button. Almost in the same second, a red light showed, a car moved down to the floor, the door opened. Judy stepped toward the car.

"No," said Elton, loudly. "We've changed our minds. Go on, Jim!"

The door clanged shut. The car was gone.

"Now," he said quietly, "We're going to talk a little bit, you and I. And if you won't talk here, I'll follow you and talk wherever you stop. And if it takes 10 years to catch up—I'll still be following you. And—oh, hello, Mrs. Morrissey. How'd the show go? That so? Good. I knew you could do it. And Mrs. McGovern! Fancy seeing you. . . ."

People were all around Judy. None of the nice young men Judy had ever known would have embarrassed her by speaking out in front of other people. But this man would, and she knew it. And the rules she had learned back home meant nothing now.

"My friend, Miss Allison," he was saying.

She managed, "How do you do?" She shook hands with Mrs. Morrissey, whose hands were fat, and with Mrs. McGovern, whose hands were thin and cold and limp. And then she realized that she was walking with them, talking. Saying "yes" when Mrs. Morrissey said it was a very cold day. Saying "no" when Mrs. McGovern asked if she went to the So-and-So Club. Saying "yes" when Mrs. Morrissey informed her that radio was very interesting work.

"Sorry," said Elton Day to Mrs. Morrissey and Mrs. McGovern. "This is my office and Miss Allison and I have to go over a continuity for tomorrow. See you again. Here you are, Judy."

"You're not crazy," Judy said conversationally. "Not really. You just want to be."

"And, who doesn't? Is there anything in being sane? Why, if you stay sane, you'll go mad. So why not be mad in the first place? Why not, indeed?"

"I told you a minute ago I don't like you."

"You'll not say that many times more."

"Why not?"

"Because I knew the moment I saw you that your mother brought you up to tell the truth. And when you didn't tell the truth, you got your mouth washed out with soapsuds. And when you say you don't like me you're not telling the truth. So—wait a minute!"

From a desk he extracted a cake of soap. He began to rip off the wrapper, he took the top from a water carafe on his desk.

"Open your mouth!" he said.

"I won't."

"Must I use force?"

Judy regarded his thin hands. Then she flexed her own capable arm.

"If you do," she said coldly, "you're likely to get hurt. And I'm sure the great Elton Day wouldn't like that."

"Oh!" He staggered back in mock terror. "Surely you wouldn't strike me? Surely you wouldn't do that?"

"I'd be glad to," she said.

But would she? Did she hate him? Did she want to jerk his perfect tie away from his perfect collar? She should be sure. She should be angry. She wasn't. She knew it. In a moment, in five minutes, she would be laughing. That would be surrender. Laughing at Elton Day was a way of saying: "You win." She mustn't laugh, mustn't make him think she wanted to hear him talk. She must go.

"I'm going now," she said. "It's been almost as good as a show. But I'm not very fond of comedians."

"Neither am I."

"I thought you were one."

"Only in my serious moments."

"What?"

MISSOURI STUDENT HELD IN SHOOTING

Three Hurt in Campus Feud Between Law, Engineering Factions.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 23.—(AP) Burnis Frederick, University of Missouri law student, was under bond of $1,000 tonight on a charge of carrying concealed weapons, pending the outcome of serious wounds suffered by Frank Luckey, an engineering student, in an outbreak of a feud between the engineering and law schools here last night.

Meanwhile two investigations of the fracas—one by civil authorities and another by university officals—were under way. The shootings grew out of the "kidnaping" of Miss Mary Butterfield, of Kansas City, Saturday night, just before she was to be crowned queen of St. Patrick's ball, an engineers function.

Two other students, Jerry Cebe, St. Louis, and Charles Love, Jefferson City, were shot and wounded, not seriously, and Frederick was slugged.

Frederick told Prosecuting Attorney Franklin E. Reagan that he fired six shots when a group of engineering students attacked him and a companion as they were leaving a private home to enter a taxicab. Frederick, who is also in the university hospital with a head wound, arranged to make a $1,000 bond on the concealed weapon charge.

The university, through Dean Albert K. Heckel and the university disciplinary committee, launched an investigation today, although it was at a standstill tonight pending outcome of Luckey's wounds.

Dr. Walter Williams, president of the university, declared in a statement that "college pranks are indefensible when they degenerate into lawlessness." He said "those guilty of transgressing the laws of the university will be summarily dealt with."

Miss Butterfield was held captive nine hours Saturday night by Frederick and three fellow law students and was returned to the campus too late for her coronation as St. Pat's queen.

Normalcy appeared to prevail on the campus today, with the university's 3,800 students preparing to leave tomorrow for the Easter holidays.

Last night's fight was not the first between the two schools. The feud has been traditional at Missouri and in a number of other universities and colleges in the country, having similar schools.

No apparent basis exists for the differences of the students, although at Missouri the law students pride themselves on being the best dressed—carrying canes and affecting other niceties of dress—in stark contrast to the corduroys and boots of the engineers. None of the other fights, however, ever reached the degree of violence exhibited in this outbreak.

FARMER GIVEN PLAN TO INCREASE PROFIT

NEW YORK, March 23.—(AP)—That American cotton growers can cut their present average production costs in half and increase their ten-year income by $6,500,000,000 was the opinion expressed by Horace Bowker, president of the American Agricultural Chemical Company, in a statement issued today.

It was found, Mr. Bowker stated, that by using only the better land, the right seed, proper tillage and careful cultivation, it was possible to increase the average cotton yield from 200.1 pounds of lint per acre to 410 pounds.

"By increasing the per-acre yield 107 per cent," Mr. Bowker explained, "the survey shows that the cost of producing each pound of cotton is reduced from last season's record low national average of 12 cents to an average of 6.4 cents per pound of lint."

"Nothing but contracts will stop these complaints," he added.

THREE CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH IN VIRGINIA FIRE

A two-gallon can of gasoline, thought to have been upset by the boy and girl playing in the kitchen, was ignited by the stove, and the flames, leaping from room to room, soon enveloped the building.

State treasury officials Wednesday were engaged in writing more than 400 separate checks in preparation to mail to the common schools of the state $2,000,000 derived from a recent loan.

The city of Atlanta will receive $121,790, while Fulton county will receive $44,291 plus an additional $1,575 from the Barrett Rogers apportionment.

M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of schools, whose office was busy preparing the table for distribution, said that the funds received at this time would enable the schools to continue to operate the remainder of the present term.

The checks represent more than 45 per cent of this year's total appropriation for the schools. Barrett-Rogers High schools will receive out of this sum 45 per cent of their total legislative appropriation for 1932.

The money is divided into three funds, those going directly to the elementary or county systems, a part to city systems and the remainder to the Barrett-Rogers high schools.

The local or city systems will receive $308,100; the county systems $1,472,075, and the Barrett-Rogers schools $219,825, which is paid to the county systems for distribution.

MOHAWK

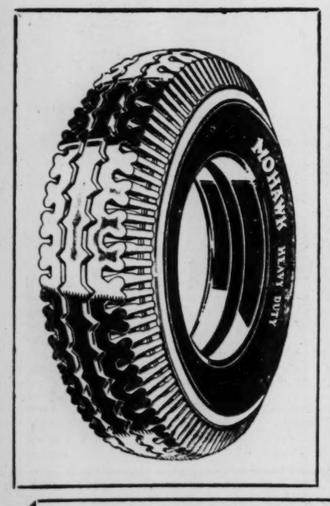

America's Finest Quality Tires

Guaranteed 12 Months Unconditionally

Even if speeds were twice as great as they are today and other motoring hazards likewise multiplied—you could still ride on Mohawks.

In keeping with today's motoring problems we find after careful tests that Mohawk Tires and Tubes are built to the most nearly 100 per cent perfect service.

—Let Us Prove This—

Mohawks Now no Higher Than Ordinary Tires

You have been asked more for a Mohawk Tire in the past (and they were worth it); now through carload buying we bring this truly remarkable tire to you at the price of ordinary mass production tires. Mohawk does not manufacture car equipment (cheap tires) and give them to the car manufacturer, and later ask you to buy the replacement tire at more than they are worth, to make up for their loss.

Let us or our associate dealer trade you a set of these truly custom built tires for your old tires.
